A merchant once said that he did not notice because nobody ever read it. This does not apply to the Star. If he could have been on the telephone after that liquor ad slipped in last week, he would have carried a lifetime contract with us.

The New Deal may be carrying us into untrodden fields in many ways, but not with regard to the weather. A record for the lowest temperature, accompanied by a snow sufficient to attract numerous sleighing parties, surely must bring some faint recollection of the past. Call this to the attention of the professors.

It is reassuring to note among all the suggestions for football rules changes that there is an occasional figure of prominence in connection with the game who feels that the primary aim of the rules is after all to provide all possible safety for the boys who play it and, the loud clamor to the contrary notwithstanding, not to provide thrills for the spectators. Schoolboys and most college men play football for fun and physical benefit. Professionals play it for just one thing, the money involved. If the latter care to risk their necks to provide thrills for the fans who "ride" them from the bleachers, that is their lookout. Spectator thrills would not be the rules yardstick for amateur football.

The Star received this week by telephone from a Winchester lady information that a group of women will boycott the paper unless it gives them assurance that it will not print advertisements of epithets. This assurance was refused. The Star has been printed in Winchester for some fifty-four years. It is not the policy of the paper to print advertisements of epithets and attitude both towards the Town and its people has been amply demonstrated, and it stands squarely on this ground. It is not the policy of the paper to print advertisements of epithets and attitude both towards the Town and its people has been amply demonstrated, and it stands squarely on this ground. It is not the policy of the paper to print advertisements of epithets and attitude both towards the Town and its people has been amply demonstrated, and it stands squarely on this ground.

The Star has on previous occasions voiced complaint at the unrestricted scattering of advertising circulars, leaflets and all kinds of advertising matter about town. The problem, which appears to be growing along with the New Deal, should be stopped. Not only is this circular advertising stuff a nuisance, but it is thrown over the door-steps, but with its increased use the carriers are even opening unlocked doors and throwing their contents into the house itself. These carriers may or may not be trustworthy, but such uninvited practice surely gives any so inclined an excellent excuse for further trespassing upon private property. The fact that a thousand and one firms can give unheard of service and lowest prices at little moment to the average householder. The fact that he is obliged to police his grounds and even the halls of his home is an annoying and unnecessary burden. A few years ago this condition would not be tolerated. Today it is accepted by many as an unavoidable part of present conditions. The practice gives every carrier a good and valid license to trespass where he will and apparently the police are powerless to prevent it. A town by-law forbidding such distribution would work as much good as that which the legislature has not seen fit to enact.

LOW TEMPERATURE RECORD

Jan. 3, 1934
To the Editor of the Star:
Lester F. Smith an old pupil of mine in the Winchester High School writes me that this present cold broke the "thermometer record kept by my father and myself for over 60 years by two degrees."

MISS HESSION ENGAGED

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Mary Hession, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Hession of Richardson street to Charles Patch of Reading.

Special Officer Frank P. Zafina reported at Headquarters on Tuesday that an Arlington taxi operator reported an injury to a fare he was taking to Winchester Monday night as the result of his machine striking a bad place in the road said to be caused by the recent reconstruction work there. Chief Rogers at once communicated with the Department of Public Works, calling attention to the fact that he had previously complained of that particular defect in the road.

WOMEN'S REPUBLICAN CLUB

The regular meeting of the Women's Republican Club was held Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 3, in Association Hall, with the president, Mrs. Ashley K. Hayden in the chair. Mrs. Hayden extended sincere wishes for a happy and prosperous New Year to all club members. She spoke of the 70th Congress now opening in Washington and of the intense public interest in the course of action this Congress would take. Mrs. Hayden then read a resolution by 64 prominent educators setting forth the ill of inflation and as an interesting and apt parallel to the problems of our own times a letter by Grover Cleveland in 1893 to the Governor of Georgia, asking for a currency, satisfactory both at home and abroad; pointing out that this alone could permanently benefit the country.

Following the regular business meeting, Mrs. Hayden presented Mrs. Louis K. Snyder, past president and a member of the Republican State Committee, who spoke to club members concerning the Pre-Primary Convention, which will enable the Republican State Committee to endorse candidates for the primaries and upon everyone the responsibility and necessity for voting in the primary elections. Mrs. Snyder also gave a very comprehensive talk on "Sound Money," which has been a principle of the Republican Party.

Mrs. Hayden introduced Mr. Arthur Cushman, pianist, guest artist, who presented the musical program for the afternoon. Their first group, executed with a rare understanding and technique, was enthusiastically received and included:

Soprano: Thelma Walter
Soprano: Dorothea Elsie
Soprano: Dorothea Elsie

The speaker for the afternoon, Mr. James H. Powers, foreign editor and editorial writer of the Boston Globe, was now presented by Mrs. Hayden, who designated him as a student of International affairs, a keen analyst and an eminent figure in the world of literature. She alluded particularly to his well known book, "Years of Tumult."

A few paragraphs are inadequate to do justice to Mr. Powers' brilliant discussion and can only present a summary of his discourse. In opening, Mr. Powers declared that this is the proper moment to look outside our own national doorway, although there is much to hold our attention here at home and to study the nature of the current, flowing through the world. He then proceeded to give a brief but graphic outline of the main happenings of the late 19th century up to the present day. The 19th century (period from the invention of the steam engine to the World War) he designated as an era of Industrial Individualism, which began in England, spread to France, United States, Germany and Italy. The whole foundation of the security and growth of this era lay in the fact that the backward countries furnished markets for exploitation; hence Industrial Individualism was not until the end of the 19th century of Germany collided with those of Great Britain and France. The World War resulted and brought a definite change in the world. The world was now saddled with debt, had lost millions of men through death and disability and had no backward markets to exploit.

From the World War to the present said Mr. Powers, we have had a period of transition toward a new era, with uncertainty and confusion the natural results. Immediately after the war every nation made a hectic effort to propel forward on the old theory of Industrial Individualism and the results, immediately after the war ended was slow. Indeed in the United States there was no recognition of this fact from 1919-1929, when we tried to carry out the dream of Versailles. For the United States, the transition period can be reckoned from 1919-1933 when we began to rethink policies and reshape ideas.

Mr. Powers next sketched briefly the transition period abroad. From 1917-1922 chaos reigned in Russia. Lenin died and the plan for an Industrial Planned Society. The first five year plan resulted. This completed a year of rest ensued and then the second five year plan was undertaken with Russia now on the way to a planned Communist Society. Nor is Russia alone in her planned social century. In 1922-1929 Mussolini rose to power in Italy and for about six years did not know what his policy was to be. In 1928 came the corporate state in Italy and the Italian Fascist movement now is toward a planned economy. Hitler's aim too, though so far a failure, is toward a planned economy. England, ever noted for her hard headed business sense, definitely tended toward a planned economy on an imperial basis through her Conference at Ottawa. In fact all over the map of Europe we note the trend toward a planned economy and the trend in Japan in the Japanese People's Party.

By her attempt to regulate agriculture and industry the United States, the most powerful and resourceful nation in the world, is the course of a planned economy. With so many nations tending toward the same goal, said Mr. Powers, there is toward a planned economy. England, ever noted for her hard headed business sense, definitely tended toward a planned economy on an imperial basis through her Conference at Ottawa. In fact all over the map of Europe we note the trend toward a planned economy and the trend in Japan in the Japanese People's Party.

The program closed with two selections by Mr. Ekin and Mr. Cushman. The first, "The Rose," by MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose" and a gay lilt Spanish Dance by Sarasate.

SEEN IN OUR SHOPS

Doesn't it make you feel like planning ahead when you look at one of the new calendars? Days seem so many ahead, surely now we can catch up with the old jobs and small duties that have accumulated. But, as always, in these busy times, the days do go quickly, and truly January isn't too early to think of spring sewing, spring cleaning and freshening up your home. Right now in Winchester, our shops and service houses are anticipating your wants and are ready for a rush. For instance, at the Winchester Laundries, Inc. for the month, until the 15th of January the Laundry is offering a 20 per cent reduction to you on the price to wash curtains. Quite a saving and surely will be appreciated. Just about this mid-winter time to freshen our curtains does give new life to our rooms and makes these next weeks left of winter more enjoyable—from the inside looking out.

Banerofts—And speaking of sewing! Mr. Baneroft has been forehanded and even now has some most attractive spring prints in from 25c up. One just can't have too many house or porch dresses—and the revival in home sewing is making it possible to have these inexpensively. Such a pleasure when the unexpected warm days come in March to find hanging a new fresh frock. The Butterick Patterns he carries are easy to cut from, and follow in making—and they have style, too!

Felt Planning—Did the cold days—and weren't they cold! did you with water pipe or heater trouble? Something you have "let go" or hoped would see you through this season just give way in that zero weather? Many there are and they are calling the Fells Plumbing Company for these emergency jobs. And, because the work when finished is complete, readily done and satisfying they are recommending them to their friends and neighbors. If you are not acquainted with the Fells Plumbing Company, call Win. 0903 for your next plumbing job and get service.

Randall's—You perhaps have been served one of Randall's Special Lunches—but do you know, this is a year "round service. At the tables or at the counter there is quick, courteous attention, whether it is but a sandwich or a full dinner. During the week several hundred persons to be served. Be one of them, and try a mid-winter special. You will enjoy it and come again.

ROTARY CLUB

There were four absentees from the meeting of Jan. 3, 1934. We are informed that Harry Winn is fighting a serious case of grippe. Surely it must be something extraordinary which keeps Harry away from a Rotary meeting. We shall expect him to be present next week with a detailed account of this matter.

Our next we call attention to the Regional District Assembly which is to convene at Hotel Hawthorne, Salem on Monday, Jan. 15 from 2 to 9 p. m. All Rotarians are welcome to attend with their ladies. Club officers and committee chairmen are expected to be present. We hope for a larger attendance than that which is now indicated. Please inform the secretary immediately of your intention to attend at Salem on the 15th.

The speaker at the meeting of last Thursday was Mr. Roberts of Melrose, who delivered an address entitled "Your House and Mine in 1944." The object of this presentation was to call attention to modern accomplishments in the science of residential engineering, air-conditioning, together with a forecast of what is to be expected in this field in the years just ahead. Apparently it is difficult to overstate the magnitude of the knowledge of this subject existing in the case of new construction; nevertheless it is quite possible for the householder to make large savings in his fuel-bill by adapting his residence to that end in accordance with the advice of expert engineers.

Percentage of Attendance Dec. 28—76.92 per cent.
Average Attendance for December—82.89 per cent.

GREETINGS FROM WINCHESTER, ENGLAND

The Star received this Christmas an interesting Christmas card from Alderman and Mrs. Harry Collis who will be pleasantly remembered as Mayor of Winchester in 1932. During the Tercentenary celebration in 1939.

The card is a handsome hand-colored reproduction of the Winchester City Bridge, and enclosed is a note to the Editor which is of sufficient general interest to be reproduced as follows:

INTERESTING POLICE FIGURES

The following figures may prove of interest to those who wonder just how the time of members of the Police Department is taken up during their hours on duty.

In 1933 the local department made 413 arrests, divided partially as follows: made 297; females 16; juveniles 15; residents, 198; non-residents, 215; drunks, 194 (111 in 1932); larceny, 21; operating drunk, 22; safe opening, 45; violating motor vehicle laws.

Of these, 78 were fined and paid; 165 were placed on file, 124 released on request; 28 sentenced to the House of Correction with sentence suspended; 11 committed to the House of Correction; and 19 found not guilty.

The department covered 68,450 miles in automobiles, investigated 1122 cases, investigated specifically 191 accidents reported; and made 32,662 duty calls. Six hundred and eighty-five cases involving dogs, but exclusive of barking dogs, claimed police attention and 26 lost children were restored to parents or guardians. Three hundred and ninety-eight houses were cared for during the year.

Property to the estimated value of $7,186.32 was stolen in Winchester in 1933, the estimated value of that recovered by the police being $6,522.25. Five auto's were stolen and all recovered, nine machines stolen outside Winchester being recovered here. Sixteen of the 19 houses stolen in Winchester were recovered.

These figures of course represent only a part of the work done by the police during the year past, but they should be sufficient to indicate that the department is kept busy most of the 24 hours in the day.

WAS FATHER OF MRS. KENNETH GRANT

Howard Alonzo Wilkinson, vice-president of the Standard Oil Company of New York who died Jan. 2 at his home in New Rochelle, N. Y., after more than a year's illness, was the father of Mrs. Kenneth Grant of Church street. Besides Mrs. Grant he leaves his wife, Mrs. L. Gertrude Wilkinson; a son, Roger M. Wilkinson of New York City; a brother, Fenwick Wilkinson of Lynnfield; a sister, Mrs. Mary Robinson of Gloucester; and three grandchildren.

Mr. Wilkinson had many friends in Winchester, made during his 17 years' residence in Medford when he was a member of the Winchester Country Club. He was born in Milford, N. S., but came as a boy to Massachusetts and was graduated from Charlestown High School, going from school into the employ of the Standard Oil Company and commencing at that time an association which continued for 46 years until his retirement in Jan. 1932.

While living in Medford he was general manager of the Boston District and later, director in charge of domestic sales, holding this post until 1920 when he removed to New Rochelle.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By Ann Page

The householder's market should find it easy to provide her family with a varied diet and yet keep within her budget these days.

Meats are relatively low in price. Especially low even compared to last year is fowl for fricassee. Fish are not so plentiful nor low priced when the weather is cold or stormy as it is in summer but supplies are adequate.

Vegetables continue to be plentiful and moderate in price. Spinach and string beans offer outstanding values.

New cabbage and potatoes are beginning to come into market. Tomatoes are more plentiful than in recent weeks.

Strawberries are here. Grapefruit, oranges and apples, however, dominate the fruit market.

The Quaker makes these three dinner menus.

LIQUOR SCANDAL REVEALED AT HEARINGS

At the House Ways and Means Committee hearings Representative O'Connor of New York, an ardent friend of the dry and prohibition, testified as follows: "I have been informed that two groups control 90 per cent of the dry and prohibition in the country. They are the National Distillers and the Schenley Distillers."

He even thought regional sound and the scandal of the liquor traffic, only to find today the attempted Federal regulation plus the multitudinous regulations of the states have opened the door to more opportunities for influence than ever existed under prohibition. Distillers who have control of the few million gallons of aged whiskey in this country have not been asleep. They have been on the job all the year. Their lobby in Washington has had its representative working on members of Congress, the Treasury Department, the Secretary of State, the Department of Agriculture and even the White House."

CONCERT BY THE BAPTIST CHURCH

The audience which succeeded in reaching the First Baptist Church last Friday evening, was rewarded with a delightful program of old-fashioned music.

The chorus was fully directed by the choir master, Edward W. Hall, who is also the leader of the excellent male quartet of the church. Impromptu actions of the choir and explanations by the director added much to the merit of this informal affair.

Special features were solos by Elizabeth M. Weld, Betty Alden Perry, Avard I. Walker and Leonard O. Waters; a duet by Elizabeth M. Clark and Doris Emery; and a song by the male quartet, composed of Leon E. Lewis, Edward W. Hall, Alfred O. Weld and Charles E. Ward.

"Reuben and Rachel" sung by Betty Alden Perry and Albert B. Selby brought forth much applause and laughter. The audience demanded encores after all of these special numbers.

The chorus sang the following songs: "A Merry Heart" (with solo by Mr. Hall), "Cousin Jedediah," "Old Folks at Home," "Jerusalem, My Glorious Home," "Anvil Chorus," by the men; and a group of old college songs with the audience joining in the choruses.

Peppermints were passed during the intermission while choir and audience visited together, and fruit punch and cookies were served at the close of the evening, by the social committee and Women's League.

The concert was sponsored by the Music Committee of the First Baptist Church; Elizabeth M. Weld, Alice M. Abbott and Ida H. Tufts, chairman. Many requests have been received for another performance later in the season.

WINTON CLUB WORKING HARD FOR ANNUAL CHARITY CABARET

With the Cabaret dates announced for Feb. 9 and 10 at the Town Hall and the committees chosen, all Winton Club members are co-operating to secure the largest financial return possible from this social affair to further their work for the Winchester. Though the hospital is not running to capacity and the demand for linen and surgical sewing has been less than for several years, the financial need is greater. And so, as always the Winton Club will have to meet any request made for its help.

The concert meeting was held Monday at the home of Mrs. Edward V. French of Ledgewood road, Mrs. J. Harper Blaisdell, president, conducted the meeting while the 45 members present assisted the Work Committee, Mrs. French, chairman, by sewing, cheerful and intriguing costumes for the show. Mrs. Henry K. Spencer, chairman of the Cabaret Committee told of their plans. The rehearsals have started at the Country Club under the able coaching of Mr. Frederic Child of Concord. Many of our prominent young people are to take part again this year and with out doubt the Cabaret will be one of the outstanding social evenings of the winter season.

HIGHLAND COMMUNITY CLUB

The regular meeting of the Highland Community Club was held Monday evening, Jan. 8 at 8 o'clock in the Second Congregational Church.

Ruth Morrow who had been chosen hostess for this meeting cooked the meal assisted by Catherine Shea and Madeline Gurney. The menu consisted of the following: American Chop Suey, Lemon Jello Salad, Iune Punch.

After the meal the hostess gave the recipes of the food she had prepared, after which the meeting was adjourned.

Miss William Baracher left town Monday after visiting her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Martin of Church street.

SLIPPERY DRIVING

Seldom have Winchester's streets been in worse shape for motor traffic than was the case last Friday night, the rain pouring down the early morning snow resulting in conditions which approached glare ice in many places.

Specific complaints about the conditions at Symmes corner and on Bacon street caused Lieut. John A. Harrell to send Patrol 51 to that place to prevent traffic jams due to stalled machines. Additional complaints were received of icy going on Everett road and on Main street at Black Horse Hill.

At 9:20 o'clock Friday evening Richard MacAdams of 194 Forest street reported to the police that while he was going north on Main street at Black Horse Hill he was obliged to stop to avoid two trucks which had skidded on the ice across the roadway. As his car stopped it was in collision with a Chevrolet sport coupe, also going north and being driven by Nathan Rotman of 14 Hubbard street, Roxbury. Both cars were damaged, but no one was injured.

A phone call from a resident of Edgemoor road, received at Headquarters at 10:58 p. m., informed the police that a big truck was stuck on Main street near Symmes corner. Patrol 52, upon arrival, found a tank truck, owned by the Petroleum Heat and Power Company of Cambridge, stuck crosswise on Edgemoor road. The driver informed the police that he was unable to move the machine and had notified the company's wrecker to come and tow it away. Red warning lanterns were placed upon it by the police.

Saturday evening shortly before 8 o'clock a Mack tank truck, owned by the North Union Oil Transportation Company and driven by James F. Hogan of 12 Hawthorne street, Somerville, while going south on Bacon street, skidded near Water street and slid sideways into a Ford sedan, owned by Thomas McGarry of 10 Hart place, Woburn, and parked on Main street in front of Vay's Barber Shop. The impact of the truck pushed the Ford ahead and demolished the rear end of the machine, but did not damage the truck which continued to slide down hill, stopping near Richardson street. No one was injured.

WINCHESTER BOY HEARD PRESIDENT READ MESSAGE

Harold F. Ambrose, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Ambrose of Vine street, who is in Washington as publicist for the Post Office Department, was one of those who heard President Franklin D. Roosevelt deliver his message to the United States in a joint session of the United States Senate and House of Representatives. He had previously seen Senator O'Mahoney, who is well known in Winchester, take his administrative oath of office.

Mr. Ambrose reports that the opening of the 73rd session of Congress was one crowded with dramatic moments, and mentioned particularly the presence of Vice President John Nance Garner implored the aid of the Almighty to restore peace and prosperity to the country. It was also especially impressive to see President Roosevelt arrive at the Capitol, escorted by a heavy guard of secret service men, and go on to deliver his message which every available inch of space was jammed with those eager to get a glimpse of the Nation's chief executive.

Mr. Ambrose's position brings him in close contact with many persons high in official circles at the Capitol, and he recently enjoyed a long chat with Vice President Garner at the reception given by the postal employees for Postmaster General Farley.

CURLING UNDER WAY AT THE COUNTRY CLUB

On the first week-end of ice, there will be informal curling matches on the Country Club pond for all club members, who are interested. The experienced curlers will assist all new players in learning this ancient winter sport, which is now very popular during the season of the country.

Curling teams will later be made up and matches will be held to compete for the Club Curling trophies.

The Charles W. Young and Alfred J. White Cups.

Plans are being made for Inter-Club curling matches with the Boston Curling Club, Nashua Country Club and Worcester Curling Club.

Last year two Winchester Country Club Curling teams took part in the Country Club, Brookline, and International Curling Bongsail. During the same season the Winchester Curlers won the District Curling medal, presented by the Grand National Curling Club of America.

This year it is planned to enter one or two teams in these same events, but also to compete for the Worcester Curling Club, Curling Trophy. These matches will be played at the Country Club, Brookline, indoor Curling rink.

Members of the Winchester Country Club, who wish to take up curling and desire to participate in the club matches, are requested to leave their names with Harry Bowler, the club manager, and report on the club pond the first week-end when there is ice.

MICHAEL DIFLEY

Michael Difley, for many years a resident of Winchester, died Friday evening, Jan. 5, at his home on Elmwood avenue, after a long illness. He never fully recovered from injuries sustained in a fall on Swanton street during a severe storm in the winter of 1919. He had been retired since that time.

Mr. Difley was the son of Patrick and Mary (Monahan) Difley and was born March 1, 1873, in Freetown, N. H. His long residence in Winchester had made him many friends among old residents of the town. There are no immediate survivors.

The funeral was held from the late residence Monday morning with high mass of requiem in St. Mary's Church.

BOSTON CLUB OF LELAND POWERS ALUMNAE CLUB ENTER-TAINED IN WINCHESTER

Monday afternoon of this week, Mrs. Harold F. Meyer of Sheffield west of her home for the mid-winter meeting of the Boston Club of the Leland Powers Alumnae Club. Interesting business was brought before the members by Mrs. Hubert Stranahan, president. Mrs. Wilma Dearborn Carter, an alumnae, entertained during the social hour by reading the three act play, "Silver Cord" which many have seen delightfully interpreted by Laura Illope Crews. Following the meeting's adjournment coffee and sandwiches were served. Mrs. Stranahan poured at the coffee table, assisted by Miss Woodward, Mrs. Raulback, Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Powers.

Mrs. Edward M. Messenger is reported as serious at her home on Washington street, she having been in poor health since her return last fall from the family's summer home at York Beach.

JOHN MCCARRON RE-ELECTED

At the annual meeting of the Winchester Fireman's Relief Association, held Monday evening at the Central Fire Station, John McCarron, for many years president, was re-elected to head the organization for 1934. Fireman Ray Hanscom was elected vice president, Capt. Eugene S. Flaherty, treasurer and Driver Edward D. Fitzgerald, secretary. Firemen Joan J. O'Moia and John J. Flaherty were elected directors with Callien Edward Fitzgerald and James H. Fitzgerald.

In accepting the position of president, Mr. McCarron spoke briefly of the necessity for all of the organization's directors attending future meetings. It was also voted not to run a concert and ball this year.

And how about the ladies' hats? Well—from what we hear they will be removed at the Old Homestead next Friday and Saturday nights, and they say that some of the coiffures will be a sight for sore eyes.

For this month two meetings are scheduled, Jan. 21 and 28. Noted speakers will participate, these two January meetings listing Rev. James Gordon Gilkey, D.D., pastor of the South Congregational Church of Springfield and Hon. Oliver E. Simonds, M.P., member of the Conservative Party and formerly technical adviser to the British Air Ministry.

The subjects of the forums will be: Jan. 21, "Is the Modern Home a Failure?" and Jan. 28, "Young Britain Looks at the Crisis."

RICHARD RILEY IS TO RETURN TO OBERLIN COLLEGE

Richard Riley of Highland avenue is to return to Oberlin College, Oberlin, Ohio, Jan. 28. "Dick" was taken ill last May and after seven weeks in the college hospital was brought home. He continued to regain his health all summer and now is able to return and finish the second term in the sophomore class. Though "Dick" was out of the tennis matches for most of the season he was awarded his letter for the splendid showing he had made on the varsity team.

Tuesday night at 11:35, Patrolman John Hamilton noticed an automobile leaving a garage on Upper Main street without lights. Following the car through Lake street to Middlesex street, he found the car bore no number plates. The operator, a Winchester man, will be summoned in court for driving an unregistered car.

COLLEGE CLUB

Miss Jean Cameron of the Garland School of Homemaking aroused the interest at once of the morning College Club group by using the individual members to illustrate the points in her lecture on color in dress. The person was classified first as warm or cool in coloring by the color of her hair, skin and eyes and accordingly dressed in the warm red, orange, yellow side of the spectrum, or, if cool, in the blues, blue violets and blue greens—these with variation and in combinations. Miss Cameron brought many materials of different hues with which to work. Her second talk will be on Thursday, Jan. 25 at 10 o'clock in the library. This time the subject will be line in relation to dress—covering the rules of all good design—proportion, balance, emphasis, rhythm and repetition. There is still time for those who would like to join the class to enroll.

WEST AILE TO SAIL

"Dannie" West, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. West of Mason street has recovered from the attack of malaria contracted in the jungles of Sumbaland where the famous Ketch, Svan, on which he is sailing south to the Gallapagos Islands, was shipwrecked. The expedition is again on its way to Guyaguay, Ecuador, which is the last port of call before the cruise to the Gallapagos. Cornelius Crane and Mrs. Crane of Ipswich, relatives of Mrs. Robinson, will fly down from Panama to see the Svan sail.

The expedition plans to remain in the Gallapagos Islands for several months, returning to Boston next summer.

She was in her 78th year and was born in Dedham, the daughter of Daniel and Eveline (Sexton) Marsh. Her Winchester home was on Mt. Pleasant street. A daughter survives.

Funeral services were held at the late residence Wednesday afternoon. Interment was in Mt. Auburn Cemetery, Cambridge.

Catch of Old Gold Coins

A cache of old gold coins was found near Uxley, Sweden, on the Swedish island of Gotland, in the Baltic sea. Some of the coins date back to 1411, and it is believed that they were buried in the earth around 1410 by a man named Axelsson Torf, a powerful feudal lord of the island.

POLICE CHIEF MOVES AGAINST DANCE PROMOTER

Lynn Man Said to Have Sold Tickets for "Moose" Party

Police Chief William H. Rogers on Monday of this week appeared before District Attorney Warren Bishop with a complaint about the activities of a promoter who has been selling tickets in Winchester for a concert and ball which has been represented to local purchasers by the Winchester-Medford Local Order of Moose for the "Children's Charity Fund."

According to Chief Rogers the promoter employed was to solicit the sale of the tickets by phone, following the phone call with a personal visit. In some instances a woman did the telephoning, but so far as the police know the actual sale of the tickets was by a man or men. The authorities allege that the concert and ball was represented as a Winchester affair, the proceeds, or a part of them, to go toward the relief of Winchester children.

Queries and complaints from Headquarters concerning the ticket-selling activities led Chief Rogers to investigate, and he was unable to find any Order of Moose in Winchester or any Winchester members of the branch of the order located in Medford.

As a consequence he investigated further and stated to the Star that the concert and ball is being run by a Lynn man and that in addition to a flat $75 guarantee, the Local Order of Moose in Medford is to get 10 percent of the net proceeds of the party. Just where Winchester comes into the picture the Chief was unable to ascertain, and acting upon the supposition that local householders had purchased tickets under a misrepresentation he called the matter to the attention of District Attorney Bishop.

The Lynn man said to be responsible for the party was also at the District Attorney's office on Monday when counsel Chief Rogers told him that he had been advised by the District Attorney to seek an indictment against the so-called promoter and is planning to appear before the Grand Jury to this effect. He is asking through the Star all those who have purchased tickets for the concert and ball to be held under the auspices of Winchester-Medford Local Order of Moose at Pitman Academy in Medford on Jan. 31, to communicate with him at once.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

The State Woman's Christian Temperance Union held a "No retreat, no surrender, no compromise" dinner at Ford Hall, Boston, on Tuesday, Jan. 16. Winchester was well represented by its president, Mrs. Alfred Friend and eight members. Mrs. D. L. Colvin, national vice president, gave the address of the afternoon. She inspired the women to continue greater educational and legislative activity. She feels that the 21st Amendment is doomed, as it can never help the masses. Plainly it is utterly unable to fulfill its promise. The saloon had never to return is back. The ganster who was to disappear seems livelier than ever. As for "true temperance," where is it?

In Washington, D. C. the arrests for intoxication reached an all-time peak under beer. In Boston at Christmas time, they reached a near all-time peak. In Chicago conditions were so dreadful that the paper reports every cell filled and drunkards had to be lying in hallways and alleys. Certainly a humane people cannot long endure conditions being brought about by the 21st Amendment.

Last Saturday evening at 6 o'clock a Wilkes Knight sedan, driven by Charles H. Corey of 5 Governors avenue, while making a right turn from Main street into Mr. Vernon street was in collision with an Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway bus, driven by W. C. Strickland of 35 Franklin street, Woburn, and pulling away from the bus stop at Hevey's Pharmacy. Mr. Corey told the police that it was raining very hard at the time of the accident and the visibility was poor. Both machines were damaged, but no one was injured.

HIGH SCHOOL HAS NO HOCKEY TEAM

Principal Wade L. Grindle, in response to questions asked at the Star this week that Winchester High School has no connection with the hockey team sometimes designated in news reports as the "Winchester High School Hockey Team" other than the fact that the members of the club are all high school pupils.

Winchester High does not sponsor hockey, lack of town facilities for the game having made it impractical to do so. Principal Grindle explained that there is plenty of hockey interest in the school and it is this interest that prompted the formation of the present independent team which is of course not subject to school regulations nor eligibility rules. As a matter of fact two of its members are past graduate pupils who could not play upon a recognized high school team.

Principal Grindle is glad to see the boys playing hockey independently, and feels certain that neither they nor their coach, "Bill" Packer, Jr., have represented themselves as official high school team. The mistake is one which could quite naturally be made by those not acquainted with local conditions, but fair to the authorities and to local sports followers the Star felt that the situation should be cleared up.

The boys are paying their own expenses, both for equipment and to and from their games. They have been making a good showing and the games have uncovered several promising players. Hockey is a great game and in the "old days" Winchester ranked with the high school leaders of Eastern Massachusetts. If the present independent group is the means of reviving local interest in the sport, it will be deserving of a big vote of thanks.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY NOTES

Last Sunday Miss Alice L. Reynolds spoke on "How We Get That Way." Miss Reynolds explained to us the process of growing up, and she also answered many interesting and worth while questions.

This Sunday, there will be a Candlelight service. This program will be entirely different from any of the previous meetings of this season. Kindly remember to conduct the service with Dr. Chidley speaking on "The Light of the World." Nobody can afford to miss this meeting as it will be a series of extreme vital importance to everyone.

Anyone and everyone of high school age or over are urged to attend the high school. Refreshments will be served by Dorothy Klob and contrary to the customary fashion, they will be served before the meeting. There is no charge for this and once again we cordially invite you to attend this meeting at the First Congregational Church, Jan. 21 at five minutes of six.

HEART TO HEART TALKS

(By Eugene Bertram Willard)

The recent dancing function under the auspices of the Winchester Hospital Nurses Alumnae Association again focuses attention upon the excellent work the Winchester Hospital is doing in the community.

The essential character of the work Winchester Hospital is called to do is known to all good men and women. Very often high humanitarian action does not draw the sympathy of numbers. They are advanced only through patience and a burden of sorrow. It is no permitted the doctors and nurses and friends of Winchester Hospital to be satisfied, to sit down in ease and carelessness. There is no charge for this and once again we cordially invite you to attend this meeting at the First Congregational Church, Jan. 21 at five minutes of six.

Winchester Hospital has opened wide the windows for the soul. Men and women of all creeds have worked together in a common cause to make Winchester Hospital one of the finest institutions of its kind in New England.

TRUCK DRIVER ARRESTED AFTER CHASE

While doing traffic duty on Main street at Thompson street Monday afternoon, Patrolman John Dolan had his attention attracted to a truck proceeding along Main street in a manner that made him believe all was not well with the operator.

Commanding a machine, he gave chase and overtook the truck at the Mystic School, arresting the driver on charges of drunkenness and operating while under the influence of liquor.

In District Court at Woburn Tuesday morning the operator, who gave his name as Joseph F. Murphy of 103 Third street, Everett, was found not guilty of drunkenness and guilty of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. He was fined $30 by Justice Jesse W. Morton and appealed, being held on his own recognizance.

Raleigh's Burial

In the chapel of St. Margaret's, Westminster, near by the altar, lies the headless body of Sir Walter Raleigh. His execution on October 29, 1618, took place close at hand in Old Palace Yard. After the head had been shown at the four corners of the scaffold, it was placed in a leather bag, over which Sir Walter's gown was thrown, and was borne away by Lady Raleigh in a coffin. For the 229 years of her widowhood Lady Raleigh preserved this last memento near in her keeping.

The Great Man

A great man is great by thinking great thoughts and if he cannot think his thoughts, we cannot know his greatness.

BETHANY NEWS

The annual gift party, in reality the post-Thanksgiving party, took place in the assembly hall last Friday afternoon, with over 300 guests present. The Finance Committee under the leadership of Mrs. Weber, had provided many unique and amusing features for entertainment, together with sandwiches and coffee, luscious cakes and homemade candy for refreshments. Mrs. Snyder and Mrs. Baker demonstrated their skill as modelers by making dolls, entirely from newspapers, two brides' dresses with veils, bouquets and all customary bridal attire. Mrs. Bowles and Mrs. Foster posed a models, like the good sports they are. An unexpected event both to the committee and guests was an honest-to-goodness dog-fight, staged between the Boston bull and the Idaho wolf, who had also come to the party. Pandemonium reigned for a few moments and there was a mad rush for tumblers of water, brooms and what-have-you; but the aggressor was finally dragged off by the collar and ejected from the party, and peace was restored.

Useful, frivolous and ornamental gifts were exchanged by allotted numbers, the members being as eager as children to use the wrappings to see "what Santa had brought." The climax of the party came with the presentation of two friendship circles of rhinestone and pearls to Mrs. H. J. Foster and Mrs. Edward Weber for their efficient service during the past term of office.

The Bethany Society will have entire charge of the Sunday evening service January 21 at 7 o'clock in the church. All members or ex-members are urged to attend. Roll will be called, and it is hoped that each one will respond with a verse of scripture. A procession has been arranged so that it would be advisable for all wishing to march with the group to come as early as 6:30.

Mrs. Betty Denmore of Jamaica Plain has kindly consented to sing two numbers, "The Stranger of Galilee" by Mrs. C. H. Morris, and "The Holy Hour" by Robert Scovin. We are sure you will enjoy her pleasing contralto voice. The sermon will be a reproduction of one of Dr. Leavitt's, "What Are You Worth?", and will be read by one of the committee members. Everyone in the community is cordially invited to attend this service, and it is hoped that the ushers, Mrs.

Nelson, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Rich, Mrs. Warren Saunders, will be kept busy finding seats for the audience!

Wild As Is Speedy

Wild as are the winds of speed and endurance according to a representative of the American Museum of Natural History, who has frequently hunted and photographed them in the tangle of Asia where they still roam in large herds. It tells of one full grown animal which he pursued for more than 20 miles in a motor car before it would acknowledge itself beat on, and which reached a top speed of 40 miles an hour during the chase. Its average speed for most of the distance was approximately 30 miles an hour.

THE TAX SITUATION

In justice to our Collector of Taxes,
Mr. Nathaniel M. Stevens, who holds an important, although most unenviable, town office, the Star feels it im-
resentation which might be taken from Mr. J. A. Laraway's communication published in our last issue.

The Star informed its readers Jan-
5 that the Collector had no UNCOL-LECTED poll, personal or real estate taxes for 1932 and only 34 per cent 1933. When Mr. Laraway quotes the item as referring to UNPAID taxes he raises, of course, a point outside the jurisdiction of the Collector, whose duty as a town officer making collections rests wholly upon complying with the provisions of the law.
If title to property is taken either by the Town or by a title buyer, his taxes are collected. He has obeyed the laws passed for the conduct of his office. No collector can do more.

If, on the other hand, he allows taxes to remain UNPAID and UN-COLLECTED, he stands to lose his bond and rates censured. A tax-pay-er has two years to redeem his property which has been sold for unpaid taxes, whether it be held by him or by a tax-buyer. In the former instance the property is Town property and in the latter instance the taxpayer pays the delinquent tax charges.
The period of time allowed for payment of taxes and the sale of property is of course prescribed by law.

It is UNCOLLECTED taxes which in the new financial year are prominently in the news of surrounding municipalities;
as in our neighboring City of Woburn, where the Mayor is reported as taking steps to take title for collection.

It should be noted that the borrowing ability of a town or city is based on its collections. Hence Winchester has been able to borrow at the rate of one per cent, one of the lowest rates in the State.

Our Collector has lived up to the letter of the law in his collections, and without doubt this has resulted in hardship to some residents, although as a result to the Town as a whole.
He has an unenviable job.

The opinion of Mr. Henry F. Long, commissioner of corporations and taxation, regarding Winchester collections speaks volumes. "It is mighty good news," he says, "because I expect that by this time the $28 has turned into real money and is clear on the books of the Collector of the Town of Winchester." He further says, "I am going to ask the treasurer for a list of the taxpayers more than two years old. It is a very important thing to have. I wish that all of the Collectors in Massachusetts would have your attitude, your enthusiasm and foresight and intelligence, because if that was so the collection of taxes in Massachusetts would be at the high level that I have always dreamed that it some day would be."

THE NEW DEAL IS HERE

We quote from the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post:

"Husman has been going along with some of these policies (NRA) which it must know will prove to be unsound in the end. It has promised to become a revenue source, either by advantage for itself in them, cutting its own throat, as Lenin cynically prophesied it would, for the sake of an immediate profit and thinking that in the long run things would straighten themselves out and that it would have the profit without the pain of standing up for its real beliefs. But any business man who has the long view must see where we are heading.
Unless he fights the present policy, he faces steadily increasing costs and mounting taxation to the point of confiscation. For while Government has been criticizing and limiting the production capacity of the country, it has been encouraging and financing an enormous expansion of unneeded and tax-consuming government plant."

Issuing bonds carrying a promise to pay in gold, and weighing on that promise in thirty days, Government taking over all the gold of its nationals, with huge profits for itself on the transaction; depreciating the dollar and planning taxation with the purpose of redistributing the savings of some classes for the benefit of others; and, finally, issuing tax-free securities at a time when some leading senators are considering methods by which they can tax all tax-exempt bonds—securities issued under a self-imposed covenant and bought in good faith at a sacrifice of income for security—none of these things is cause for singing Hail, Columbia!

"Patrick Henry once said: 'I know of no better way to judge the future than by the past.' Today, by judging the future by an almost complete disregard of the past."

THE NORFOLK COLONY

Mr. Parkhurst Serves No Selfish Interest

The troubles of the State Prison colony at Norfolk are receiving much public attention, and the superintendent of that institution, Howard B.
Gill, must be sorry he ever entered the service of the State. It is believed that his resignation would be welcomed by some, but there are no indications that he intends to retire voluntarily or that he will be removed.

Whatever the merits of the case may be, Mr. Gill and his friends are fortunate in having the support of Ex-Senator Lewis Parkhurst of Winchester. Mr. Parkhurst was deeply concerned about the State penitentiaries while he was a member of the Legislature and his interest has never flagged since that time. He is an asset in any case because he has no selfish interests to serve. On this particular question he may, or may not, be right, but no unworthy motive can be attributed to him.
That is a real distinction.

The condition of affairs at the institution will doubtless be disclosed in the two investigations now in progress—one by State Auditor Francis W. Hurley and the other by Governor Winthrop. When they make their reports, the State Commissioner, and perhaps the Legislature, will have something to say.

COMMUNITY BASKETBALL

At a meeting held last Thursday night after the games at the Town Hall, the captains and representatives of the teams, Coach Richard Murphy, Director Wendell Mansfield and the Legion Committee met at the Legion House.

It was voted to reduce the league to six teams and select two teams of the star players. This was necessary because some of the boys were not or could not be present at all games, necessitating substituting players, from other teams. They believe that with six teams of eight men each that this condition would not exist. It was also voted to change so that they are more balanced. The league games will now be played as follows:
two games each Tuesday night and one Thursday night. Tuesday's games starting at 7:30 p. m. and Thursday's promptly at 7 p. m. After the league game Thursday night, the All Stars will play two outside teams. The players on the All Stars if played in the league game that night cannot play for the All Stars. Any player who is absent for more than three games is automatically suspended until reinstated by a committee of captains. Of substituted players, only the second quarter against the opposing substitutes. The teams before known as the Pals and the Legion will play the All Stars teams playing the outside teams. The players previously assigned to these teams have been assigned to the other respective teams. The players who have not regularly attended will either be dropped or carried as substitutes.

Previous games in the old league have no standing in the scores in the new league, in others they are starting all over again which will give the various teams remaining ten games to be played.

It was also voted that each team should appoint a team manager who will see to it that the players are notified when they will play, a new schedule being arranged to start the first game Wednesday week from next Tuesday night, Jan. 23.

The following is a lineup of the various teams:

Team	Captain	Players
Cuba	C. Hamilton	P. Corby, W. Robinson, W. Metcalf, W. Jones
National	D. Donovan	W. Gaddy, P. Philbrick, A. Telford, J. Babbity, J. Russo, J. Flaherty
Heaven's Drug Company	C. Deberry	P. Dolan, W. Jones, P. Muscare, W. Smith, D. Deberry
Puffer's Life	P. Kendrick	J. Ferrara, H. Bonham, H. Galt, M. Murphy
Amico Bakery	A. Amico	N. Kerrigan, E. Amico, W. Jones, D. Roberts
Fale All Stars	I. Kendrick	J. Murphy, J. Jones, P. Philbrick, W. Gaddy, P. Dolan, W. Robinson

During an intermission a committee composed of Legionnaires, G. Warren Johnston, Patrick T. Foley and Conrad S. Larson served the boys a light lunch. After the meeting which ended near midnight, the Legionnaires allowed some of the boys to participate in a little ping pong.

The schedule for next week is as follows:

Senior League
Tuesday, Jan. 23, Puffers vs. Fale and Haven's vs. Cuba
Thursday, Jan. 25, P. m. National Bank vs. Amico Bakery, 8 p. m. Fale vs. Y. M. C. A. Zebias, Amico, All Stars vs. Arlington Roadsters

Junior League
Tuesday, Jan. 23, Amico vs. Bruins and Amico vs. Bruins Thursday, Jan. 25, Fale vs. Redskins and Amico vs. Redskins To close, Jan. 27, Grinnell vs. Holy Cross and Fale vs. Holy Cross Thursday, Jan. 27, Notre Dame vs. Puffer's and Amico vs. Puffer's

The committee now believes with this new setup that the boys' interest will be greater and expect to see some fast, snappy games with a better and larger audience attending.

Collisions at Sea

Collisions between ships at sea occur more frequently than is generally imagined. Twenty-three per cent of the lost and damaged vessels during the last 50 years, and 23 per cent of the lives lost in accidents at sea have been caused by vessels running into one another.—[Columbian Weekly.]

This verb has been in literary usage for three centuries. It is defined, "To have weight or influence, as in determining a question." In that sense, the first literary use, noted so far, was found in the History of Episcopacy, written by Peter Heylyn in 1642, in the sentence, "The discourse of Clements . . . doth militate as well against the one, as against the other." The older sense in which it was limited from its derivation, "to take part in warfare," was used 17 years earlier.

PARK DEPARTMENT NEWS

Since the Town was granted an allotment of Federal funds for a City project at Jenkins Pond, great progress has been made in the development of this particular area. The pond, being sub-graded and made ready for loaming. That part on which the sub-grade is finished is being covered with mud from the pond. This mud is of good quality and will make excellent loam. It is being covered mechanically as it would be impossible to attempt to do it with hand labor owing to the depth of the mud.

One road is being built from Spruce street to Nelson street and another will run from Spruce street south along the railroad tracks.

A 30 in. drain pipe was laid from Nelson street to a point above the Mt. Vernon street bridge. Fifteen feet drains have been laid from the street and the street is connected with this larger drain.

The northern section of the old pond is being trucked from the cemetery property just beyond Lake street. As it is planned eventually to build a road through this section, a two-fold purpose is being served by taking the fill at this time as it would have to be removed later when the road is constructed.

There are 188 men employed on this project, all of whom work 30 hours a week. The Federal allotment of $25,000 which is for labor only will carry the work along until approximately Feb. 15. Town funds are being used for the cost of equipment and the purchase of tools.

Although the weather has been against us during the past few weeks, the work is being pushed forward. The pond is being kept profitably employed in the hauling of gravel to the excavation of the pond, as high water prevents any work here. The men have been kept profitably employed in the hauling of gravel to the excavation of the pond which is being filled.

There is a group of some 40 men at work in the area below the excavation of the pond. All of these men are single and there was not room for them on the Jenkins Pond project. Most of them are employed by the City and are paid from Town funds. Their work in the main consists of grading along the shores of the pond, which has been excavated here during the past year.

WINCHESTER S. P. C. A. AUXILIARY NOTES

On Thursday, Jan. 11, the Winchester S. P. C. A. Auxiliary met at the home of the president, Mrs. Richard Taylor, for their regular monthly meeting.

Recent weeks have been active ones for the Auxiliary. At the Angell Memorial Hospital fair, held at the Copley Plaza, on Dec. 14, Mrs. Taylor and a corps of assistants were in charge of a Winchester table which was very attractive and well patronized. The proceeds added a considerable sum to the fund which the Auxiliary has set aside toward an animal shelter.

On Thursday before Christmas, the Kelley & Hawes Express Co. carried to the Angell Memorial Hospital the grain, vegetables and fruit which Winchester friends have contributed toward the "Horse's" Christmas, and the Auxiliary hereby thanks the many kind persons who had a share in this work. The following note was received from Dr. Rowley:

The Angell Memorial Animal Hospital 170-184 Longwood Avenue Boston, Mass.

Dec. 22, 1933

My dear Friends:

We are appreciative of and sincerely grateful for the generous contribution made by the Winchester Auxiliary of the 15 bushels of oats and the apples and carrots contributed by members, friends and children. I wish you would express to the Auxiliary our sincere gratitude.

Faithfully yours,

Francis J. Rowley, President

The Auxiliary was interested in the reports of the junior horse show held at Good's Riding School on Dec. 2, for the benefit of the Massachusetts S. P. C. A., and was glad to know that the young people took a decided stand against certain cruel practices which so frequently are a feature of horse shows.

We also praise the brave act of the Winchester girl, Miss Dorothy Goodhue, who jumped into the icy waters of the Abenona River to rescue her show dog and succeeded in bringing him safely ashore.

The February meeting of the Auxiliary will be an all-day sewing meeting at Mrs. Taylor's home, when work will be begun on the Wayside sale to be held next fall.

SLASHING AFFRAY LAST FRIDAY EVENING

Thomas Alvin Fowles, 29, colored, of 24 Center street, Woburn, was badly cut about the face last Friday evening, the assault having been committed against him by the police of Chester street by John R. Fields, colored, of 28 Everett street, Woburn, who arrived at the home of his father in that city.

The local authorities were first notified of trouble in the vicinity of Harvard street by telephone, and Sergeant John H. Noonan and Patrolman John Hanlon were sent to investigate. Upon arrival they found that Fowles had been taken into the home of Lawrence Nunnally at 25 Harvard street. He was badly cut, and was removed at once by Patrolman Hanlon and Joseph Berry, assisted by John Guy of Irving street, to the Winchester Hospital, where he was treated by Dr. A. L. Mearns. Fifteen stitches were necessary to close a long cut extending from the lower left jaw across the lips to the upper right side of the face.

Fowles told the police he had been attacked by Fields while he was sitting in his automobile on Chester street near Harvard street. Sergeant Noonan secured a warrant for Fields' arrest from Clerk Charles Loring of the Woburn court, and Patrolman Daniel O'Brien of the Woburn Police went to the home of Fields' father on Center street in that city where they placed Fields under arrest.

He was taken to the Woburn Police Station where he was admitted to bail. The doctor reported that the cutting Fowles, there having been family trouble between the two men, and gave Sergeant Noonan the pen knife with which the alleged assault was made.

Fields, who is well known throughout this district as a ball player, has been a member of the Woburn High School team and later playing with semi-professional colored teams, was charged with assault with a dangerous weapon. His case came up in court at Woburn Saturday morning, when time it was continued until Jan. 23.

The Presidential broadcast will go on the air at exactly noon from the White House in Washington which is in the Eastern Standard Time zone. For points in the Central Time zone it will come over the air at 11 a. m.; in the Mountain Time zone an hour earlier and in the Pacific zone the Boy Scouts will be assembled and ready at 9 a. m. the broadcast hour there. There will be a few exceptions to the group which will assemble in their own troop rooms and in larger centers of convention to hear President Roosevelt's message.

WINCHESTER AND BRINTREE TIE IN RETURN HOCKEY CLASH

Winchester Independents played a 2-2 tie with the Brintree High School hockey team last Saturday on Sunset Lake in Brintree, a goal by Farrar after four minutes of play in the third period, knowing the count "sketchy" also scored Winchester's other goal in the first period, after Harry Dugley had scored for Brintree. MRS. LOUISE H. BLANCHARD

Mrs. Louise Hamilton Blanchard, widow of Arthur E. Blanchard and mother of Mrs. Waldo V. Lyon of Everett road, died Saturday afternoon, Jan. 15, at her home, 127 Pleasant street, Arlington after many years of failing health.

Mrs. Blanchard was born Nov. 17, 1866, in New York City, the daughter of John and Ellen (Nichols) Hamilton. She was long a resident of Dorchester, Mass., where she was active in the work of the Second Congregational Church. In the years before her health became impaired she travelled extensively and her acquaintances were a never-failing source of interest and amusement to her friends.

Following the death of her husband, Mrs. Blanchard made her home with Mrs. Lyon, living for five years in Winchester and winning the esteem of those with whom she came in contact. During her residence here she was a member of the First Congregational Church.

Hamilton of St. Petersburg, Fla.; Mrs. William E. Suits of Kenilworth, Ill.; Mrs. Harry S. Corey of Richmond, Va.; and Mrs. Charles H. Gray of Gardner, Me. SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By Ann Page

It is interesting to learn that the old time winter vegetables, potatoes, cabbage, onions and turnips are returning to popularity. They do not seem to reduce the demand for the various green vegetables in market. New Englanders are not selling at about the same price as in the past. Cauliflower is plentiful and unusually reasonable in price. Broccoli and Brussels sprouts are of good quality and moderately priced. Green beans are somewhat more expensive than they have been. Peas are fine quality but expensive. Tomatoes are of good quality as well as more plentiful than in recent weeks. Strawberries are fairly plentiful and moderately priced. Grapefruit, oranges and apples are of excellent quality, abundant and relatively low in price.

The Quaker Mail suggests the following menus as reasonable and appetizing.

Low Cost Dinner

Spaghetti with Chopped Beef and Tomato Sauce Battered Spinach
Bread and Butter
Tapioca Cream with Sliced Bananas
Tea or Coffee

Medium Cost Dinner

Roast Fresh Ham
Mashed Potatoes with Creamed Cabbage
Bread and Butter
Apple Pie
Coffee

Very Special Dinner

Mixed Appetizers
Braised Chicken
Mashed Sweet Potatoes
Cauliflower with White Sauce
Currant Jelly
Vanilla Ice Cream
Fresh Strawberry Sauce
Coffee

January Session, 83 combination—2 women's dresses, 1 man's suit or 2 men's suits, 1 woman's dress, Bailey's Cleaners, and 12 pairs of shoes. The program will provide for fun, novelties, comedy and best of all, thrills, to the spectators. These perfect gymnast-dances, performed on the horizontal bar, swing and handstand on the parallel bars, and form muscle-tiring pyramids with such grace and ease that the average person thinks that these feats of sheer strength and athletic suppleness are almost too easy to perform.

There will be a breath-taking exhibition of athletic skill offered to Winchester's athletic-minded by the crack Springfield College Gymnastic Team in the High School gymnasium on Jan. 27, at 8 p. m. The program will provide for fun, novelties, comedy and best of all, thrills, to the spectators. These perfect gymnast-dances, performed on the horizontal bar, swing and handstand on the parallel bars, and form muscle-tiring pyramids with such grace and ease that the average person thinks that these feats of sheer strength and athletic suppleness are almost too easy to perform.

Still another extraordinary number on the program of the Springfield College students, the Springfield College, a number coached and prepared by Ted Shaw, who gave a special course at Springfield last year. In the annual exhibition in the Springfield gymnasium, this Indian dance was loudly applauded.

The team is coached by Prof. Leslie A. Judd, a faculty member of Springfield College, and has traveled far and wide because of its popularity, appearing only a few years ago in Mexico City. Several members have won honors in the New England Amateur Athletic Union Junior and Senior Gymnastic Championships. The squad is co-coached by John Seay from Brooklyn, N. Y., and Emil Habbar, of Gutersloh, N. Y., both of whom are exceptionally good acrobats and will be well worth watching during the coming exhibition.

Those who are interested in seeing this athletic exhibition taken by the team to have their tickets reserved or else buy their tickets in advance, as last year there were many who were disappointed. Tickets may be secured at Hevey's Pharmacy and the Star Office.

Aristocratic Principles

It is said of revolutions such as the great French revolution which closed the eighteenth century, that it was a violent and mechanical inversion of aristocratic principles than a new interpretation of life. Starting from large generalities, such as "the rights of man," "liberty, equality and fraternity" rather than from the facts of humanity as observed with an open mind, if all men were not equal, then the taller must be shortened accordingly, and the gullotine was a practical syllogism.

Smallest Thing Having Life

Two types of diatoms, one-celled animals or plants, the smallest living things in the world, are magnified hundreds of times before it is possible to photograph them. By magnifying the smallest 2,400 times, it is brought so close to the eye that the "ribs" or vertical lines in the diatoms are distinct. These ribs measure only one four-hundredths of the diameter of the human hair. Another diatom, when magnified 1,000 times, is used in testing the field of microscope. Diatoms are found in fresh and salt water.—Popular Mechanics Magazine

Houses of Gold

In recent years improved methods of gold mining have made it possible to extract the metal from ore which formerly was considered too poor to be profitable. Guanahato, a Mexican town, was built with earth taken from the workings during an early gold rush. Years later a man was found hiding one of the houses and realized that the walls contained gold in sufficient quantities to be extracted with profit. The news spread, and before long every house in the town had been mined and sold to gold owners for sale to a prospective company.

Squirrels Controlled

Naturalists say that when any species of squirrels becomes too abundant the situation is controlled naturally in one of several ways. For example, the natural enemies of that species may migrate into the area because of the abundance of the food supply. If that does not occur, disease, which is always present, may become epidemic. The food required by the species may become depleted, which condition may weaken or kill enough specimens to restore a balance.

BETHANY NEWS

The committee of arrangements for the Sunday evening service is indeed grateful to those ladies who helped make the occasion a success, and to the responsive audience which made an effort to be there with us. The president, Mrs. Saunders, presided with quiet dignity, and was ably assisted by the ex-president (now vice-president), Mrs. Farnham. Several members were unable to be present because of sickness, but a good showing was made as the roll was called by the new secretary, Mrs. Eddy, each member responding to her name with a verse of scripture. Much praise and thanks are due Mrs. Betty Denmore who came from Jamaica Plain to sing for us two old-time favorites in her sweet contralto voice. The ushers "ush-er" beautifully, and added much to the impressiveness of the service.

Remember to come once next Sunday evening for the missionary meeting at 7 o'clock. An interesting speaker from Boston will be their guest. She has been a teacher in a girls' school in China and should have much to tell us. Let's all be there.

Mr. McLean, superintendent of the Sunday School, reports that their election was held last Sunday, and the Sunday School is launched on the New Year, also, with all the same hands on board, and one additional teacher, Mr. David Treadwell, who will take the class of senior boys. They are doing a good piece of work there. The Sunday School of today is the Second Congregational Church of tomorrow. No expense should be spared to provide the best material available. Remember, too, there is inspiration in numbers!

February is just around the corner, and it's about time to be planning those parties and patriotic occasions, and starting the youngsters on their Valentines.

The Bethany Society hold its regular luncheon and business meeting Feb. 7, with the following ladies in charge: Mrs. MacDonald, Mrs. John Webber, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Warren Saunders, Mrs. Nelson and Mrs. H. J. Foster. Luncheon will be served at noon. Everyone is cordially invited.

WINCHESTER BOY KILLED ON TRACKS

James Carroll on Way Home From Woburn

James Carroll, 11, son of Joseph H. and the late Mary (Haley) Carroll of 12 Russell road, was struck and almost instantly killed by a train last Saturday evening while walking along the Boston & Maine tracks in Woburn. The boy had been with several friends to the "movies" in Woburn and was on his way home when the accident occurred near Conn street in the South end of the city. The train that struck him was en route and in charge of Conductor Chester E. Backus of 13 Hancock street, Stoneham. Engineer Frank E. Carr of 61 Sylvan street, Somerville, told the police he sounded his whistle several times.

Just how young Carroll was struck is not known. His companions dashed from the tracks to safety as the train approached, but he was hit and fatally injured. Hearing the shrieks of the whistle and the grinding of the brakes, Edward Foley, a former special police officer in Woburn, ran to the tracks and, assisted by Alfred Spatola of 42 Pitt street, Boston, rushed the boy to the hospital.

Dr. Thomas E. Caulfield and Dr. William H. Kellher were both at the hospital ready to render any aid possible, but the injured boy was dead upon arrival. James was a pupil at the William G. Noonan School, popular with his scholars, and a great favorite with the officers and men of the 102d Motor Transport Company, M. N. G., of Woburn, of which he was the official mascot. From his fifth year he had visited the company's kitchen with his uncle, Cook William R. Carroll, and so popular did he become with the militiamen that he was soon made the company's mascot, attending the annual encampment and tour of duty each year.

Besides his father, James is survived by three sisters, Ruth, Margaret and Shirley. His mother died in 1927.

The funeral was held Tuesday morning from the late residence with high mass of requiem in the Immaculate Conception Church. Representatives of the 102d Transport Company attended the services. Interment was in Calvary Cemetery.

WILL SPEAK ON CHINA

When anti-foreign and anti-religious demonstrations back in 1927 caused many sleepless nights for the Chinese Christians, American teachers at Wenshan Girls' School, Foochow, China, Miss Eunice Thomas of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions stuck by the ship, and saw the school go on into happier days before she returned to America for her present furlough. Miss Thomas will speak next Sunday evening, Jan. 28, in the Second Congregational Church of Winchester. Rev. John E. Whitely, pastor.

While the major part of Miss Thomas' experience in things Chinese has been in connection with the missionaries, she has spent time also, in the country, and knows the customs and aspirations of the rural people. Just before coming home on furlough she spent her last vacation in China at Ingai, up the river, making the trip through bandit-infested territory in an armored launch.

Miss Thomas was injured in 1927 when the roof of a Chinese church caved in, pinning her beneath a heavy timber. She came to America for treatment, and the skill of specialists, plus her own spirit of courage and determination, made it possible for her to go back to China.

Born in North Easton, Mass., Miss Thomas was graduated from Boston University, and taught school for 18 years before coming to China under the American Board in 1918.

Marshall H. Fay, who has been a regular pilot for the National Air Transport Co., flying between Cleveland and Chicago, has received advancement by the company in the creation of a reserve or emergency class for its pilots. He will henceforth be stationed at Newark.

FASHION BRIEFS FROM "THE OLD HOMESTEAD"

"The Old Homestead" has come and gone but what a memorable occasion it will always remain! Surely many trunks opened to produce so many treasured gowns of such intricate workmanship. There were also several that lent a humorous aspect to the promenade of the evening.

Among those that were noticed enjoying refreshments between the acts was Mrs. Arthur Kelley, particularly lovely in a gown of rose patterned white satin with a garnet velvet overdress, pannier effect. Mrs. Raymond Wilkins was very smart in a crisp white linen suit with hat and parasol to match. These were all embroidered by Mr. Wilkins' mother.

Mrs. Clarence Ordway and Mrs. Harry Parsons both looked very charming in dress. Their mother, Mrs. Frank Ripley, wore to their wedding. Mrs. Ordway's was of white brocade satin with a lace top and that of Mrs. Parsons was pale blue taffeta with touches of silver lace. Mrs. E. Kenneth Clark was seen in a delightful outfit, a grey velvet blouse with lavender vest and a luminous black satin damask skirt.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Earle Osgood with their daughter, Mrs. E. M. Osgood, and Mrs. Townley-Tilson all wore most interesting costumes. That of Mrs. Osgood's, belonging to Mrs. Kenneth Hall, was a flower striped changeable taffeta dinner dress, while that of Mrs. Townley-Tilson was one of her mother's tulle-trimmed dresses. It was a grey changeable satin. Mr. Osgood wore a black and brown checked suit and carried one of the enormous watches so popular in the good old days. Mr. Townley-Tilson was in a Prince Albert.

Two of the most attractive costumes noted were those worn by Mrs. Charles R. Carter and Mrs. Kenneth McLeod. Mrs. Carter wore a cut velvet cape jacket, belonging to her mother, and a long blue and white blouse and black silk skirt with an old fashioned bonnet of black velvet and lavender leaves. Mrs. McLeod's dress of black silk with blue forget-me-nots and leg-o-mutton sleeves had previously been worn by her mother, Mrs. William Goddard, in 1890, and her costume was a long black and white cashmere cape and a straw bonnet with chin ribbons, trimmed with flowers to match the gown.

Miss Barbara Fernald was seen in a beautiful white dress very elaborately trimmed with hatterburg. This dress was worn by her mother at a dinner in Washington given in honor of ex-Governor Fairbanks. The evening cape which matched the dress was trimmed with mink tails.

Mrs. T. H. Wilson looked very charming in the white wedding dress belonging to Mr. Wilson's mother. Her older sister, Miss E. M. Wilson, was worn by Mrs. C. P. Fenno when she was fifteen years old. It was striped silk with inserts of black velvet. Mr. Wilson wore his father's wedding coat.

Mrs. James Novell looked very regal as she entered wearing an ermine-trimmed black velvet dress, trimmed with Brussels lace. Her sister, Mrs. Carpenter, was lovely in a green velvet dress with embroidery at the neck and sleeves. Miss Katherine Novell wore a dress that had taken part in a Vassar graduation while Miss Eleanor Ives' gown was worn in the Vassar daisy chain.

Miss Clara Butterworth wore her grandmother's gown of oyster white watered taffeta with elaborate lace inserts in the skirt. She also wore charming black lace mitts as did Miss Mary Reed in an entrancing black net dress with intricate scrolls of braid, fluting and tucking.

Mr. James Russell was quite the Beau Brummel of the evening in a cutaway with a light colored vest and tall hat to match and carrying a silver headed cane. Mrs. Franklin Flanders was dressed in a beautiful yellow taffeta and hand embroidered organically gown bought in Paris in 1890. Miss Virginia Flanders was lovely in a pink taffeta Paris gown. Both of these dresses were owned by Miss Elizabeth Catlin of Boston.

Miss Alice and Elizabeth Mason were gowned in black, Miss Alice wearing a broadened waist skirt and Miss Elizabeth a lace dress under a short headed cape. Mrs. Henry Harris was seen in a lovely green bengaline frock and her tiny black hat with its curling feather was devastating.

Mrs. Edgar Rich wore a flowered striped silk. Her fascinating white coat purchased in Paris was very striking with its lace and embroidery. Mrs. John Terry looked lovely in her grandmother's wedding gown.

Mrs. Vincent P. Clarke wore a green empire style gown and Mr. Clarke, a frock coat, standing collar and white stock cravat. Miss Barbara Pratt was most interestingly gowned in an old fashioned black satin skirt of her mother, black taffeta waist and old fashioned velvet bonnet with ostrich plumes, pink roses and satin streamers.

Mrs. Frank Black's gown had previously been worn by a former Winchester matron, Mrs. C. B. Stretch, at her wedding, and her large flat hat of white maline was trimmed with roses. Mr. Black wore a Prince Albert coat and an ascot scarf with his standing collar. His handle-bar mustache were greatly admired.

Victor Wolfe also wore a wedding gown of the nineties, fashioned of white, with a large black geometric hat. An attractive male little gette hat.

The dashingly handsome of Dewey's time, in full dress uniform, with swordbelt, sash, dress sword and cocked hat, was John E. Burdard, 2nd.

Richard Glendon of Ware road made a very creditable showing by placing 12th in a state-wide vegetable contest held recently at Worcester. Twenty-six boys from all parts of the state, many of them from agricultural schools, took part in this contest. The contest consisted of judging five classes of vegetables and identifying 40 vegetables by naming their types correctly.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY NOTES

Last Sunday a "Candlelighting Service" was held. It was led by Rev. Thwing, and Dr. Chidley spoke on "The Light of the World." He said that we were judged by what we did, and that other people consider the gospel according to ourselves and not the gospel of Matthew, Mark or Luke.

This Sunday a "Question Box" will be conducted by Dr. Chidley. The idea of this meeting is that anyone may write a question on a slip and hand it over to the beginning of the meeting. The questions are not limited as to the subject that they deal with and they have always been of interest and help to everyone. Much interest both out of town and local has been reflected in the increased attendance.

After the meeting refreshments will be served. There is no charge for this and anyone of high school age or over is cordially invited to attend at the First Congregational Church at 6 o'clock Sunday, Jan. 28.

AN ORGANIZATION THAT IS EVER SEEKING AND STRIVING FOR THE GOOD OF THOSE IT SERVES. TO PERFECT ITS WORK AND SERVICE MUST ATTAIN ULTIMATE SUCCESS. AND WE HONESTLY STATE WE NEVER BEGUILTY OF NOT SEEKING OR NOT STRIVING.

MARTIN WON FROM "JIM" KENDRICK

"Bull" Martin of Trenton, N. J., roughhouse heavyweight grappler, took two straight falls from big "Jim" Kendrick of Winchester in the main bout of the Antipass-Cullen wrestling show at the Town Hall Monday evening.

The "Bull" was too big and tough for Kendrick, but the latter gamely carried the grappling to his much more experienced opponent and made a good showing during the 22 minutes it took Martin to pin him with an inside crotch, body lift and slam. "Bull" used plenty of the rough tactics that have made him famous and gradually softened up Kendrick with stuff that would not have been permitted a few years ago. The second fall came in shorter time than the first, when Kendrick missed a series of flying tackles and was pinned while on the mat.

"Jack" Murrow, big Italian, won from Paul Hensburgh of Pennsylvania, in the semi-final, taking the one fall in 25 minutes and 10 seconds with a crotch hold body press.

"Tommy" Record of Weymouth knew too much for young McPheters of Winchester in the first of the preliminary bouts, taking the fall with body scissors in five minutes.

Wild Wyckoff of Woburn won from his fellow townsman, "Jimmy" Beaton, with a body scissors in 13 minutes and Chief Polo, Oklahoma Indian, subbing for the Black Secret, went 20 minutes to a draw with "Mike" McDonald of Brighton. "Jimmy" Zybylko refereed the bouts.

FULL OF A WORKING UNDER THE FEDERAL RELIEF COMMITTEE

The amount of work accomplished by the women at the Lincoln School, is of great satisfaction to the Relief Committee. Mrs. Tufts reported that many finished garments had been turned over to the Welfare Board. These included 15 sweaters and over 100 pajamas and men's shirts. Also Mrs. Gormley has had a quantity of infant's wear for her work. The next group of finished sewing will include dozens of small girls dresses and more sweaters.

WOBBURN HIGH WON FROM WINCHESTER HIGHTanners Had Big Advantage at Foul Line

Woburn High School's undefeated basketball team knocked Winchester from the unbeaten class last Friday evening in the local gymnasium, outclassing the locals to win 27-15.

There was plenty of fouling on both sides and it was the Tanners' ability to convert foul shots that counted heaviest in their favor, nine big points being added to their score from free tries.

Winchester, on the other hand, was unable to make but one of 12 foul shots good and in addition to their dim eyes at the line, the locals played their poorest all around game of the year against their toughest foe.

Coach Mansfield's charges started away well and for the first few minutes of play were out in front. Woburn, however, soon pulled up on even terms and when Lentine was banished for four personal fouls toward the end of the second period, assumed a lead that the locals were able to challenge only once.

The loss of Lentine hurt badly, for the rugged guard has been the key-man of the local offense, doing much of the feeling that permits close range shots. Without him, the Tanners' man for man defense soon had Winchester baffled and as the opposition pulled further ahead, the local boys hurried up their game to the point where over-anxiety prevented any attempt to play the ball at all. Unable to work the ball up close, the locals took to long range shooting and a bit more luck on some of the shots would have made a world of difference. Several shots by "Red" Noble and "Frankie" Provizano were labeled, but rolled out instead of after striking the rim, the short range baskets of the Orange were generally finding the mark.

Though held more than even in the matter of the tap-off by Winchester's "Lefty" Stewart, Captain Dana Peterson of the Tanners dominated the scoring during the first half of play, which ended 16-9 in his team's favor.

Following the intermission, Winchester rallied and pulled up to a 16-13 count, but with "Dan" O'Brien going in high gear, particularly at the foul line, the Tanners were soon on their way again.

Between the halves of the first team game the Woburn seconds soon from the Winchester seconds, 26-18. Following are summaries:

ST. MARY'S OUTBOWLED IMMACULATE CONCEPTION

Last week's heralded bowling match between teams representing the Immaculate Conception and St. Mary's Churches, rolled on the Winchester Alleys, resulted in a win for the latter team by 20 pins or three out of four points.

With two curates, Rev. Joseph M. Goldrick of St. Mary's and Rev. Charles Foley of the Immaculate Conception, in the lineup there was plenty of interest, and the fact that St. Mary's had to come from behind to win added to the excitement.

Davis of Immaculate Conception was high man with 302 on a high 120, the best string of the match, Captain Valley of St. Mary's led his team with 293, having two strings of 163, very consistent bowling.

Following are the summaries:

MR. LAWRENCE AGGAR AT DUKE UNIVERSITY ORGAN

MR. AGGAR TO GIVE ORGAN RECITAL AT FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Sunday at 4 P. M.

Lovers of organ music will welcome the opportunity to hear one of the brilliant young organists of the country, Mr. Lawrence Aggar, in a recital at the First Congregational Church, Sunday afternoon, at 4 o'clock.

At the age of 16 he began piano study with Charles Leach Gulich, prominent American concert organist. After two years of study with Gulich, he went to Yale. Although taking the academic course, he specialized in the School of Music. In 1921 he won the competitive examinations at Curtis Institute in Philadelphia, and was admitted. Here he studied under Dr. Lynwood Farnham, one of the greatest organists in the world. During his last two years at Curtis Institute, he was organist at the Reformed Congregation of Kenneseth Israel in Philadelphia, and was soloist with the Curtis Symphony Orchestra, Carnegie Hall, New York City.

For three seasons Mr. Aggar studied with Mr. Anton Brees, world renowned carillonist, at the Singing Tower, Mountain Lake, Florida. After graduation from the Curtis Institute, he became concert organist of Duke University, Durham, N. C. The Charlotte, North Carolina, "Observer" says of a recital which Mr. Aggar gave in that city, "The brilliant organist of Duke University rendered a wonderful program of organ music last night. That he is a complete master of the most difficult of all musical instruments, the organ, there is no doubt. The brilliance, yet simplicity, of his playing, the wide range of his selections, the perfection of its execution, the charm of his personality, all blend together and display an unusual artist."

Although still young, Mr. Aggar has played on hundreds of organs throughout the United States and Europe.

The program for the service Sunday is as follows:

Proclamation Hymn Invention
Organ

"Toccata and Fugue in D Minor" J. S. Bach
Choral Prelude on the chorale "Sleepers Awake" J. S. Bach
Address: "The Religion of a Christian" Dr. H. Hoff Organ: "Scherzo in F Major" Eugene Gignou
Two Movements from the Britten Suite "Hereupon" Marcel Dupre
Spinning Song "The Night This Come" J. S. Bach
Organ: "The Night This Come" J. S. Bach
Westminster Chimes: "Hail, Hail, the Victory is Ours" H. W. Aldrich Recessional Hymn: "Reverence and Adoration" Louis Austin
The public is invited.

EX-CHAMPS TO TEST THEIR METTLE

This Saturday night is to be a banner evening at the Cabinet Club. The auspicious occasion is "Some-thing different in bowling," and witnesses the long heralded match between the ex-champs of years ago, and the present day bowlers. The battle of the century will open at 8 p. m.

Off hand we should say that the ex-champs will need plenty of nerve tone to step up to the line with the youngsters, to say nothing of attempting to pile up the highest score, but as the old timers are largely dark horses and at present "unknowns," there may be something to their claims of superiority. Thus far, but one of these by-gone bowlers has been announced—George W. Farrington of the good old Gilt Edge and Mystic Valley League days. His team mates will be announced Saturday night.

The present day bowlers, carrying a title savoring of the New Deal, have disclosed that the three Farringtons of a later generation will participate. This trio includes Ralph George F. and "Newt."

Taken at its face value the match should prove interesting, if not, in one way at least, in another. Just what it takes to make an ex-champ is a little indefinite, and there may be some surprises in store all around.

MAINTENANCE OF FIRE DEPARTMENT EQUIPMENT

The fire departments of New England generally face a situation at the beginning of the New Year of a deficiency of apparatus in good condition and the undermining of forces, probably without parallel in history. Through no fault of the departments or of fire officials, the situation has been reached which is commanding the critical attention of insurance executives.

Hundreds of departments throughout New England lack sufficient apparatus to handle the fires they are nominally called upon to fight. Much of the apparatus which stands upon station house floors is in bad shape for lack of funds to buy new parts and make repairs. In some fire stations, have been practically closed up because the apparatus is no longer usable. In one instance a special town meeting had to be called to appropriate money to make repairs on fire apparatus because the town was virtually without such protection.

The under-manning of departments throughout New England is a condition which is recognized everywhere. The lessening of the number of men and property means not only greater danger to the inhabitants but it means within a short time a marked increase in insurance rates. The protection facilities have a definite relation to fire insurance rates and insurance companies cannot rely on promises in adjustments of their policies.

Fire departments, notwithstanding their local and efficient character, through pay cuts, have benefited very little as a whole from the millions of dollars of public funds which have been doled out to communities by the federal government. While millions have been expended in placing men to work in forest fire fighting, very little of this money has been available for the upkeep and maintenance of town and city fire departments at their proper standards.

Let us see that our local Fire Department is maintained and kept up to a high standard of fire fighting efficiency.

MARTIAL MARSHAL MURPHY

The announcement that United States Marshal John J. Murphy is directing a vigorous campaign against the fire Massachusetts Republican representatives who opposed the administration's gold bill reveals a Democratic President of another era. He said that public office was a trust. He declared that the "pernicious activity" of certain persons should cease immediately. He seemed to believe that an official should use his talents in the duties for which he was paid. Certainly, the idea that a United States marshal should organize a campaign against representatives who voted as their conscience bade them would have aroused Grover Cleveland's wrath.

The Massachusetts Republican in question, Representative Linkham, Treasday, Dice, Andrew and Edith Nourse Rogers are presumably able to take care of themselves. The bellicent Marshal Murphy does busy himself, however, in trying to defeat them, and is not asked by Washington to desist, it is difficult to escape the conclusion that Washington regards Republicanism as a serious offense. Actually, the country was never more in need of own, intelligent, or organized opposition to any policy which seems of questionable merit. If the proposed campaign of Marshal Murphy is countenanced by silence at Washington, inevitably the federal office holders in other places will be encouraged in activities similar to those which have caused widespread rumors in Washington of gross improprieties.—(Boston Herald.)

WINCHESTER PLAYERS RANKED AMONG N. E. TENNIS STARS

Several Winchester players appear upon the ranking lists made public last weekend by the New England Lawn Tennis ranking committee. In the junior girls' first to Sylvia Hatch is placed second, topped only by Helen Jones of Swampscott, with Lucy Fowle, third, Kay Barnes, eighth, and Ruth Asenline, ninth. Judith Reed, Gene Macdonald and Judith Bernard are placed respectively third, fourth and fifth in the first 10 of the younger girls' class.

John Scully, Winchester High School ace, was the sole local boy to break into the first 10 of the younger boys' list, being placed sixth. "Tom" Alchid paired with S. Webster to place third in the first five boys' doubles teams. Scully finished just behind him, doubling with F. O'Brien.

What Ails Norfolk?

Lewis Parkhurst Discusses Conditions in the Prisons of the Commonwealth, with Special Reference to Norfolk

To the Editor of the Transcript:

In a very timely editorial concerning the Norfolk Prison Colony in a Boston daily paper, three questions were asked. First, "Is there any time for a statement of what ails Norfolk?" I say, "Yes." Second, "Can't Massachusetts make sound penology, efficient administration and strict discipline go hand in hand?" I believe that the department of correction is attempting to do that very thing and I think they will succeed. So I say, "Yes." Third, "Is the present administration able to bring that about?" The governor and the commissioner of correction must answer that question.

So far as the management of Norfolk is concerned, the governor of the Commonwealth is making an examination with reference to the financial affairs at Norfolk as well as other prisons and is determined that there shall be good business management in our prisons. This I highly commend. The commissioner of correction is also examining carefully all that is going on at Norfolk. When these two make their reports that, I think, will answer the question. The Norfolk management must stand or fall by these reports.

But there are some things outside of the walls of Norfolk that will have to be considered before we can diagnose fully the case and it may be as important to apply a remedy to these ailments to those inside the walls. The Legislature has been asked for the last ten years by the Department of Correction and many others to provide adequate quarters and sufficient equipment to properly handle the prisoners of this State, and until recently entirely failed to do so. And with what result? Today there are 900 prisoners in Charlestown and there are only rooms there for 800. The other 100 must be accommodated in the corridors and a portion in what was originally called the schoolroom. The kitchen equipment is taxed to its uttermost to feed 900 men and they wish to keep the number under that if possible.

These troublous times have developed a large number of young and desperate criminals. They cannot find any more at Charlestown so they very properly send them to Norfolk. Beginning operations at Norfolk in 1927 with twelve men, the number has gradually been increased to approximately 500. These men have aided in the construction of the prison, working with the administration in perfect harmony until recently a large number of desperate criminals have been sent there and the number has increased to 900. The result is that it is a very difficult matter to keep them in their diet restricted to bread and water, disproving the statements frequently made that there was no place at Norfolk for men of that type.

How did they get the idea that it was a country club? Becoming statements about it? Going to Norfolk have been circulated that are absolutely untrue. For example, it was stated in a Boston paper and then circulated throughout the State by the papers in the smaller communities that a horse-drawn alley was being furnished to prisoners at Norfolk. What are the facts? The house in which the guards live is in a small building. It is a long and rather narrow building. It is not a country club.

A SUGGESTION FROM SELECTION MAN SYMMES

To the Editor of the Star:

As I am retiring from the Board of Selection after four years of service, I wish to thank the citizens through the "Star" for the support and cooperation given me, especially from other towns who have come here to the last two years when I was elected by the highest vote of any of the candidates.

I regret to say that for the greater part of this last term, on account of prolonged illness, I was unable to do my share of the work of the Board or act as chief of the Board. The Board honored me with.

The business for the Board to attend to the past year has been very heavy, and I have been able to do so. I have always lived in Winchester and my business is located here. I have had the opportunity of observing the workings and handling of the different departments which come under the direction of the Selection; so after four years of experience on the Board and keeping in close touch with these departments, I am fully convinced that what the town needs is a man to represent the town and co-operate with it, and who could be called a general manager or general superintendent, or perhaps, commissioner, who would have charge of the town and would have the power and authority to look after the general run of the department, co-operate with the board, and be the representative of the town. He could also have the power and authority to look after the general run of the department, co-operate with the board, and be the representative of the town. He could also have the power and authority to look after the general run of the department, co-operate with the board, and be the representative of the town.

As I have always lived in Winchester and my business is located here, I have had the opportunity of observing the workings and handling of the different departments which come under the direction of the Selection; so after four years of experience on the Board and keeping in close touch with these departments, I am fully convinced that what the town needs is a man to represent the town and co-operate with it, and who could be called a general manager or general superintendent, or perhaps, commissioner, who would have charge of the town and would have the power and authority to look after the general run of the department, co-operate with the board, and be the representative of the town.

Several Winchester players appear upon the ranking lists made public last weekend by the New England Lawn Tennis ranking committee. In the junior girls' first to Sylvia Hatch is placed second, topped only by Helen Jones of Swampscott, with Lucy Fowle, third, Kay Barnes, eighth, and Ruth Asenline, ninth. Judith Reed, Gene Macdonald and Judith Bernard are placed respectively third, fourth and fifth in the first 10 of the younger girls' class.

faceplant at one end is a target and the officers at the other end, when they are off duty, shoot their revolvers and rifles so that they may be more ready. First, it is necessary that Norfolk is not a country club. The floor of this room is utilized by making a lowing alley where the officers may exercise when they are off duty is they so desire. This seems to me to be an excellent arrangement. The prisoners would not have access to the room if the building were in Hingham. In the last two or three weeks the papers have been full of inflammatory statements about Norfolk. Now if there is anything that a certain type of prisoner likes better than anything else it is publicity and the more publicity they can make the more they expect to be exploited.

This modern and unusual type of criminal and the odds are inevitable who comes back repeatedly to prison must be segregated and I urgently suggest that the present Legislature consider the advisability of building once a suitable place in which this type of prisoner may be incarcerated. A suggestion reported in the press that such a place be built on another island somewhere off our shore has merit. About ten per cent of the inmates of the State's prison would probably come within this class; of the remainder it is possible to make over a large proportion.

Not only the superintendent at Norfolk has been obliged to take care of a large number of men, but at the same time very extensive building operations have been going on within the walls, some constructed by inmates, some by outside contractors. Men are passing in and out. Material are being brought in and out and there is much confusion. It is impossible to manage under such conditions as he otherwise might. I wonder that has done so well.

Innumerable misleading and often untrue statements have been made either intentionally or through ignorance. For example, it was said that the governor's original plan to investigate all six of the institutions was directed at Norfolk and that he was sending men to cover that up; a statement reflecting directly on the good faith of the governor of this Commonwealth.

Already over two million dollars have been expended on this modern plant, including a set of farm buildings outside the walls, where 125 men are now housed, and the entire plant with accommodations for 1500 men, including water and sewer systems, roads, sidewalks, parking facilities, etc. The new building will be completed at a cost of approximately four million dollars—a large sum—but the New York State Department of Correction, at Albany in July, 1933, stated the cost of the new prison at Attica, housing 1417 prisoners, as approximately $8,200,000. In a country where thorough and economical construction, the work already completed at Norfolk will compare most favorably with any penal institution in this country.

My purpose in writing this article is to do whatever I can to support the governor and commissioner of correction in their determination to make the department of correction one of which we may all be proud.

I have personally spent a good many hours with town officials from other towns who have come here to ask how Winchester conducts its affairs, and in every case these people have come away very much pleased with the results of their visit.

I would like to offer the suggestion at this time that it would seem to be for the best interests of the town that whenever possible preference be given local merchants by town departments when in the market for supplies which can be furnished locally.

NORFOLK OPINION SUSTAINED

The immediate return to the state prison at Charlestown of insurgent and riotous convicts at the state prison colony at Norfolk was recommended by Governor Ely Tuesday in a report on conditions at Norfolk compiled by W. Cameron Forbes of Westwood, one time Governor of the Philippine Islands and former American ambassador to Japan.

While giving his complete approval to the principle involved in the operation of the Norfolk prison colony, Mr. Forbes urged the application of more severe punitive measures in handling insubordinate inmates.

His report has the unqualified support of Lewis Parkhurst, who was responsible for the Norfolk institution, and in this opinion Mr. Parkhurst sent the following telegram Wednesday:

Winchester, Mass.,
Jan. 24, 1934

W. Cameron Forbes
New York, Mass.

I thank you from the bottom of my heart for your thorough report on the Norfolk Colony. I agree also, largely with all your recommendations and will do all I can to have them carried out.

WINCHESTER WON FROM LEXINGTON

Winchester High continued at the top of the Middlesex League basketball circuit by defeating Lexington High, 31-19, Tuesday afternoon in the local gymnasium. The local seconds lost a hair-line 21-20 decision to the visiting seconds in an overtime session, the clubs being deadlocked 19 at the final whistle.

The first team game wasn't much of a contest, the Lexington boys mixing too much football with their basketball with the result that the locals added eight big points to their total from free throws.

Winchester tended strictly to its knitting and had a 13-2 lead at half-time, extending this lead to about 20-2 before Coach Mansfield sent in his scrubs.

Lexington was without the services of its big guard, Bierenbroodspot, out of the game with a sore foot, but was outclassed from the start by the superior team work of the locals. Noble with five floor baskets was the game's high scorer, but the close guarding of Hannon and Letting was also worthy of note.

Unemployment has made a very heavy demand upon the treasury, which has to be met somehow.

The question of the state government to consider is how much it should delegate decisions of local importance to the government at Washington. The question of the milk supply is a present example of this problem.

After all, in every government, the personal ability and integrity of the leaders is probably the most vital factor. We have sent out from Massachusetts a man who was almost unique in maintaining the confidence of the people—Calvin Coolidge. He had made the high responsibility of public office, his life's study and he never failed to fulfill the people's expectations of him.

SEEN IN OUR SIDES

THE REPUBLICAN CLUB MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Republican Club of Winchester will be held Feb. 7 at 7:30 in the afternoon at Association Hall.

The speaker of the afternoon will be Mr. William Mullins, Republican reporter for the Boston Herald. His subject is "What a Citizen Can Do Inside the State House."

Mr. Mullins is considered a very fine speaker and presents his subject in a clear and concise manner.

Mrs. William L. Thompson, chairman of Education, will explain the Child Labor Bill and other bills of importance.

Mrs. Alfred D. Bradley, one of our former club presidents, will speak for a few minutes on the highlights of the meeting held in New York City by the National Republican Women's Clubs which she attended.

Tea will be served by Mrs. Lucius Smith and her committee.

FIREMEN CHECKED POSSIBLY BAD BLAZE

During the extreme cold and high wind of Monday morning a fire was discovered about 7 o'clock in the basement of the residence at 101 Canal street, occupied by James A. Cullen, local insurance man.

Box 44 was sounded and the apparatus made good time to the fire. Two lines of hose were quickly laid, chemicals also being brought to bear, the firemen realizing the grave possibilities for serious conflagration if the fire made much headway in the heavy gale.

The fire started in an over-heated smoke pipe in the cellar and quickly ate into the house partition. It was checked by the firemen without serious damage, other than that done by the especially heavy smoke.

FLORENCE CRITTON NOTES

The next meeting of the Winchester Circle will be held on Feb. 15 at the home of Mrs. Charles A. Burnham, 33 Everett avenue. Full particulars of program will be printed in next week's Star.

The Sewing Committee has finished a large amount of work this year. Already 36 baby dresses, 32 crib sheets and eight crib blankets have been completed and sent to the Home. There will be one more meeting this winter on Mar. 15 and the Superintendent of the Home says: "Oh, ladies, if you only knew how much we need layettes!"

The date of the luncheon-bridge has been changed to Tuesday, April 3. It will be a gala Easter event, a new committee, a new menu, but the same excellent luncheon and good time. See the Winchester Star of later date.

The following is the copy of a letter received by Mrs. Reginald Bradley from the former Lady Mayors of Winchester, England:

Dec. 15, 1933

My dear Friend:
Christmas is very near and I hasten to send greetings from our old city to you.

I shall never forget the memorable afternoon when my husband and I visited your charming house and heard about your Florence Critton League of Compassion.

Your kind reception and the wonderful silken vase presented to me with inscription, which is always gaining admiration here, the beautiful bouquets, in addition to the splendid refreshments, filled me with the highest thoughts of you all.

I often wish I could live that memorable week all over again.

With very kindest remembrances, believe me,

Yours sincerely,
T. R. Collis

Enclosed was a Christmas card from Alderman and Mrs. H. Collis.

Miss Maribel Vinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Vinson of High street, world prominent figure skater, was winner of third place in the European figure skating contest, held at Praha, Czechoslovakia, in the European figure skating contest.

The title was successfully defended by Sonia Hone of Norway, with Lisette Landbeck of Vienna, second. Miss Vinson was barely edged out for second place and gave a brilliant performance during the two-day competition for the sixth consecutive time last March at New Haven, Conn., and was third in the Olympic matches two years ago. Next month she will compete in the world figure skating championships at Oslo.

PULLED BOY FROM RIVER

The prompt action of Florence Barrett, 12, of 85 Cross street, prevented a possible drowning Sunday afternoon in the Aberjona River north of the new park at the Cross street railroad station.

Little "Dannie" Doherty of Woburn, somewhat younger than Florence, was the youngster benefited by the latter's quick thinking and positive action.

"Dannie" was one of a group of boys who were playing on some cakes of ice in the river, and after working his way across two cakes was the last to attempt to jump for land and safety.

He failed to make his distance and plunged into the water which was well over his head. Fortunately his plight was noticed by Susan Thomas, 13, classically and Patrolman James P. Donaghy in the police cruiser car, and both officers were on their way to his aid when Florence made their assistance unnecessary.

Seizing a long pole, she ran to the edge of the river and thrust the stick into "Dannie's" hands as he came up from the icy water, admonishing him to "hang on."

As the youngster grasped the pole, Florence quickly pulled him to safety and the dripping "Dannie," seeing the police approaching, started for home on the dead run, getting over the ground at a speed that relieved any anxiety the officers might have had for his condition after his icy bath.

INJURED IN FALL FROM TRUCK

Joseph Mello, 17, of 729 Cambridge street, Cambridge, received possibly serious injuries to his head Friday sometime before noon when he fell after jumping from an unknown truck which was turning into Church street going north.

The local police were first notified of the accident by the Arlington authorities and Patrolman John Hogan then came to meet Sergeant Barry of the latter department at the Country Club.

With the Arlington officer was Louis Mello, 20, of 151 Cambridge street, Cambridge, a cousin of the injured youth who told Officer Hogan that he and his cousin had hopped a truck in Arlington and ridden on it until it turned from Cambridge street into Church street when they jumped off.

Joseph Mello fell backwards in getting off and struck his head. Louis said that both he and Joseph shouted but that the truck driver did not stop. The pair were waiting at High street when a town truck came down the hill and offered assistance which was refused, the young men stating that they were all right.

After getting a ride to Arlington in a coal truck, Joseph Mello collapsed and was taken to the Symmes Hospital where Officer Hogan learned that he had been treated for a bad bump on the head. He was being held for X-rays to determine whether he had sustained a fractured skull.

THAWING PIPES CAUSED FIRE

Thawing frozen pipes Monday evening at the home of Mr. Eugene A. Weaver, 324 Main street, caused a fire doing damage estimated by Chief David H. DeCourcy of the Fire Department as in the neighborhood of $1500.

The fire started in the basement of the "old Blodgett House" now occupied by Mr. Weaver and quickly ate its way up through partitions to the kitchen and a second floor bedroom where the firemen succeeded in making a good stop. Damage, other than that done by smoke and water, was largely confined to the basement, kitchen and chamber. Box 26 summoned the apparatus at 9:56 and it was 11:30 before the "all out" sounded. Fireman David Meskell was left with the hoses to guard against a recurrence of the fire.

WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB

In response to a petition there will be a special meeting of the Winchester Boat Club tonight, Feb. 2 at 8:15 p.m. at the Calumet Club.

The business to be transacted: To see if the members wish the directors to reconsider their vote in regard to rehiring Steward Charles K. Rogers.

RECITAL BY LAWRENCE APGAR

It was with pleasure that a good sized audience listened to the organ recital given last Sunday afternoon at the Congregational Church by the talented young organist, Lawrence Apgar, former concert organist of Duke University. Mr. Apgar proved his understanding of the instrument and displayed a splendid technique and colorful registration in his well chosen program.

Mr. Apgar opened his recital with the "Toccata and Fugue in D Minor," one of the most brilliant compositions of the famous organist, J. S. Bach. The Fugue, a difficult one, was played in a good even tempo with well balanced registration. The next number, the Choral Prelude on the Chorale "Sleepers Awake" by the same composer is a delightful melody with opportunity for use of solo stops on the organ. Mr. Apgar then played the "Scherzo in E Major" by Gigout, taking it in a rapid tempo and with good interpretation. From the "Britannia Suite" by the modern French organist Marcel Dupre, Mr. Apgar first played "Hercules" a very quiet number, full of pleasing harmonies.

The "Singing Song" from the same Suite depicts old women gossiping as they sit spinning. It was played with bright registration and made a delightful addition to the program. Then was heard Zechel's prelude on Bach's Chorale "The Night Has Come." This is still in manuscript and is one of the most beautiful preludes in recent years. Mr. Apgar then chose "Dreams" by Hugh McAnn. Although the piece has no great musical value it has a charming melody and gives opportunity for the use of chimes. In the "Westminster Chimes" of Louis Vierne, Mr. Apgar gradually built up to a stirring climax at the end of the piece. His last number was "Toccata from the Gregorian missal 'O Filii et Filiae'" arranged by the finest of American organists, Lynwood Farnham. It was well chosen as the finale.

Dr. Chidley gave an interesting address on the life of Albert Schweitzer, the greatest living authority on the life and work of Johann Sebastian Bach. He is now a medical missionary in Africa. Dr. Chidley expressed a hope that many would avail themselves of the books in the Public Library and learn more about this great man who has done so much for the world.

EWORTH LEAGUE NOTES

Miss Dorothy C. Allen led the Young People's meeting on Sunday evening, Jan. 28. The subject under discussion was "Hobbies." Any use of leisure time should result in certain things to live or it becomes a menace to the development of one's best character. We may test the value of our hobbies by the following: (1) Do you enjoy the hobby for its own sake? (2) Would the pursuit of this hobby give one an opportunity to express his own feelings, his own personality? (3) Will the pursuit of this hobby help us develop physical strength and health, or physical skill of any kind? (4) Would this hobby help us live more friendly and encourage wholesome romance and close fellowship among the persons who enjoy it? (5) Can this hobby be enjoyed without extravagant spending of money? (6) Would this hobby help us develop good habits and clean thinking? (7) Will this hobby help us appreciate beauty? (8) Will this hobby give us an opportunity to see God in the things we create or experience?

Many of us found our hobbies had three or four of these values but few contained all eight. Scrapbooks were exhibited and it was found that the majority of the exhibitors kept a scrapbook of one kind or another. "Lefty" Hatch showed his model of the "Flying Cloud" which he has recently completed. Next week we intend to have more people tell of their hobbies.

An eight-week Bible study class on "Prophecy of the Old Testament" was started Sunday night at the close of the league service. The book of Amos was discussed and many of us were surprised to find there was so much interest in it.

Young people of high school age and over are cordially invited to attend any league service.

WINCHESTER RE-EMPLOYMENT OFFICE MOVED TO ARLINGTON

Announcement is made that after Feb. 1, Winchester's Re-Employment Office will be located in the town hall, in charge of Mr. Frank T. Olmstead, is to be consolidated with other towns as far removed as Stoneham and located in the Arlington Old Town Hall.

The State authorities have named Earl W. Perkins of Medford as supervisor for the district, of which Winchester is a part, and all future persons for C. W. A. jobs in Winchester will be selected by him. Mr. Perkins will have available all lists and data compiled by the local office under Mr. Olmstead, and workers whom he will select will come from those lists. Mr. Olmstead, with other local directors, is relieved from duty.

Chairman Earle Andrews of the Board of Public Welfare continues as Civil Works administrator for Winchester, but in the future when he wants workers for any particular job he will send to Mr. Perkins in Arlington for them, the latter in turn selecting from his lists the man or men to report to Mr. Andrews.

The consolidating of local offices was brought about very quickly and is described by state authorities as an economical move. It is also said that the new arrangement will obviate favoritism shown certain workers in the good times of the past.

Since its inception Mr. Olmstead's Winchester office has registered workers as follows:

Miss Ethel Knowlton, teacher of French at the high school was unable to meet her classes the early part of the week because of illness.

GENERAL NEEDHAM TO SPEAK HERE

An event of importance on the program at the next regular meeting of the Winchester Post, A. L. next Thursday night will be the appearance of Gen. Daniel Needham, State Commissioner of Public Safety, an honor guest and speaker. General Needham has accepted the invitation of Comdr. Augustus P. Cass and announcement of his visit has created great interest among the Legionnaires and their friends. The Board of Selectmen, Chief David H. DeCourcy of the Fire Department and Chief William H. Rogers of the Police Department will be present as guests.

General Needham, at present Commander of the 51st Artillery Brigade, was Colonel of the 101st Field Artillery Regiment in the War and is well known as a polo player and all round sportsman.

The ground have seen his shadow today! That is, in case the New Deal does not prevent his looking for it until tomorrow, or next week!

It is fortunate that there were no thieves looking for opportunities around the center during Wednesday night. The police found less than six doors of business houses unlocked on that occasion, and one of the shops was found unlocked twice in the same night. Carelessness in securing buildings is apparently on the increase in Winchester if one is to judge by the police blotter and such carelessness may easily breed serious results. Let us all do our best to make it as hard as possible for any one so minded to get what little money there may now-a-days chance to be in the safe or cash drawer.

THE CWA DEAL

As a measure of economy, effecting from casual observation the considerable sum of $25, the local CWA office was closed on Wednesday. Henceforth our administration will come from Arlington and our local agent has been removed. In this unexpected move one may or may not, according to his light, see an opening for more or less efficiency. There is, however, little question but that the local office was efficiently handled and that politics had not entered into its doings. An opening is apparent. Winchester has planned for the CWA work beyond the expiration of the Feb. 15th limit and it is probable that this work will be continued to completion. Probable but not positive. It is also probable that new project will be considered after Feb. 15.

Local applicants must now tramp to Arlington to register for CWA work and their selection will be made from that place. If new projects are allowed, all must go over and re-register.

Heretofore the local agent, working with a full knowledge of the conditions has been able to wisely and satisfactorily assign workers. Furthermore, local registrants, eager to keep in touch with conditions, have been able to visit our agency and follow up their chances. Now, if they desire to keep in touch with the possibilities of a job, they can tramp to Arlington.

The new scheme closely resembles the new deal. It opens our CWA to influence, and places us on an equalized footing, be it as it may, with surrounding places.

HOW DO WE STAND?

To the Editor of the Star:
I read with considerable interest your editorial in the January 25th Star on "Maintenance of Fire Department Equipment." It was, however, not clear to me whether or not this editorial was of the circular type sent out by insurance companies or fire department organization or whether it was intended to apply specifically to the Winchester situation.

If it be the latter, can you not arrange to have the Chief of the Fire Department tell us just how much worse off our protection was at the end of the year just closed over the first of that year due to inadequate appropriations and perhaps still further figures—that is how much poorer the fire protection is in respect to personnel and material now than it was in 1929.

Those who are paying substantial taxes in Winchester and have property requiring fire protection are interested neither in the boast of having the best equipped fire department in the Commonwealth nor in neglecting it to a point where adequate protection is not capable of being given. They are interested in having a sound economic balance between these two extremes. Perhaps you will arrange to complete your editorial so that we may know just where we stand.

Yours very truly,
H. B. Richmond

HARDSHIP FOR PROSPECTIVE WORKERS

To the Editor of the Star:
Presumably there is good reason for the consolidating of local re-employment offices for C. W. A. workers. "Economy" always sounds well, and it will undoubtedly be cheaper to have one office administer several towns. We can also see where the new arrangement will make it harder for local politicians to venture jobs for their often undeserving friends. There are however some phases of the situation which may not work out so well. It would seem that as a result of the new plan, working from Arlington can know very much about the relative merits of a group of applicants for jobs living in the same place where fact alone Winchester. He will, of course, have lists sent him from the individual towns, but once in possession of these lists, he must more or less "go blind." Perhaps all around such a method may be fairer than those which have been in vogue where favorites have been played or political influence brought to bear. It will however work something of a hard-

CONSIDER THE FACTS

To the Editor of the Star:
We are rapidly nearing our annual Town Meeting when we shall elect our town officials and 66 men and women to serve as representative town meeting members for three years.

It is worthwhile for the citizens to consider carefully at this time what are some of the requisites the voters of the various precincts should expect of the men and women who are to serve their precincts and the town. At least two should be carefully considered. First, will the man or woman who is a candidate for election or re-election take the position seriously enough to attend the sessions of the various meetings which are bound to occur during the term of office. Personally, I place constant attendance as a primary requisite. During the past three years a town meeting member elected for three years, in 1931 has been notified of his sessions. The records of the Town Clerk show a wide variation in the number of sessions attended by individual members varying from no session missed to as many as 15 of the 18. There is no rule by which one automatically ceases his membership by failure to attend to his or her obligation. If he removes from his precinct to another or leaves town, he automatically loses his standing and his place will be filled to the next annual meeting by the remaining members of the precinct representatives.

Second, is the candidate also possessed of good judgment? It will be noted I use the word "also" for if he is not present at meetings to exercise that good judgment he is worse than useless for he has cut down by one vote delegated to him by the voters who elected him.

It is interesting to take account of stock of our limited or representative town meeting. This has now been our type of town meeting for five years, a period long enough to make possible a judgment as to its merits when compared first with the type immediately preceding the adoption of our present system when the legal seating capacity of the Town Hall allowed the use of the referendum in case more attempts to attend sessions than could be permitted to enter the hall. Preceding that type was the old fashioned meeting where articles in the town warrant were passed upon finally by those who were in the hall. Under either type one was never certain when the hall was filled to capacity whether those present were a good cross-section of the voters of the town or consisted largely of a group whose controlling reason for being there was some sort of a group interest in some one or two articles to be voted upon which might or might not be for the interest of the town as a whole.

With the representative town meeting the danger of a packed meeting in theory was done away with, but as a practical matter the attendance of at least 85 per cent of the elected members is a requisite that recorded votes shall be truly representative of the best interests of the town as a whole.

Years ago the abuse of the privilege every voter had of addressing the town meeting as often and as long as he wished led to the adoption of a rule for the conduct of each meeting that went so far as to exclude a voter from speaking more than once on any motion without the consent of the meeting, a serious menace to proper freedom of debate. That provision was finally eliminated and about 1912 a special committee of five whose duty was to recommend a revision of the town by-laws reported to the town meeting the advisability of providing in the by-laws rules of procedure for the conduct of our town meetings and these rules were adopted. They have been in effect unaltered or amended for over 20 years. Without wishing to call attention to myself the committee consisted of E. May Jr., Esq., the Moderator, Charles N. Harris, Esq., and Ralph E. Joslin, Esq., both of whom had served the town in previous years as Moderators; the town Clerk, George E. Carter and myself.

One of the common criticisms of town meetings has been the length of discussions, especially on trivial matters. Personally, I believe in exhaustive explanations and debates which are properly used to clarify matters under discussion, but, too often instead of exhaustive, the speakers become extremely exhausting and irritating especially to men and women of judgment who are seeking the good of the town.

Now a gentle criticism of recent meetings has to do with the rule that no one shall speak more than five minutes without the consent of the meeting. How is this rule best carried out? It has seemed to me that the Moderator should never depart from enforcing this rule. If he fails to do so, it is of course entirely in order to raise the point of order, but that is an ungracious thing to do from the floor, especially when we observe that the Moderator takes the oath of his office which presumably means that we may expect that our rules of procedure shall be observed without fear or favor.

Several times members of our limited town meeting have told me that one reason for not better attendance is that the sessions seem to "drag out." This is a serious criticism and a careful enforcement of our rules would eliminate much of this "drag out."

I have attended, I have no memory that those present have failed to give all necessary time to a full and adequate discussion that limited itself to the motion before the meeting.

PREJUDICING NORFOLK

To the Editor of the Transcript:

The people of New York City were very much shocked recently when their new mayor made public the conditions which existed in their prison on Welfare Island. This investigation brought to light such horrible conditions and such inhuman practices in this institution that the New York papers were probably justified in describing the Welfare Island prison as the worst in the world.

In your Saturday evening's edition on the front page appeared this startling headline "Says Norfolk Bad as Prison in New York and Mr. E. B. Sargent, in an article under this heading, declares that according to the statement of State Auditor Hurler, now examining the accounts of Norfolk, conditions at Norfolk have been as bad or even worse than at Welfare Island." Any unbiased reader would be in doubt whether to accept this statement of our State official as correct or to believe Mr. W. Cameron Hurler in his recent official report to the Governor in which he says that "Norfolk is the one creditable page in the prison history of Massachusetts and far better than the unimpressive opinion of the Council of Inmates with which I consulted that they are treated like human beings there, and it is this aspect of the institution that I cannot too strongly recommend."

In conclusion Mr. Sargent says that "Mr. Gill was not at the colony Saturday, and it was reported that he had gone to New Haven. The purpose of his visit there was not ascertained."

It might be of interest to your readers to know that the State authorities of Connecticut, whose prison plant at Weatherfield is second only to Charlestown in its unfitness for a prison, have decided to build a new plant and the Governor of Connecticut has asked the Governor of Massachusetts if they could have the services of Mr. Gill to assist them in laying out the new plant. He has already been to New Haven to assist the authorities in making these plans and probably he was at New Haven for that purpose Saturday.

Mr. Gill has been requested by the Governor not to make any statements about Norfolk until the auditor's report is in. Would it not be a little fairer to all concerned to await the auditor's official report so that Mr. Gill could have an opportunity to reply to these many damaging statements which have lately appeared in the papers of the State rather than report as it is. Would it not be a little fairer to all concerned to await the auditor's official report so that Mr. Gill could have an opportunity to reply to these many damaging statements which have lately appeared in the papers of the State rather than report as it is. Would it not be a little fairer to all concerned to await the auditor's official report so that Mr. Gill could have an opportunity to reply to these many damaging statements which have lately appeared in the papers of the State rather than report as it is.

The people of the State I am sure want to know all the facts about Norfolk which is a most distinguished visitors have highly approved, and want all parties to have a square deal.

RECORD HOWLING IN MATCH CONTESTS
The special howling at the Calumet Club on Saturday night brought out a big crowd and produced some of the best scores in recent years. No secret was the interest that two teams in each class—the "Present Day Howlers" and the "Ex-Champs"—were necessary to adequately settle the controversy. As it was, the first Ex-Champ team split even with the Present Day aggregation and the second Ex-Champ won one and dropped three.

Both the best single and the best total were produced by the old-timers, "New" Purinton going up in the air for a string of 181 and the beautiful total of 383. The next best scores were those of another old-timer, Warren Gough, who piled up 131 for a single and 348 for a total. The total for this team was 1562. The second team on the Ex-Champ card did not fare so well, and no one reached the 300 mark.

The youngsters did a very good job. Pike on the second team was high man with 134 and 333. McGrath rolled a total of 322 and Pile piled up 125 for a single.

The scores:
Ex-Champs 1st Team vs Present Day 1st Team	111	131	301

WINCHESTER

Milton High School gave Winchester its second defeat of the present basketball season last Friday evening at Milton, coming from behind to nip the locals, 43-35. Amherst starting.

The game was an exhibition affair for the locals and did not count in the Middlesex League standings. The local boys gave the visitors a hard fight and fought throughout the evening, Milton leading 16-15 at the half, and Winchester, following a sharp rally being out in front at the three-quarter mark, 23-22.

Winchester's inability to cover Arnold Green, Milton center, during the final period, proved fatal, his sharp-shooting giving the winners their edge.

With Lent in the near future, favorite meat dishes should be enjoyed now, though well cooked and seasoned fish is equally good.

THE WINCHESTER STAR.

REV. FR. NATHANIEL J. MERRITT

DECEASED PASTOR OF ST. MARY'S, DEAN OF WINCHESTER

Rev. Fr. Nathaniel J. Merritt, nearly 25 years pastor of St. Mary's Church and for nearly 30 years priest of the Boston Archdiocese, died Monday, Feb. 9, at his home, 71 Highland street, at the age of 64.

He was born in the village of Brighton, after a long illness. He entered the hospital for treatment shortly before Thanksgiving, but had previously been in poor health for several years.

When news of his death reached Winchester the bell and the children of St. Mary's Parochial School, in whose progress and welfare the deceased pastor had always taken the greatest interest, went to the church and recited prayers for the repose of his soul. They were led by Rev. Fr. Conrad J. Quinn, pastor of St. Joseph's. The body arrived at the parish rectory Wednesday and at 1 o'clock in the afternoon was escorted by the police to the home of the Chief David H. DeCunzio of the Fire Department, Chief William H. Fennell of the Police, Joseph J. D'Almeida, Dr. Milton J. Quinn, Edmund L. Dunn, Patrick T. Walsh, Edmund G. Moffett, Charles R. Greco, William H. McMillen and Daniel Murphy, all of whom acted as honorary bearers. Daniel Lydon, representing the Holy Name Society and Arthur E. A. King, Grand Knight of Winchester Council, K. of C., were ushers.

Until 9 o'clock in the evening the body lay in state in the church, being viewed by large numbers of parishioners and friends. Members of the several parish societies acted as guard of honor. The office of the dead was closed at 1 o'clock by 11 priests from neighboring parishes under the direction of Rev. Fr. James F. Lynch, acting pastor of St. Mary's during the absence of Rev. Fr. Merritt. A funeral of a social nature, including the banquet and dance of the Knights of Columbus, were indignantly postponed.

Father Merritt was the son of Mr. Abraham and Catherine (O'Connor) Merritt. Born April 6, 1869, in the south end of Boston, he received his early education in the Boston schools, entering the Boston College Preparatory School at the age of 13. He was one of the oldest alumni of Boston College, from which he was graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1889.

He began his studies for the priesthood at the Grand Seminary in Montreal, but in 1881, when the parishioners of St. John's Seminary, St. John's, was completed in Brighton, he and other young men of the Boston Archdiocese studying for the priesthood were transferred there, and on Dec. 20, 1881, he was one of the first class from St. John's to be ordained at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross in Boston by the late Archbishop John J. Williams of Boston.

After his ordination Father Merritt spent three years at St. Augustine, Fla. He was then assigned as a curate at the Gate of Heaven Church, South Boston, where he remained eight years. He then went to Europe and on his return in 1897 was made curate at St. Patrick's Church, Roxbury, where he served for the next eight years.

His work in promoting the League of the Sacred Heart, the Young Women's Societies and his other activities in educational lines won for him high esteem in the parishioners and his superiors. In 1905, after a year's service at St. Mary's Church, Newton Upper Falls, he was assigned as a pastor in a newly established parish in West Medford.

DECEASED PASTOR OF ST. MARY'S, DEAN OF WINCHESTER

Father Merritt's new parish, St. Raphael's, was the first of the four new parishes to be established in West Medford. He built a handsome Spanish mission church and a school, and during his tenure he used as a rectory, the church being dedicated in October, 1905, about 10 months after he assumed charge. During his stay of four and one-half years at St. Raphael's he sponsored many movements, including the West Medford Catholic Association of men and other religious societies of the parish.

Father Merritt's patronage at St. Raphael's commenced in August of 1905, succeeding that of Rev. Daniel J. Kellier who was transferred to St. Peter's in Lowell. Immediately on his arrival he set to work to improve the church, the work being carried out by the parishioners. He had a new altar, stained glass windows, the sanctuary was beautified with artistic paintings and statuary, and new Stations on the cross were set up.

Under his leadership a new parochial residence was erected, ground being broken in May of 1911, and the building completed in January of the next year. Considered one of the most ecclesiastically correct parishes in the Archdiocese, eminent authorities have pronounced the building a model parochial residence.

Unhappily, marked financial reverses in carrying out the debt incurred by these improvements, Father Merritt most faithfully attended to securing funds for a parochial school. He turned the debt over to the parish in 1911, and the school was completed. Eighty-four children were enrolled in the school, which included all the grammar grades and a four year high school course for girls.

Considering the parish property, the old Jenkins mansion was remodelled into a convent for the teaching Sisters of St. Joseph, the cornerstone being laid in the presence of Cardinal O'Connor, Oct. 10, 1914. His Eminence and high tribute to Father Merritt, stating that he would not have believed it possible in so short a time.

Father Merritt was not alone concerned with the material welfare of his parishioners. As a result of his pastoral duties, he acted as chaplain of Winchester County, Mass., C. O. F. of Winchester County, Knights of Columbus, and as district chaplain of the Catholic Federation. He was prominently identified with welfare movements within the Archdiocese and the Legion. His devotion to the poor was maintained through many years of poor health, won him the admiration of the priestly community, while his many sterling qualities, best known to his parishioners, far appreciated by citizens of all beliefs. The children of the parish who loved by those who knew him best.

His last years were largely devoted to the children of the parish, of whom he was particularly fond. He was daily in the school rooms, and the church gave his personal attention to their spiritual development. While his loss will be universally mourned, the children of the parish who will perhaps miss his help and guidance most. He is survived only by nieces and nephews. There are no immediate survivors.

Funeral services began Thursday morning with a high mass of requiem for the children of the parish, celebrated at 8 o'clock by Rev. Fr. James F. Lynch. A requiem low mass for those unable to attend the funeral mass was celebrated at 7 o'clock by Rev. Fr. Joseph E. McGoldrick. A mass for the repose of the soul was also celebrated by Rev. Fr. Conrad J. Kellier.

A solemn requiem high mass was celebrated at 10 o'clock, but long before that hour the church was filled with people, many being unable to gain admission and remaining in the street throughout the service. Special police details directed by Sgt. John H. Noonan handled the crowd and traffic to leave the street as clear as possible.

Rev. Fr. Daniel C. Reardon, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, Watertown, was celebrant of the mass. The deacon was Rev. Fr. Florence J. Halloran of St. Joseph's Church, Wakefield, who also delivered the eulogy. Rev. Fr. James F. Fitzsimmons, pastor of the Immaculate Conception Church, Winchester, was sub-deacon; Rev. Fr. Charles J. Donahue of St. Anne's Church, Neponset, thurifer; Rev. Fr. Joseph O'Connor of the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, master of ceremonies; and Rev. Fr. Eugene E. Maguire, chaplain at the House of the Angel Guardian, Jamaica Plain, and Rev. Fr. Andrew O'Brien of St. Raphael's Church, West Medford, readers.

Social Items of Interest

"The Little Theatre Beneath the Spire"

This is the eighth season that the Dramatic Society of the First Congregational Church has offered dramatics, that may be considered, as well done as any Winchester has the pleasure to see. A large audience was delighted last Friday evening, Feb. 2, with "The Queen's Husband" by Robert Emmet Sherwood. The play which held one's interest throughout the second of three in the 1933-34 program. The committee is to be congratulated on their choice of play and cast. Their reputation is such that season tickets are readily sold to persons, other than church members, who enjoy well staged amateur work.

One of the happy customs of these evenings is the serving of coffee in the foyer between acts 2 and 3. Such a delightful few minutes to visit with friends, Mrs. Allan R. Cunningham and Mrs. Walter W. Wimspey were the hostesses, and they were assisted by the young girls who, earlier in the evening, had helped Mrs. Clarence P. Wheeler and Mrs. Joseph W. Butler sell candy. They were the Misses Alice Lyman, Evelyn McGill, Phyllis Lybeck, Janet Fuller, Mary Little Fuller, Mary Jane Dickson, Jean Ramoth, Mary W. Wether, Rosemary Smith and Marjorie Mountain.

Mr. Clifford Cunningham is president chairman of the Society this season. The directors are Mrs. H. H. and J. Chidley, Mrs. John B. Willis, Dr. F. M. M. Blanchard and Mr. Prescott B. Taylor, Miss Bertha Kelley and Mr. Deane W. Crothers.

The third and last play of the season is to be an English play, "Passing Branton Road," given Friday evening, April 6 and coached by Mr. Edward Goodnow of Boston.

"Hawk Island," Fourth Annual Legion Play

Again in the high school auditorium, the American Legion Post is to offer their dramatics on Friday and Saturday evenings, Feb. 16 and 17, "Hawk Island," by Howard Irving Brown. The play is a thriller and promises to be one of thrills and mystery. Several in the cast are old favorites and have for the first time been coached by the success of the plays. The willingness of several of the women to give their time and be in the play is greatly appreciated. It was a pleasure to again see Mrs. Harry Goodwin, Mrs. Ralph Dana, Miss Barbara Small, Mrs. Gerald V. Hills and Mrs. John B. Willis. The play will be supported by Mr. Kenneth Hall, Mr. John B. Willis, Mr. Donald Waugh, Mr. Forrest L. Pitman, Mr. Charles J. Donahue, Mr. Revereley H. B. Smith, Mr. William Carroll and Mr. W. H. Dornet Townley-Tilson.

Mr. Kenneth Hall is chairman of the cast and can be expected to direct the staging in the smooth and efficient manner he did "The Old Hillyard" last year. Mr. Carr and Mrs. Carr have agreed to assist the committee on properties; Mr. John H. Terry, Jr., and Mr. Gerald V. Hills and Mr. John H. Terry, Jr., are working hard for this play's success, realizing it is one of many this season. But because of the well chosen plays, the Legion shows have been well supported by the townspeople.

STONEHAM HERE SATURDAY

Winchester High plays a Middlesex League basketball game with Stoneham High Saturday evening in the local gymnasium, commencing at 7:30. The teams will have to win this game to stay in the hunt for the league title as the another loss will tumble them pretty much out of the running.

MARRIAGE INTENTIONS

Marriage intention have been filed with the town clerk as follows:

Fred Brooks Hornby of 17 Beach road, Lynn, and Sidney Raynes of 77 Forest street, and Alberta Emma Wakeley of 83 Charlesbank road.

GENERAL NEEDHAM AT LEGION

General Daniel Needham, commander of police safety, was guest speaker at last evening's regular monthly meeting of Winchester Post, 35, American Legion, Comdr. Kingman P. Carr presided and introduced the speaker, whose address was characteristically straight forward and much enjoyed. Final plans for the Legion show were also announced during the evening and a collation served at the conclusion of the address.

COLD?

Another work of biting cold, with temperatures hovering just above or below zero, has been experienced last night by the coldest weather experienced since the previous extreme cold after Christmas.

Apparently the mass varied last night and early this morning, readings from 14 degrees below to 22 degrees being reported. Warmer weather is to be expected for tomorrow and will be welcome.

M. C. W. G. NOTES

The regular business meeting for February will be held at the home of Mrs. Mary Carroll on Lincoln street, Thursday evening, Feb. 15. This is the meeting postponed because of the death of Father Merritt.

200 ATTEND WINTON CLUB REHEARSAL

An audience of 200, mostly children who knew the "circus" was in town saw the dress rehearsal of the Winton Club "circus" Tuesday evening at the Town Hall. For several years the dress rehearsal has been open for general admission. It is usually a very lively entertainment and last night the "jockies" and their "horses," the "clowns" and their "trains," the "trick rope walkers," a "yellow" and all the entertainment of the circus, from the "parade" to the "tricks," went through their parts in the delight of the children. Tonight, and tomorrow night this cabaret, for the benefit of the Winton Club Hospital Fund will be at the Town Hall. Weeks of work, hours of sewing, and costume planning, of locating properties, of securing advertisements, so generously given by the program, has been the interest of each Winton Club member.

Mrs. Henry K. Spencer of Central Green, daughter of Mr. Philip E. Hovey of Stratford road, a Phi Beta Kappa member at Smith College and at present on our school committee, has been selected to be the "yellow" in the circus.

Mrs. Fulton Brown, who was Winsome Abbott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Abbott of Arlington street, has this season, as for several years past, designed, cut and directed the making of the costumes. Mrs. Brown studied at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, and spent the winter of 1922-23 in Paris attending Julians.

Mrs. Robert Smith Clark (Esther Crane) who, since 1921, has been in business in her "Esther's Shop," commanded the respect and admiration of all, has compiled a program of which local merchants and friends have charitably contributed, all for this worthy cause—our hospital. Many other talented and original Winchester women could be mentioned who have done so much each year for the success of this entertainment.

Those attending the high school junior and senior play, tonight in the High School Auditorium, who might be interested, are cordially invited to come over to the Town Hall, present the stub to their seat ticket and by paying a small amount enjoy dancing for two hours to the music of Roy Newman's dance orchestra.

MRS. HOLLS NICKERSON OPENS HER HOME FOR THE MUSIC GROUP

This is the second season the Music Group has held instructive musicals on Sunday afternoon each month. Last month Mrs. Robert Drake entertained them and Sunday, Feb. 4, Mrs. Hollis Nickerson of Grove street, hosted to 55 children. Fifteen of these young musicians took part in a "French music" program. After the singing of the French anthem and some folk songs, directed by Mrs. John Carr, the orchestra, composed of eight members, who meet weekly with Mrs. Carr, played a few pieces. Mrs. Carr interested the children in her talk of the French music. The guest artist at this meeting was Mrs. A. Drake of Lagrange street, a well known player of the flute. His music was beautiful, and his selections quite in keeping with the program.

The committee who has so successfully organized this musical group of children, is Mrs. Charles S. Livingstone of Brooks street, Mrs. John P. Carr of Gardner street, and Miss Alice Main of Herriek street. Next month the home of Mrs. Lawrence A. Shibley on Winthrop street will be open for the Music Group, when "Polish Music" will be sung and played. There is no waiting list to join this group, and indeed, because of the splendid, high class musical understanding that the members are receiving, it is certainly desirable.

MRS. MARY L. MACPARTHIAN

Mrs. Mary L. MacParthian, wife of Thomas F. MacParthian, died Wednesday morning at her home, 71 Highland street, after a long illness. She died not for some time in the best of health, she had lived an active life and on Thursday, had attended to her many household duties. She complained of feeling ill during the early evening and passed away shortly before 9 o'clock the next morning, her death coming as a surprise to all, not only to her family but to her many friends in the community.

Mrs. MacParthian was 52 years ago in Winchester, the daughter of John and Mary (Sullivan) Hurley. She was graduated from Winchester High School in 1906 and from Lowell Normal School with the class of 1902.

After her graduation, she taught for 12 years in the old Chatham school, being one of the most popular teachers in the service of the town. Plans on all the school buildings were displayed at her staff followed in her death until after the funeral.

She was especially interested in the town's schools and school children, and was very present and active in the Winchester Mothers' Association, a member of the Parent-Teacher Association and of the Married Ladies' Society of St. Mary's Church.

Primarily concerned with the care of her own family, she was never too busy to assist and alleviate the distress of others without respect to race or creed. Her sterling qualities and pleasing personality endeared her to all with whom she came in contact and her passing will be sincerely mourned by many.

Oct. 22, 1913, she was married here by Rev. Fr. Francis E. Rogers, then a curate at St. Mary's Church. Mrs. MacParthian survives with three daughters, Mary, a member of the local Class, and two sons, Daniel and Thomas E. Jr., a senior at Winchester High School. She is survived in Winchester, a brother, Daniel E. Hurley, both of Winchester, also survive. The funeral was held this Friday morning from the late residence with solemn requiem high mass in St. Mary's Church. Interment was in Calvary Cemetery.

SEVERAL INJURED AS CARS COLLIDE

Several passengers in an Essex sedan and a Nash sedan were injured last Saturday afternoon when the two machines were in collision on upper Main street.

Mr. Maguire swung the car sharply to the left to avoid striking the woman, and in doing so, struck with the Nash, headed north and driven by Barbara M. Chevalier of 10 Cabot street.

Mrs. Charlotte Maguire, who was riding with her husband and their two children, John F., Jr., 11, and Marilyn, 5, complained of injuries to her self and children, while Mr. Maguire sustained injuries to his back and leg. They were taken to their home by E. P. Sullivan of Spruce street.

Mrs. Sara E. Chevalier, who was riding with her daughter, complained of injuries to both knees. The cars were both damaged, the Essex being towed to Bonnell's Garage.

SEEN IN OUR SHOPS

February is so festive and so social, that there is little wonder that, right now, the shop windows are reflecting the spirit of the month with their decorations in Valentine red and the red, white and blue honoring Lincoln and Washington. The red glow and green of Christmas are not more alluring than these Valentines—symbols of a never-dying desire to express ourselves in friendship and affection. And with the party season at its height and the holiday coming, it may mean purchases and do try our local shops for your needs—they can take care of you.

At the Winchester News Company the Valentines are something to be displayed and so many seem new and different. If you want the right Valentine for some one young or grown up, friend or family, you will be able to find it here. The directions are easy to follow and the result will certainly be "prize winning." Ask Miss Fitzgerald for suggestions.

Have you discovered the popular and fast selling O. N. T. Knitting and crochet cotton which Baneroff's is recommending? It is a smooth, strong thread and guaranteed to launder and retain its luster. Many have been buying it in ecrus and in colors as well as white. The balls are generously large at 25c and even the large bobbins take but 36-40 balls. If you have not found just what satisfies, do what others are doing—and get the O. N. T. line of cotton for handiwork. Free directions for making many articles are included.

If your hair is ready for re-coloring, ask "Jerry" at the Elite Beauty and Barber Shoppe for further information about this new machine, "Permanent Waving." So easy to use, and that it can be done in the home seems too good to be true, for we all would avoid the long hours in the machine, and possible damage to the hair. "Jerry" has brought this new waving to us in the hands of his success at the international show. His first class work and materials are to be specially priced for a short time—so! Always up to the minute of the week for an appointment and "Jerry" or Miss Holsberg will gladly accommodate you.

Winchester is fortunate to have such a well stocked gown shop as the Betty Ann Shop on Main street. If the need is urgent, and time too short to go into Boston, do not despair until you have investigated and seen what Miss Russell has for you. In her window are several lovely bright red dresses for little girls and certainly suggest just the right thing to wear at a coming Valentine party. Also remember her "Katie Greenway" dresses are reasonable and so very popular right now.

Very likely the announcement, in another volume of the "Star" of Mrs. Mildred T. Spaulding, Teacher of Piano, has attracted you. If not, do read it. Her new method of piano instruction in class, known as the "Melody Way" should meet the requirements of a great many. It is seen at the low cost—term of 12 lessons for $3—a child might begin his music study without delay. Mrs. Spaulding will interest you in her new classes forming. I am sure, if you call her at Win. 1934. She is a pupil of Prof. Frederic Pitlotson, of the Boston University, College of Music and studying continually she keeps abreast of the changes and progress in music instruction.

Were it known that a large part of the financing for home purchase that the Co-operative Bank has played in the developing of Winchester, surely many of us would be glad to see the STAR OFFICE.

officers have always been some of our most representative citizens, has done business for the betterment of the town. Everywhere we read and are beginning to feel the up turn in the Real Estate Market. If you have become convinced that Winchester is "a good place to live" and are considering staying here—why not have a talk with Mr. Eastie—you can locate him at the Bank on Church street—and learn that to purchase one of the attractive homes available, right now, is financially possible with the Bank's help. And in many cases more economical than renting.

The holiday coming may mean leisure for you and your desire is to find a cool book and relax in the pleasure of reading it. The Mary Spaulding Book Shop on Thompson street recommends two books to you, for this month's reading—"Work of Art" by Sinclair Lewis and Phyllis Flett's "Modern Tragedy," or step in the Shop and choose for yourself from the up-to-date books to be purchased or borrowed. Their Valentines are a delight to look over too, and ask to see a "Photofuture" for it would make an acceptable Valentine gift. It is made from your own snapshot, costs but 35c and is sure to please.

WRESTLING RESULTS

Big John Maloney, former Boston policeman, 6 feet and 7 inches of bewhiskered brawn, defeated Gene LeDoux, Canadian champion, 43 seconds, in the main bout of the wrestling show at the Town Hall Monday evening.

Towering above LeDoux, Maloney, with his full black beard and flaming green trunks, was a picturesque figure. He was awarded the first fall when LeDoux was disqualified for the use of the strangle and took the deciding fall with a series of flying maces, shortly after the men returned to the ring. The bout was slow and uninteresting, contrasting sharply with the semi-final, in which Nick Karavans, welterweight champion, went 30 minutes to draw with the former title holder, "Tommy" Record.

This was by far the best bout of the evening, and the only one in which any high grade wrestling was displayed. Record had whatever edge there was in the match. "Steve" Dillboy of Somerville threw "Charlie" Erwin of Somerville in the first of the preliminary bouts, taking the fall in 13 minutes and 43 seconds with a body lift and slam. "Charlie" Stenquist of Woburn, making his first professional appearance, went 20 minutes to draw with W. Wyckoff of Woburn, making things decidedly interesting for the latter, to the mutual delight of the crowd.

"Jim" Kendrick of Winchester threw Frank Perry of Boston in 13 minutes and 53 seconds. A right to the jaw felled the Boston man, after which "Jim" applied a body press for the fall. Perry wasn't pleased at the result and grappled with Referee Zybysko who proved more than capable of holding his own with any of the wrestlers. Zybysko handled the bouts well and once slammed Wyckoff to the mat with a thud when the latter got a bit too playful with Stenquist.

PRICE OF FISH MUCH LOWER

Despite the fact that next week starts the Lenten season, giving fish a more important place in meal planning, it is probable that retail prices of sea food will be considerably less than they have been the last few months. Fish is always in greater demand during Lent, but this year the supply will also be so much more plentiful that the cost will be reduced rather than increased as might originally be expected.

Frank H. Wood, proprietor of the Seaford Store, the fish market in Arlington street, explains this seeming contradiction by saying, "Retail fish prices have been abnormally high for several months because of a serious curtailment in the catches, due to a strike of the men who man the larger trawlers. The smaller craft are restricted by weather conditions and in a period of cold and storms such as has prevailed the demand was bound to exceed the supply. However, the strike has ended, the weather and all the boats have returned to work," and as radio reports indicate that they are taking good catches we are promised plentiful supplies except for intermittent spells of exceptionally severe weather.

In connection with the policy of the store, Mr. Wood also states "The Seaford Store sells only the best and we have kept faith with our customers by handling no frozen goods whatever. We believe that the majority of families prefer fish which is absolutely fresh—not only not frozen but not stale—even though it costs a few cents more. Therefore our efforts are bent toward seeing how good our fish can be rather than how cheap we can sell."

The Winchester Highlands Unit of the Middlesex County Extension Service will hold its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, Feb. 13 at 2 p. m. at the Second Congregational Church. The subject this month, a very interesting one, is "Salads and Salad Dressings." Come and bring a friend.

MISS MARTHA PAGE
RICHARDSON

Miss Martha Page Richardson, a lifelong resident of Winchester, died Sunday, Feb. 4 at the home for Aged People, after an illness of several months.

Miss Richardson was a member of one of Winchester's oldest families, her parents, both named Martha J. Richardson, having been descendants of the town's first settlers. She was born, educated and spent her entire life in Winchester, having many friends among older residents.

During her active life, Miss Richardson was for 35 years associated with the Congregational House in Boston, serving in several capacities. A sister, Miss Mary D. Richardson of this town, is her only survivor.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon in Ripley Memorial Chapel of the First Congregational Church, with Dr. Frederick Harlan Page of Waltham and Rev. Enoch F. Bell of Newton officiating. Burial was in Woodbrook Cemetery, Woburn.

HELEN NOWELL

Helen Nowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Nowell (Helen Doherty) of 32 Clark street, died early Thursday morning, Feb. 8 at the Choate Hospital, Woburn, where on Wednesday she was taken after a long illness. She was the week previous she underwent an operation for appendicitis. She was thought to be recovering nicely, but on Monday evening experienced a sudden turn for the worse, from which she failed to rally.

Helen was born in Winchester and was in her seventh year. She was a pupil in the second grade of the Noonan School where she was a favorite with teachers and her fellow schoolmates. Besides her parents, she is survived by a sister, Marjory, 9, and a brother, John, 3.

The funeral will be held Saturday morning from the home of her parents with Mass of the Angels celebrated in St. Mary's Church at 9 o'clock. Interment will be in Calvary Cemetery.

WOMEN'S REPUBLICAN CLUB

The regular meeting of the Women's Republican Club was held on Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 7, in the Association Hall, with the president, Mrs. Ashley K. Hayden in the chair. Mrs. Hayden spoke of the many favors which the club has received during the months of January and February including our President, Mr. Roosevelt, and in short, everything which has been done for the club. She also showed some of the vivid thumb nail sketches of such men as Alexander Hamilton, Benjamin Franklin, Robert Lee, William McKinley, Abraham Lincoln, George Washington, pointing out that it behooves us to meet our problems as they meet theirs with endurance, integrity and generosity.

Following the regular business meeting, Mrs. Hayden introduced Mrs. William L. Thompson, chairman of the Education Committee, who presented in a most able and business like manner some of the more important bills now before the State Legislature. Mrs. Thompson first announced that a study group to study town affairs would meet on Monday afternoon, Feb. 19, at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. C. Harold Smith, 8 Francis circuit.

Inasmuch as there are over 1300 bills before the Legislature, Mrs. Thompson said she could speak of but a few and began with the Child Labor Bill, which is of special moment to all, yet which brings a question to the minds of some as to whether we are giving too much power to the Federal Government and taking away the state's rights. In view of the handling of the 18th Amendment by the Federal Government, should we not be careful how we delegate rights. On the other hand, all desire to see child labor abolished and 19 states have already passed the bill. Mrs. Thompson also discussed briefly the biennial sessions, sales tax, unemployment reserve and hairdressers' bills, as well as the bills to prohibit moon dancing and to pay the women for their work at Sherrine and humors. She also pointed out the arguments for both for and against the bills regarding pari-mutual betting and state lotteries. In fact Mrs. Thompson gave an admirable and unbiased presentation of these bills, which was greatly appreciated by the club—and in conclusion she asked that club members consider these measures in the light of what is best for the country and not be biased by any personal feeling.

Mrs. Hayden next presented Mrs. Alfred Radley, a former president of this club and now chairman of the Middlesex County Republican Committee. Mrs. Radley is a charming and gracious speaker, brought to the club a most inspiring report of the high lights of the luncheon meeting of the National Women's Republican Club held in New York city on Jan. 20. Miss Sybil Holmes of Boston, as chief speaker, said Mrs. Radley was roundly applauded for her speech on "Our Dual Government" and three points specifically brought out—one that we uphold the constitution of the United States for the constitution is flexible and has ever met the needs of the people. Second, that we preserve freedom of the press and third, that the judiciary be kept free of politics. Mr. Erskine, who followed Miss Holmes as luncheon speaker, met with slight applause for his speech, said Mrs. Radley. He referred to the fondness of Americans for museum pieces and said that the constitution unless subject to change would become a museum piece. Mrs. August Belmont also a speaker at this meeting had as her topic, Unemployment Relief. She said the interest of working efficiency, she pointed out, should never become an undertaking of the Federal Government.

Mrs. Radley then went on to speak of the work of her committee in Middlesex County, which is really I feel the pulse of the communities and, working in harmony with the State Committee, to further the interests of the Republican Party. Mrs. Radley's talk was enthusiastically received by the club members, who always so greatly enjoy hearing from her.

The guest speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. William E. Mullins, Republican political reporter for the Boston Herald, was now introduced by Mrs. Hayden. Mr. Mullins had for his subject, "What is a Citizen?" He turned from this subject for a few moments to discuss some of the aspects and prospective candidates of coming elections to the interest of his audience. Going back to his original subject, Mr. Mullins spoke of the beautiful and picturesque side of the State House and the fact that, though many states have more costly and elaborate buildings, no State House has a greater historical background than that of Massachusetts. We should feel a great pride in this wonderful institution, said Mr. Mullins, as he pointed out the aid and guidance, which the different departments at the State House, would freely give citizens of the Commonwealth seeking help along various lines. He especially stressed the fact that we are most fortunate in Massachusetts to have the sacred right of free petition and that these petitions are fairly dealt with by the various committees. In speaking of taxation bills Mr. Mullins emphasized that the expenditures of the government is the important point and not how the tax is raised for the taxpayer will, in some manner, ultimately have to pay for the expenditures of the government; therefore it is these expenditures which must be watched. Mr. Mullins pointed himself a speaker well versed in his subject matter and a question period at the end of his admirable discourse was thoroughly enjoyed.

At the close of the program the president announced the appointment of the following delegates to attend the convention on March 31 at the initiation of the Republican Club of Massachusetts—Mrs. Jennie Taylor, Mrs. C. Harold Smith, Mrs. Stanley D. Howe and Mrs. William E. Mullins. A social hour was enjoyed with the service by the Social Committee, Mrs. Lucius Smith, chairman and Mrs. Kingman P. Cass and Mrs. William E. Mullins, hostesses. Carnations in shades of rose and tall rose candles made the tables most attractive.

CHORAL SOCIETY HELD FIRST POST-CONCERT PARTY

Sixty-five members of the Winchester Choral Society gathered Tuesday evening's cord to attend the first post-concert party of the season in the Association Hall.

After a brief business session, at which President George W. Stidstone presided, the evening was given over to the entertainment committee, which had arranged a most interesting and amusing program.

Prizes amounts, were given each member and all were urged to try their luck at horse racing, roulette, bridge, golf, "put-and-take," "African-zolf," canfield, bridge and bingo.

General participation in the horse racing, roulette, bridge, golf, "put-and-take," "African-zolf," canfield, bridge and bingo, was very high. The high pitch of enthusiasm, betting became fast and furious and wagers of astounding proportions flew back and forth about the hall at first one and then another was "taken for a ride."

Director J. Albert Wilson spent most of his time spinning the top, with, according to reports, very indifferent success. "Ed" Merriam, the roulette "bookie" was badly "cleaned" while the success of Dorothy Hayward at roulette was the envy of the less fortunate devotees. Molasses peppermints were dispensed ad lib from a paper bag at odd moments by "Pop" Corliss, who could usually be found not far from the "put-and-take."

Prizes were awarded those making the most money during the evening, first prize going to Sally Riley, who amassed the substantial sum of $27.50. The lucky number was 10, the holder of the lucky number went to James Sewall of Woburn. Refreshments were served just before the awards were made.

President Stidstone was in general charge of the party, the committee of arrangements being headed by Anna C. Grosvenor and including Blanche S. Barnard, Edmund A. Merriam, J. P. Milne Blanchard, Ida H. Tufts, Aram Mouradian and Bertha E. Kelly. Assisting "bookies" at the horse racing were Robert Evans and Edward Berry, with Nina Richardson acting as the "put-and-take" dealer. The mathematical genius displayed by "Doc" Blanchard in competing the roulette scores, though it must be admitted his figures were never questioned.

By Ann Page

Marketing continues to be a pleasure so long as there is a wide choice of things to select from. This is particularly true of fresh fruits and vegetables at this time but also of meat, fish, eggs, cheese and butter as well. Most staples are still moderately priced although they have felt the upward trend of prices.

Among the vegetables the cabbage family is outstanding in quality and price. Lettuce and celery are plentiful and cheap. Green beans are not so plentiful as they have been. Spinach is plentiful.

California oranges are very attractive in quality and price. Grapefruit continues to deserve superlatives. Bananas are improving in quality with no change in price. Strawberries are plentiful and low priced.

The Quaker Maid suggests the following Sunday dinner menus:

Low Cost Dinner
 Braised Chuck Steak with Vegetables (Potatoes, Carrots, Onions, Turnips)
 Bread and Butter
 Banana Shortcake
 Tea or Coffee

Medium Cost Dinner
 Roast Beef Browned Potatoes
 Caramel Custard Apples
 Bread and Butter
 Apple Pie Cheese
 Coffee Milk

Very Special Dinner
 Stuffed Celery
 Roast Pork
 Horace Fong, who mention speak on "Cauliflower, Maitre d'hôtel
 Lettuce Peanut Butter Dressing

 Vanilla Ice Cream Strawberry Sauce

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY NOTES

Last Sunday we had as our speaker, Mr. Percy Burge who spoke on "Fire Prevention." Mr. Burge spoke in a most interesting and interesting manner of the fire situation and of his interesting experiences. He stated that our fire loss was so large that if we went outdoors on a perfectly clear evening and covered each star that we could see with $8000, the total sum would just about equal the cost of our annual fire loss.

Next Sunday we are most fortunate in having as our speaker, Mr. Horace Fong, who will speak on "Baseball." Mr. Ford, a well known resident of this town, is a veteran of 15 major league campaigns and during the season has played with Boston, Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Cincinnati and St. Louis. He has also played in some 145 games at such positions as shortstop, second base and occasionally third base. We feel sure that this type of talk will appeal to the interest of everyone present. Refreshments will be served after the meeting. There is no charge for this and anyone of high school age or over is cordially invited to attend Sunday, Feb. 11 at 6 p.m.

WINCHESTER ALL-MASS ASSOCIATION

The regular monthly meeting of the Winchester All-Mass Association of the Winchester Hospital was held on Wednesday evening at the Nurses' Home. Plans for their dance, Feb. 13, in the Nurses' Home were discussed.

THE UTOPIAN STATE

Feb. 3, 1934

To the Editor of the Star:
 When the editor has to say here is perhaps hardly worthy of the valuable space its contents would consume in your publication. Further than that, it is not a matter of what anybody else has to say on the subject of which I speak? Nevertheless, having the urge to spout that which is on my mind I am going to the liberty of inflicting these thoughts on your good self. If it reaches your waste basket, no harm is done. If it is printed, much harm may accrue.

However, apropos the present Emergency Campaign Fund being solicited, as well as other such organizations, it cannot help but exclaim that the oldest of our living persons are aware of similar demands on the general public as far back as their memories serve them, and official records will carry the fact of solicitations for charities beyond the memory of the oldest now living amongst us.

On each occasion of a public appeal for funds to carry on so-called charity work, the same worn out phrases of the administering agencies are thought that a simple donation is the happy solution to the ever present need. How such a thing as the need for charity can be such a simple and paramount undertaking in a so-called advanced and democratic country as ours is very difficult to reconcile with the present day's scientific progress and groups of people setting themselves up as being imbued with true Christian feeling and understanding.

It is not the need for charity, but the ordained brothers of the cloth, with very few exceptions, and the one outstanding exception in our midst to the present day's scientific progress, who dare speak the truth from Detroit over the radio on Sundays. He speaks for all religions and to my thought is present day religion's one redeeming contribution for mankind's self created selfish world. To go outside the clergy, I hasten to add that our President appears to be a man of sincere feeling and understanding of the Country's needs, and if all the people of this country will cooperate with either disregard for personal individual gain, with his aims, I seem to feel that the possibility of a brighter future for the masses will be greatly reduced.

It is needless to say that the present day difficulties which beset us do present a most complicated problem. Readily granting this to be so, who can deny that the causes were most simple in their contribution? As I, in my simple way of understanding things, view the situation, I see as the first and most important contribution, that utter lack of feeling from the heart of the man for his fellow neighbor; this lack of feeling being particularly noticeable in those possessing much of the material things necessary to the security of the average family man.

One group of selfish individuals who have for years held immeasurably in the continued inability of Mr. Average Man to weather life without a lot of unnecessary worries and heartaches is the employer. The enable of his hired man at a wage much higher than that for which said employer makes it necessary for an hiring is invariably to hire a man for what one can pay him or what he is worth, but as cheaply as one can force him to accept. There are few exceptions. The man who is going to the other extreme in their blind effort to right a wrong. The fact remains, however, that responsibility for the harm resulting originally with the employer because of his selfish folly.

I may be entirely out of step with the position of the present day, intelligent leaders of today in what I claim, but until conditions are proven differently, and the masses are handled in a more improved manner over the present method, I feel the weight of evidence is with me.

While it may sound much like all the answers to whom I direct my criticisms may wish to call it, I am not alone in the thought that the actual producers of our industrial and material goods have been denied their rightful share of the profits accrued. I feel that every individual engaged in a business, regardless of his position, is an important cog in the machinery of that industry. So much of an importance that he is indispensable and therefore should receive a monetary consideration commensurate with the industry's ability to pay, based on a true and fair scale from the head executive down. It is my belief that no individual man in any organization, nor group of men is worth any consideration of a monetary nature that makes it necessary for there in that industry or organization to work for wages that do not tend to their future security.

It is my belief that the same thing should be true from day to day, in a manner that affords the conveniences of the average home luxuries and the luxury to see their children through the higher institutions if they desire something beyond a high school education.

What is the answer to the recent legacy of millions turned over to the heirs of the Woolworth fortune who see fit to lavish it on a foreign country, the consideration of which has no part in the creation of this present and having good reason to believe that there are hundreds and perhaps thousands of present and past employees of the Woolworth organization now in dire need, I fail to see why she should be considered to the entire exclusion of those who actually had so much to do with the building up of the fortune. Can anyone supply a reasonable Christian answer to this?

Without requiring any unusual intelligence, one could go on without end citing instances of the man's selfishness and blindness to justice and the paradox that supplies the most amusement, if one can find amusement in such, is the proud attitude assumed by those who are willfully hiding out on the imposed masses, and who seem to have the most to say in the name of charity.

In conclusion, I say that until man is capable of a genuine feeling from the depth of his heart for the welfare of his fellow man and when we can eradicate the many senseless differences that exist among the many religious denominations, we shall never reach that state of peace and unity to a peaceful existence. The present structure does not lean in that direction and so in the meantime we can consider the various institutions a failure to a very great degree insofar as their chief objective is concerned.

Respectfully yours,
 Richard W. MacLachlan,
 194 Forest Street,
 Winchester, Mass.

WINCHESTER COUNCIL, BOY SCOUTS

Scouts to Mobilize Feb. 10

All Scouts and Scouters of Winchester are to hear President Frank D. Roosevelt at noon on Saturday, Feb. 10. District Commissioner, T. Parker Clarke will be in charge of the mobilization in Winchester. Each troop will arrange its own plan of mobilization, but all Scouts and Scouters are to be at the Winchester High School at not later than 11:45 a. m. on Saturday, Feb. 10.

A recent checkup would seem to indicate that the following nearby broadcasting stations will broadcast the President's address: WEEI Boston, WNAC or WAAB Boston, WOR Worcester and WTAG Worcester. All are urged to watch the newspapers for such stations broadcasting this feature.

As has been stated before, President Roosevelt will call on the Scouts of the nation to do a "good turn," the nature of which will be unknown to Scouts and Scouters until they hear the President's message.

It is estimated now that nearly one million Scouts and Scouters will assemble to hear the President. In the cities, villages, towns, and even in the isolated mountain or plains sections of the United States, Scouts will be on the job. Without question this is the largest gathering of organized youth ever held in the world, to hear the voice of one man.

The Winchester Council will assemble at 11:45 a. m. on Saturday, Feb. 10, at the home of Barbara Kelley, 3 Willow street.

Program in charge of T. Parker Clarke, District Commissioner, and Edward R. Grosvenor, Field Executive.

WINCHESTER IN HOLYOKE

The February issue of the Amherst Graduate Quarterly, issued Monday, has an interesting article under the title of "Amherst in Holyoke" written by William W. Clark, Amherst, 33, who has the distinction of having an article in the quarterly within a year of his graduation. In discussing the work of Clark Church, Holyoke, Professor Clark pays the following tribute to Rev. Edwin Bradford Robinson, D.D., son of Mrs. Mary Bradford Robinson, 24 Vine street, this town, a graduate of the W. in '12. "There is an aspect of this Amherst in Holyoke which has been hinted at but not made explicit. This is of the utmost importance to the whole question. It was an essential part of our experience last summer, and has been for every student who has been in the work. It is education, example, inspiration, and challenge all at once. I speak of the tremendous fact of the minister and his wife. Measuring the contributions of Amherst men to humanity in terms of quality and spiritual value, I venture to say that that of Dr. Robinson (and his wife) is as great as any in the eyes of God. I cannot prove this, for after all, it is God who keeps the books; but I venture to state it, and if you doubt it, I refer you to any other Amherst man who has worked under Dr. and Mrs. Robinson."

REPUBLICAN CLUB NOTES

A study group will meet at the home of Mrs. H. C. Smith, 6 Francis circuit at 2:30 p. m., Monday, Feb. 19 for the purpose of studying town affairs. All members of the club are invited. It is hoped that a great many will avail themselves of the privilege.

ENTERTAINED AT DINNER AND SHOWER

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence G. McDavitt, Jr. entertained at dinner last Tuesday evening at their home, 64 Westland avenue, in honor of Miss Shirley Robinson and Mr. Adolph F. Forsberg of Woburn, whose engagement was recently announced. The young couple were pleasantly surprised upon entering the prettily decorated dining room to find fellow employees of Mr. Forsberg at the Winchester National Bank assembled there to greet them. Valentine favors were distributed and promising futures were predicted for all. After dinner the group proceeded to the living room where Miss Robinson and Mr. Forsberg found a shower of gifts awaiting them. The packages upon being opened revealed many beautiful and useful gifts and the bride and groom-to-be expressed their heartfelt appreciation to all. An Olympic contest followed and caused much merriment to the spectators. The first prize, which was won by a wale maiden, was awarded to Mr. Leslie J. Scott and the second prize to Miss Mary M. Crosby. Miss Robinson is the daughter of Mr. Dorothy Robinson of North Brookfield and is employed in the Stoughton office of the New England Telephone Company. Mr. Forsberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Forsberg of 106 Green street, Woburn, is a teller at the Winchester National Bank.

ENTERTAINED AT VALENTINE PARTY

Miss Jacqueline S. Barnes entertained a number of her playmates at the George Washington School at her home on Forest street last Saturday afternoon at a Valentine party. The house was very prettily decorated for the affair. Games were played during the afternoon after which refreshments were served. Among those attending were: Marden Walsh, Charles Walsh, John Eastwick, Dickie Eastwick, Harold S. Lloyd, George Michael Elwell, Martha F. Barnes, George Richburg, Sonia Barnes, and the Rev. Francis Galt.

LADIES' FRIENDLY SOCIETY

At the meeting of the Ladies' Friendly Society held on Tuesday, Feb. 13, there were guests invited from neighboring Alliance. At the brief business meeting Mrs. John P. Carr spoke about opportunities afforded all to help the work of the International Brotherhood of Women. Mrs. Harold K. Barrows, the president, recited extracts from Wardsworth's "Tintern Abbey" with Mrs. Kenneth Marriott accompanying her at the piano. Miss Eleanor Ives sang most delightfully a group of charming songs. The speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. Roger S. Forbes of Germantown, Penn., was introduced by Mrs. George Hale Reed. Mrs. Forbes' subject was, "Religion-Mind-Science."

EPWORTH LEAGUE NOTES

Miss Ruth MacDonald gave a book report on Ganevel's "Ming-Kwong, City of the Morning Light" at the Young People's League, Feb. 11. This story centers around the adventures of two missionaries, Robert Gladden and Henry Cross, in the ancient China. Their fight with the ancient superstitions and customs of China and the final winning of the people to the Christian faith through great patience and hard work made a most interesting talk. At the close of this meeting a fellowship hour was held when a short playlet was enacted, proving much amusement.

The Senior League meeting was held by a Miss Whitty. Allen whose subject was, "Our Hobbies."

We had a fine attendance at the third meeting of the group studying "Promises of the Old Testament" before League Sunday.

Birthdays are no novelty to Winchester, but it is a pleasure to many is that of Mr. David L. Storey of 65 Church street, Civil War veteran, active and keen, who will be 71 years young on Sunday.

WHAT'S THIS?

To the Editor of the Star:
We often read advertisements that sound funny and many times untrue; we read quite often about so and so established 1887 when, as a matter of fact, the Proprietor was not born at that date. Last week I saw a picture of a beautiful furniture van announcing that Kelley & Hawes have been hauling furniture in it since 77. Now I know our genial Dan was not hauling furniture then and nobody had ever heard of Kelley & Hawes, and I didn't think our venerable Web was either, so I consulted my library and found that Hawes and Kelley in 1877 were hauling fire apparatus and other things for the Town and they have been collecting from the Town ever since. The only Winchester citizen with that record of long and faithful service is still hanging on! I note that Quigley and Fitzgerald had their head in the town feed bag then, likewise the Symmes' were selling hay to the Town as at present; except in both cases it is another generation.

Here's hoping the three whiskered Gents may never quit their prompt and faithful service.

Yours sincerely,

WINCHESTER S. P. C. A. AUXILIARY NOTES

The February meeting of the Winchester Auxiliary to the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals took the form of a service day, from 11 o'clock until 1 p. m. Thursday, Feb. 8 at the home of the president, Mrs. Richard Taylor.

At this time preparations were begun for the "Wayside Sale" which will be held on September.

During the noon hour, Mrs. Taylor to whose generous hospitality the Auxiliary has been indebted many times, served a delicious luncheon.

Following the afternoon business meeting, Mrs. Edith Washburn Clarke, president of the Boston S. P. C. A. Auxiliary spoke on several matters on which Massachusetts humane forces are at work at the present time. She told of their effort to secure legislation which will prevent the exploitation of animals at wayside stands, and also of the bill to outlaw the cruel practice known as "setting up" horses' tails. Both of these matters are coming before the present legislature in Boston, and a hearing on the latter bill will be held soon. Any person interested to attend this hearing will be notified of the date if they will write to the M. S. P. C. A. at 180 Longwood avenue.

At the next meeting of the Auxiliary, the afternoon will be devoted to folding dresses for the Angel Memorial Hospital.

Artists, the new telephone bags, for keeping things crisp and fresh in the ice box. On sale at the Star office.

MISS AVERY GIVES HER SEVENTH LECTURE

Miss Avery opened her lecture on Feb. 7, by saying that one of the great questions here today is whether a planned economy is possible. To be thoroughly conversant with the present-day conditions one should read both Ogden Mills and Walter Lippmann. Communism, Miss Avery said, could not be brought into a country for it comes from inside, never from the outside.

In the present trouble in France the difficulty is primarily economic dissatisfaction. The average French peasant is getting little out of the high prices, it is largely the middle-class who is profiting. Other factors in the French unrest are the currency problem, the lack of tourist trade and the French temperament itself.

The French people are very cautious and thrifty and they do their investing largely on the advice of the notary public. Many very serious causes in the Slavic scandal and this catastrophe brought matters to a head.

Austria and Italy are indeed keys in the plan of the European and Italy may be the equilibrium between the two distinct points of view. Back of Fascism is the old guild system that used to exist in the past. Two Frenchmen invented the syndicals and the combination of these with the guilds made Fascism what it is, so it did not entirely spring from Italy. Of course the basic idea of Fascism is that the state does not exist for the individual but the individual exists for the state.

There are six main divisions of labor under this system and there are agriculture, commerce, banking, industry, arts and professions and two transportation divisions.

Italy wants more than the Allies gave her after the war, but she does not want a union of Germany and Austria for it will imperil her holdings in the Tyrol. And on the trade side she doesn't want a too-powerful Germany.

Austria has always been the pathway across Europe. The Viennese population is the most of Austria, i.e., two-thirds of the whole country. Vienna is socialist while the rest of Austria is not. The main reason that Austria has been preserved is because no country can bear to let any other country have her. The Czechs want Austria to stop the Germans and the English and French want her because it is convenient.

The Viennese are determined to save their civilization, a civilization which is most charming in its mixture of Bavarian and Latin. Austria has great economic unrest, she is not self-sufficient and she also has a sense of injustice over her treaties after the war and on account of Hitler. In the personality of Austria may be the means of adjusting the French-Italian difficulty.

A planned economy is the great attempt of Europe today and around this attempt is being woven a new economic international fabric.

On Mar. 7 at 8 p. m. Miss Avery will speak on "Problems of the Pacific" or "East and West of Japan."

WOBURN HIGH DEFEATS WINCHESTER

Increasing its long string of wins to 11 straight, Woburn High defeated Winchester High, 21-12 at Woburn last Wednesday night.

The game, a typical Woburn-Winchester affair, was one of the hardest fought and best played this year.
Although outplayed most of the game, the Winchester boys showed a strong offensive that has carried them to the mad scramble for the Middlesex League championship.

With the return of the stellar "Bunny" O'Brien, who has been at a loss to his team for the last week, Woburn immediately started the scoring in the first few minutes of play.
The first half was very tightly played with little scoring being done and the score at the half was 9-2 in favor of Woburn. In the second half the Winchester team showed sudden signs of life by taking the offensive of the game. Captain Peterson of the Woburn team was held at the new low score by "Lefty" Stewart who played a remarkable game throughout. Norman Nelson, who came up with Woburn in the forward positions for Woburn was high sewer with four field goals.

In the second team came out on top of a 22-11 score.

CAPITOL THEATER, ARLINGTON WEEK OF FEB. 19-21

"Should Ladies Behave" based on the "Vivian Grey," Paul O'Brien's enthralling comedy of a group of people who get into amusing difficulties at a weekend house party, is the first of the four feature attractions coming to the screen of the Capitol Theater next week to form a gala holiday week program. This picture, starring Lionel Barrymore and Alice Brady will play Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The principal triumph of the O'Brien play, described as a witty commentary on modern life, is that it is a comedy of manners, but it is also a comedy of character, for the lovable old crab with liver trouble whose metaphysical comedy estate produces the romantic setting for the action of the story, his slightly girl-wife, Laura, who constantly cherishes love affairs of the past but who loves him, and other characters who member the names of the men in society, and Max Lawrence, a period in the history of the world.
The comedy is true for the first half of the week is the heartily laughed "Crucible Song," a delectable comedy, tale of mother love and service with Dorothy Wake, who brings to the role all the charm and beauty she displayed as a good teacher in "Mädchen in Uniform."
"Crucible Song" is an example of the finest things that can come from Hollywood.

Thus far "Washington's" holiday times Eddie Carty to the Capitol in his latest picture, "Roman Scandals," he would be in the role of the plot, because it's many unexpected twists and bright surprises make it the delectable film concoction it is.
High assisting Eddie are Ruth El-ting, Gloria Stuart, David Manners, and the Golden Girls in many gargantuan numbers.

The companion picture will delight the kiddies and the grown-ups as well. Jackie Cooper is featured in "One Cowboy's" as Scout, who has brought up in a Chinatown and sent to a ranch by his father. The boy reaches the ranch and meets "Babe Jones," "The Little Rascal." The story is thrilling enough for any youngster, and Jackie Cooper's sympathetic acting will appeal to the grown-ups as well.

of the wood crop produced as to this year.

ROTARY CLUB

Records of the meeting of Feb. 15 show that there were five absentees from that meeting who are to be commiserated for having been constrained to omit one of the most thoroughly enjoyable meetings ever held by this club.
For this meeting was different.
The idea originated at a meeting of the Community Service Committee of the Rotary club at the Winchester Club.
Men, seeking to promote fellowship, found that many of their members resided outside of Boston, in towns and cities of the metropolitan area where Rotary Clubs also existed. Why then would it not be a good idea to ask various smaller clubs in this area to sponsor meetings, which all Rotarians residing in the jurisdiction of a given club should be invited to attend? The Boston Rotarians, being men of action forthwith proceeded to interest the Rotary Clubs of Newton and of Winchester in the project with the result that the Winchester Club held the first meeting of this type on Thursday evening, Feb. 15, 1934 and has voted to hold others at later dates. It is expected that the Newton Club will hold a similar meeting very shortly and we look to see the movement spread rapidly in this region.

There can be little doubt as to the success of this meeting of the 15th.
It need hardly be said that members of this club are delighted to greet so many citizens of their beloved town whom they had never before been privileged to entertain, as well as other Rotarians whose acquaintance they had learned to cherish.
But in addition to this it was a wonderfully satisfying experience to observe these visitors, representing so many different professions, which unmistakably were mutually pleasurable to the members of the club.
And many unforeseen circumstances attended these greetings. For instance one member of the Rotary Club of Boston has been visiting in the city clubs and another member of that club has resided in Winchester 16 years, and yet neither one of these Rotarians knew the other lived in here. The Rotary Club of Winchester has resolved that such anomalies must not be.

There was no formal speaking at this time. Past President Alfred Marchant of the Rotary Club of Boston told of the inception and objects of the movement, which the gathered represented, and suggested that one of the very best methods of establishing and maintaining friendships would be to have various Rotarians present tell before the meeting their respective vocations or hobbies. Following along this line the assembly was entertained for nearly an hour by listening to the experiences of fellow Rotarians who have interested themselves in meaningful, intellectual, literary, philanthropic, etc., etc., as well as intimate cliques of developments in the Boston banking situation at the time when the rat was banked were closed last March.

Much of interest that occurred at the meeting must be omitted on account of lack of space. Suffice it to say that 11 visitors, representing six different clubs were present besides four former members of this club. We have also noted the names of several resident Rotarians who should have been personally notified of the occasion and who will receive special invitations to future meetings. And we can truthfully say that we believe that an enterprise has been instituted which will result in making good citizens of Winchester better citizens, in cementing the ties which bind good Rotarians together and in forcing them to take an interest in the idea that good fellowship provides the means for rendering good and ever better service to our community and to its fellow men.

And we hope to see this same idea adopted and carried out in other metropolitan areas. There's something about it that's very great deal, in it!
Notice to members of the Rotary club of Winchester. The next meeting will be a joint session with the Rotary Club of Woburn at 12:15 p. m., Tuesday, Feb. 20, Towanda Club, Woburn Center. Please of good cheer and an outstanding speaker. You are expected to attend.
Percentage of attendance, Feb. 8, 90.75 per cent.

Morro Castles

There are two Morro castles in Cuba, the famous Castillo del Morro at the entrance to Havana Bay, which was constructed before 1550, and the Morro castle at Santiago on a promontory to the right of the bay, built by General Pérez de la Riva in 1590. It is now a third castle of this name in Puerto Rico. El Morro is Spanish and means a promontory.

In Tuesday night's games the Cubs defeated the National Bank by for-downfall.

Junior League
The Mapleleaves and Bruins by virtue of their wins are now tied for first.

Widger League

gain undisputed possession of first tee on the success socially and financially of the recent charitable work

Squaring of a Circle

The squaring of a circle is attempted in the Rhind Papyrus, 2000 B. C., the oldest known mathematical book by Ahmes an Egyptian priest. Since that time this famous problem has been studied by Archimedes, 250 B. C.; Hippocrates, 450; Newton, Leibnitz, and many others.

The "Additional" Services of this Bank

Almost everyone uses the bank as a depository for money in the form of a checking or a saving account, but this is only a small part of this bank's real usefulness.

It will safeguard your valuables; transmit your funds by wire; supply travel funds; provide currency of many foreign countries. It will administer the affairs of your estate as executor, guardian, conservator, or trustee, and is always ready to facilitate the handling of your business and personal financial affairs.

If you are not availing yourself of these "additional" services, you are not giving your bank the opportunity to prove its real value.

SPOND TO THE NATION'S CALL

Last Saturday noon a large group of local Boy Scouts with their leaders assembled in the high school auditorium to hear President Roosevelt's radio address to the entire Scout membership of the United States and receive their orders to do a national "good turn" this month.
This was probably the first time in all history that such a large organization of boys and men has been summoned to meet at a given time and it was apparent that everyone was thrilled at the thought of being directly asked by the President of the United States (who is also honorary head of the Scouts) to take part in the national plan to relieve distress.

During the remainder of this month every Scout is charged with the duty of calling (in uniform) on households and collecting donations of useful articles such as furniture, bedding, linen, clothing, shoes, toys, tools, etc.

Headquarters will be in the Petrie Block on Main street opposite Car-verse Place and all goods received will later be given to needy residents of the town in accordance with a plan devised by local Scout authorities and approved by the Board of Public Welfare. The Scouts are not permitted to solicit or receive any money.

A splendid spirit of cooperation has been shown by many people of Winchester and the entire Community, upon whom rests the responsibility for the undertaking in each community, states that our local Scouts are deeply grateful for the valuable assistance given them by Mrs. H. J. Petrie, the Winchester Unemployment Relief Committee, Superintendent of Schools, James J.
Quinn, the Board of Public Welfare, the Park Radio Company and Mr.
George T. Davidson.

Although the townspeople have already given generously of their goods during the past few years, there are many who have expressed approval of this plan to secure still more and a diligent search in many homes has been cheerfully promised.

Scouts are also receiving headquarters will be open week days and will be in charge of Mr. Francis I.
Keenan and Mr. William G. Cutler.

Animals as Court Witnesses

A little weasel was court witness in a burglary case a few years ago.
When a solitary householder killed an alleged burglar, he was brought to trial and made to swear that the household was just before one of his dogs, cats or birds that witnessed it. If the animal did not manifest some contradictory sign, the prisoner was set free.

Wires Save Ocean Voyages

Wireless communication at sea—
Atlantic telephoning and cable business executives no longer find it so necessary to make fast trips across the Atlantic. It is found, and some British ship companies have shown it will be more profitable to build 12 knot radio ships rather than the superlin-ers so prized in recent years.

California's State Parks

California's 34 state parks have a total acreage of 27,000 and represent an investment of $12,000,000.

Scilly Isles' Climate Mild

Flowers bloom in Scotland this year on the Scilly Isles, which lie off the extreme southwest coast of England.

Barter Old Practice

During the early years of the last century a sort of money in Ohio led people to do business by barter.
Mechanics accepted pipes, hardware and the like in exchange for goods.

Look for these brilliant innovations

- the new SPID burner giving a steady, economical cooking flame which may be graduated from slow simmering flame to highly intense boiling heat.
- the new clock gas grill with a simple device which will start or stop your cooking without you going near it... simple as an alarm clock.
- even heat controls for proper cooking temperature.
- the automatic lighting eliminating old style pilot lights and matches... all you do is turn on the gas and presto, it lights.

Navy Always on Duty

The navy is always on duty, subject to call toward any part of the world. Its officers are in constant training, not only in the technique of naval operations, but in international law and the customs that govern the intercourse of governments. Its men learn much of foreign lands in their cruises and thereby become better Americans.

Cord of Wood

A cord of wood consists of or is equivalent to a pile closely stacked, eight feet in length, four feet in breadth and four feet in height. This is true whether the wood is in four-foot lengths or whether it has been sawed and split before purchasing. This is true in the United States, but in Minnesota the law provides that a cord shall mean 110 cubic feet when stacked or 100 cubic feet when thrown loosely.—Washington Star.

HEART TO HEART TALKS

By Eugene Bertram Willard

If we are to avoid the shoals of life we should not have too much confidence in ourselves or too much confidence in others. This is where the happy medium counts—where, too much, as an old adage says of whiskey, is not just enough.

One of Nature's cautions in the case of man is that he shall believe in himself. This does not mean that a man must think himself "the only pebble on the beach." A man must believe in himself just enough to move his brain and hand aright without excess of emotion. Nature is commanding us all to keep our balance, but few of us do it.

We must be credulous enough to support our confidence but not enough to put us in the "sucker" class. Life appears to have been planned so as to keep us all alert. If we meet it every requirement, we shall watch ourselves as well as watch one another. God meant it should be a gentle task to give aright and make the fruit of the work satisfying to the soul.

Those Winchesterites who do not keep an edge on, soon get dull.

Uses Feathers for Whistle

Many hunters are under the impression that the woodcock's whistle is made by the birds' throat. This has been proved not to be the case. If one examines a woodcock it will be found that the outside end of three feathers of each wing are very narrow and entirely unlike the other wing feathers. It is these three feathers whirling rapidly through the air that cause the "whistle" when the timber doode flies.

The Mayflower Compact

The whereabouts of the Mayflower compact is not known. The oldest copy of the text of the compact known is that printed in "Mourt's Relation" in 1622. The oldest known list of the 41 signers of the compact is found in "New England's Memorial," printed in 1629. A copy of the compact appears in Bradford's "History of Plymouth Plantation," written between 1620 and 1640.

Snakes Praised as Rat Catchers

A fox or pine snake is worth a dozen cats in catching rats and mice, according to the president of the University of Michigan, for this snake seeks these undesirable rodents in their nests and eats the entire brood at once.

The Art of Canning

Canning is supposed to have originated with Apollon, a Paris chef, about 1757. His method was to place sealed bottles containing the food in a water bath and bring the water to the boiling point. Present-day methods, though more scientific, vary but little from the original. Knowledge of canning was brought to America about 1818 but it did not become an industry until 1860. WHEN GOLD BEGAN THE BUILDING OF THE WEST

Discovery of rich gold lodes in the old banana mining camp of Virginia City, Nevada, has drawn its hundreds of fortune seekers from nearby territory; but it is not of a magnitude to start a stampede from the East, such as that that set a large fragment of the nation on the march to California in 1849 and to Colorado in 1859.

Only once a rumor was needed to lure thousands of men across a continent, or over the seas via Panama and the Horn to the wilderness that was California, writes Frederick Slinger in a Washington dispatch to the National Geographic Society, recalling the stirring, lusty days of California's big gold rush in 1849.

Riches Strike in History

When Marshall found gold near Sutter's mill it was the richest strike ever made in America. The discoverer mined nuggets of pure gold from hillsides, seams, Seven Americans, with the help of Indians, took out 275 pounds of gold in a little more than six weeks.

Two men in seven days obtained $17,000 from a trench 15 feet deep.

The news spread fast. Polk commented on the find in a message to Congress. No such excitement had ever swept the Nation. By 1849 the whole world seemed gold mad. On every continent men talked of California, and in ever-increasing thousands they moved on San Francisco. In that year 230 American vessels reached California. During those years, in the spring of '49, nearly 15,000 people crossed the Missouri River, westward bound.

The migration was so stupendous, says Cleveland, the California historian, as to outrank anything of its kind in the Nation's history. A single issue of the New York Herald carried more news of California than all the rest of the paper. The gold-finding to California-bound crowds every day. From maps and pistols to gold-miners' and patent gold-extracting machines.

Storage tickets via Panama sold for $1000. Thousands went this way, another army around the Horn; others by ship. The death toll, especially among those crossing the Western deserts, James Abbe, a Forty-niner, wrote: "The death toll was a terrible stretch of desert trail he counted 750 dead horses, oxen, and mules; in the last ten miles, 362 wagons, besides the men, animals, and other things thrown away to lighten the loads."

Imagined San Francisco then Gold City and on the coast the first months ahead of Eastern hordes. Its homes, cows, chickens, gardens, goods in stores—all were deserted. At 6 o'clock the heavy early-sailors and arriving ships to race for the gold fields, till a vast ghost fleet of silent vessels lay idle and abandoned in the Bay.

Newcomers, pouring in now by sea, made frantic demands, at any price, for food, clothes, and money. In a few weeks the population multiplied a hundred times. Thousands slept in open fields. Two streams, new arrivals on their way to the mines and men hastening back to spend their dust and nuggets, brought the young San Francisco amazing wealth. Literally millions of dollars were thrown into the mines brought back gold enough to toss nuggets at the feet of stage singers in the smoke-filled, hostessing saloons.

Houses couldn't be built fast enough. Any room 20 by 25 feet, wrote General M. T. Sherman in his "Memoirs," would rent for $1000 a month. A Kentucky laborer, famed for his start selling homemade pies at $10 each. Tents and flimsy shacks sprang for miles.

Mines or camps with such names as Hell's Delight, Harcourt, Bohrium Tomes, Blue Bell, Billy Ravine, Poker Flat, Shinarump Canyon, and Pettit's Bend hinted at the bawdiest spirit of the time. Nobody shared. Baked loaf sold for 10¢; miners wore the faces of young men. In topcoats, bandolier shirt and slouch hats, all miners looked alike as they crowded the Buena Vista, Wells Union, and other glittering gambling dens of the day, being their dust as easily as they had found it.

Means, Moors, Austrians, Chinese, Kanakas, Chileans, Peruvians, all join with Americans and Europeans to give San Francisco, heart of the boom, that cosmopolitan character it still retains.

Jip Saw, Puzzle Barbs, 25¢ each, of the Star Office.

By Ann Page

Everyone who can, goes south or southwest to enjoy warmth and sunshine during part or all of the cold weather, but to those who cannot travel, our various warm states send their sunshine in oranges and grapefruit, in strawberries, celery, cabbage, cucumbers, green beans, peas, lima beans, beets, carrots, Brussels sprouts, broccoli, cauliflower, lettuce, radishes, shallots, tomatoes, and new potatoes.

Southern waters—simply make of the fish which are winter delicacies including shrimp, King and Spanish mackerel, trout, croakers, porgies and bluefish. Since it is the Lenten season many menus will include not only fresh fish but canned salmon, tuna fish, sardines and shrimp.

Washington's Birthday calls for a feast which should be all the more enjoyable because of frequent fasts. A sour cherry pie or tarts is just the thing for dessert and it helps to celebrate National Cherry Week.

The Quaker Maid suggests the following Sunday dinner menus:

Law Cost Dinner
Chuck Roast with Vegetables (Potatoes, Carrots, Onions)
Broad and Butter
Baked Apple Tapioca
Tea or Coffee

Medium Cost Dinner
Roast Beef
Cauliflower with Parsika Butter
Broad and Butter
Orange Whip
Coffee

Very Special Dinner
Pink-meated Grapefruit
Chicken Pot Pie or Roast Turkey Parsley Potatoes
Cranberry Sauce
Green Salad
Cheese Dressing
Rolls and Butter

TOWN WARRANT OUT

Interesting Matters to Come Before Town at Annual Meeting

Distribution of the warrant and finance report for the annual town meeting to be held March 15 was made this week, the annual town report for the year past being distributed therewith. Members of the Police Department, aided by the Welfare Department carried out the distribution. This year's warrant contains some 51 articles. As usual in these days of financial depression and increased expenses, attended by much unemployment, this feature of town welfare occupies a considerable portion of the warrant, being closely bound up with many articles having to do with planning for the unemployment occupation.

Another feature which is creating considerable interest is the numerous instances of decreases and increases in wages of various town employees. In this connection the Finance Committee says it is unanimous in its opinion that the 10 per cent reduction in salaries and wages should be continued this year.

In support of this the salary of the assistant clerk in the Assessors' Department is reduced, the first assistant in the Collector's office is reduced, and the second assistant eliminated. Against this the Clerk of the Selectmen is hoisted to $1500, with the increase of the Clerical Assistant of $297, the Superintendent of Schools is raised, the Treasurer is slated for $400 increase with a share with the $400 salary scheduled for new clerical assistance, and the Assistant Engineer, Junior Engineer and Draftsman in the Engineering Department are increased. In this department the 4th and 5th Assistants are eliminated and it is stated that the department has been reorganized by the Selectmen.

The committee states that as the second annual reduction in salary by the Superintendent of Schools expires April 1, his salary is raised to the equivalent of the first voluntary reduction. The sum of $240 desired as the nominal annual increase allowed to teachers prior to the 10 per cent cut is not recommended.

A slight reduction is made in the pay of the Registrars of Voters and the firemen failed in the restoration of their cut in salary.

The only way to prevent such practices is to present a motion under each budget so phrased that definite amounts will be appropriated for salaries and clerk hire.

It is recommended that the Town indemnify James F. Noonan for damages sustained through being shot in the leg. A similar recommendation is for J. Edward Noonan, a fireman, injured during a fire.

The welfare projects include the printing of a history of the Town and thus preserving the data collected. This work may be done without a direct appropriation. In planning future welfare work, it is desired to take over the river and its shores along Washington street and thus complete the cleaning up of the stream within the boundaries of the Town, also to rebuild Washington street from Forest street to the Wolburn line. It is further proposed to provide for welfare work in the upkeep of public buildings, including the schools, etc.

A matter of considerable interest is the effort to be made to remove the water standpipe at Symmes Park. This will entail the erection of a new water tower and the laying of new supply pipes. In this connection the Assessors are asking $5500 to defend action brought against the Town by owners of property in the vicinity of the present tower. An effort is being made to include this project either in the unemployment list or the use of Federal funds.

Amendments are proposed to the town By-Laws providing for relief from the volume of advertising circulars and notices stuffed in the trash bins, together with other trash, and forbidding the depositing of circulars, hand-bills or advertising matter about dwelling houses without permission of the owner or occupant. This will give householders relief from this nuisance which has grown enormously during recent years.

Various other articles, including the suggestion that the hardwood trees be cut from the Town's water shed to increase the water supply, will be acted upon at the coming meeting.

ENTERTAINED FOR DAVID L. STORY

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Eldredge entertained last Saturday evening at their home on Wildwood terrace in honor of Mr. Eldredge's grandfather, Mr. David L. Story, Civil War veteran, of this town, who was observing his 91st birthday anniversary.

Patriotic decorations, suggestive of Washington's Birthday, made a most attractive setting for the party which was a complete surprise to Mr. Story. The veteran entered heartily into the spirit of the occasion and particularly enjoyed the time birthday cake which occupied a place of honor on the dining table.

A most enjoyable program of piano selections was played by Mrs. Mildred Taylor Spaulding, and many of the old Civil War songs were sung by the guests. Among those present were Mr. Story's two daughters, Mrs. Carrie L. Eldredge, with whom he makes his home on Church street, and Mrs. Percy Fletcher of Fairhaven; Mr. Fletcher, three grandsons, Donald Eldredge of Newton, Alan and Stuart Eldredge of Winchester, with their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Winsor, and Mr. and Mrs. Homer Davidson of Winchester, Mrs. Elmer D. Randlett of Cambridge and Mrs. Mildred Taylor Spaulding of Winchester.

Mr. Story enlisted in the Union Army at the age of 19 and saw three years of active service. A native of Essex, he is a member of Beverly Post, G. A. R., and an honorary member of Winchester Post, A. L., and of Winchester Post of Essex.

Still hale and hearty, Mr. Story is keenly alive to life and the times. He takes the greatest pleasure in working about his home and at his workbench makes clever toys and furniture for his eight grand children.

He spent his birthday much as usual, excepting that he was kept busy answering congratulatory messages from his many friends. He was the recipient of many gifts during the day and among them being one from the local Legion Post.

MRS. EMMA C. FENNO

Mrs. Emma C. Fenno, widow of Charles F. Fenno and for many years a resident of Revere, died Friday morning, Feb. 16, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Vincent Farnsworth, 7 Copley street, after a long illness. She would have been 88 years old on April 20.

Mrs. Fenno came to Winchester three years ago from Revere, in which city she spent nearly her entire lifetime. She was born in East Stoughton, daughter of John and Ann (Hayes) Tucker, but as a child went to Revere, was educated in the Revere schools and was for many years active in the social and religious life of the city.

She was a charter member of the Revere Woman's Club and when forced by ill health to resign her active membership, was made an honorary member. She was also a member of the Eastern Star and Rebekahs in Revere and of the Unitarian Church. Her husband, who died in 1902, served the city of Revere as tax collector.

Mrs. Fenno is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Farnsworth, by five grandchildren, and by 10 great grandchildren.

Funeral services were held on Sunday afternoon at the late residence of Mrs. Fenno, 7 Copley street, minister of the Unitarian Church, officiating. Interment was in Woodlawn Cemetery, Everett.

GUILD OF THE INFANT SAVIOUR

The regular meeting of the Guild of the Infant Saviour will be held on Tuesday, Feb. 27 at 2:30 p. m. in the new Forthrightly Hall.

MRS. ANNIE ISABEL MITCHELL

Mrs. Annie Isabel Mitchell, widow of Harvey James Mitchell and formerly for 15 years connected with the Winchester Hospital as bookkeeper and assistant treasurer, died last Friday evening, Feb. 16, at the home of her sister, Mrs. Tom Hodgson, 132 Forest street, after a long illness. She had been in failing health for more than a year but continued her duties in the hospital until last April when blindness forced her to retire. She grew steadily worse from that time until the end.

Mrs. Mitchell was the daughter of Frederick and Annie J. (Sargent) Robinson. She was born 38 years ago in Boston and received her early education in the Dorchester schools, later attending Burdette Business College.

On Oct. 12, 1904, in Wellington, she married Mr. Mitchell and for 12 years after her marriage lived in Westwood, N. J. Following the death of her husband in 1916 she came to Winchester and made her home on Highland avenue with her mother until the latter's death. Later she lived on Reservoir street and during the last two years of her life with her sister on Forest street.

Mrs. Mitchell became associated with the hospital in 1918 as bookkeeper, later being promoted to assistant treasurer. Her ability and devotion to duty early won her the esteem of her superiors and associates while a pleasing personality and willingness to serve endeared her to all with whom she came in contact. Genuinely interested in the welfare of everything pertaining to the institution, she was happiest when working for it, took pride in the hospital and joy in its service causing a former president to say at her death that few had loved the hospital as she did.

In addition to her duties at the hospital, Mrs. Mitchell found time to interest herself in the town's former service men. She was actively identified with, and past president of the Auxiliary to Post 97, American Legion, and was also a member of the Church of the Epiphany.

Surviving, besides Mrs. Hodgson, are a daughter, Mrs. James Clark of San Pedro, Cal.; two sons, George Mitchell of San Jose, Cal., and Robert Ward Mitchell of Winchester; and two brothers, Gilbert Robinson of Ford and Willard Robinson of Arlington. Another sister, Mrs. Mabel Ives of Watertown, died exactly two weeks previous to the date of Mrs. Mitchell's death.

Largely attended funeral services were held on Monday afternoon in the late residence with Rev. Dwight W. Hadley, rector of the Church of the Epiphany, officiating. Representatives of the hospital staff, headed by Frank E. Crawford, manager, attended the funeral with delegates from the District Nurses and Visiting Nurse Association and the Legion Auxiliary. The beautiful floral tributes numbered more than 100 pieces.

During the services Lila Martin of Stoneham, contraalto, sang "The Old Rugged Cross," "In the Garden," and "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." Bearers were Harold S. Fuller, former president of the Visiting Nurse Association; E. Ober Priole, hospital auditor; Gilbert and Willard Robinson; John Howard of Reading and Joseph Hodgson of Medford. Interment was in Woodlawn Cemetery where the committal prayers were read by Rev. Mr. Hadley.

A radiator cap and cap from the gas tank were stolen from the automobile of Mr. Harry C. Goodwin of Orient street while the machine was parked in front of the high school last Friday evening during the performance of the Legion play.

Things happened on this trip. The Indians who wanted to be loyal were alarmed at the weakness of the English. The English were not strong enough. French, Junonville leading a company of French troops, was discovered trying to ambush the Virgin soldiers.

Washington Leads Attack

With the support of the Seneca Indian chief, Half-King, Washington led a party of 150 soldiers to the village of Kolze, to the west of the Great Meadows. Here Junonville was killed. Afterward asserted his leadership. He was carrying a letter to the Virgin troops and not acting in a military capacity; which claim Washington denied.

After the battle, Victor, denounced the Indians for cowardice. He said that the Indian POWs, wampum exchange, and finally news of the approach of the British troops, caused them to retreat to the Great Meadows at occupy Fort Necessity.

Supplies failed to arrive, and when the British arrived, they found the defence lasted until about 8 o'clock in the evening, the attack having been repulsed. The next day, the 10th of July, a parley was held, and Washington was given his choice of surrendering without further war, or marching out with his arms, provisions, and baggage, leaving his artillery to be destroyed.

As one stands by the old brick town of Fort Mifflin, and looks down the National Trail east of Laurel Ridge, and looks down by the creek when the reconstructed log stockade, Fort Mifflin, is seen, it is not difficult to imagine what his capitulation to the French on that third day of July, 1776, must have cost.

He returned to Williamsburg heartened, but the House of Burgesses passed a resolution of which the officers under his command gave no satisfaction than to receive the thanks of the assembly, and he was so particular and public in his manner of our behavior in the late unsuccessful engagements with the French.

day by U. S. Route 40 (the Old National Trail). About five miles east of Uniontown, Pennsylvania, on the road of Laurel Ridge, a wide road leads north from U. S. 40 to the battlefield, which is marked by several tablets and monuments. Reconstructed Fort Necessity stands a few miles farther east on U. S. Route 40. An old mansion standing near the rebuilt log stockade has been converted into a museum of Revolutionary relics.

Oyster Ace
Oysters are not ready for market until they are from two to five years old, sometimes older. Some of the more hardy ones live as many as fifteen years. Incidentally, you can tell an oyster's age by counting the rings on its shell.

Early Fad for Antiques
In the first centuries before and after the Christian era a craze for antiques filled the royal court of China, and, immediately, according to history, there was an active manufacture of futilities.

THE CRANBERRY, "SIDE PARTNER" TO ROST TURKEY

The cranberry-picking time in the bogs of Massachusetts, New Jersey and other cranberry-raising States. The popular "side partner" of roast turkey and other holiday delicacies becomes an important source of income at this time of the year for scores of cranberry producers, and thousands of pickers.

The cranberry thrives in "depressions," that is, geographical depressions. One section from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society. The type of soil best suited for cranberry cultivation is found only in such places, which can be easily flooded to protect the plants from frost, insects, forest fires and weeds.

An American Institution

Although the cranberry is raised on a small scale in Nova Scotia, Ireland, Australia, and Tasmania, the cultivated cranberry is largely an American institution, developed from native pickers and seasonal laborers on Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's Feasts. Before the white man came to the New World, the Indians, it is believed, dried, powdered cranberries with wild turkey.

Massachusetts is the leading cranberry-producing State, growing more than half of the world's crop. New Jersey ranks second, Wisconsin third, followed by New York, Oregon, Washington, Minnesota, Michigan, and Virginia also contribute to the tide of fully berries valued at nearly $10,000,000 annually.

Cranberries have been cultivated in Cape Cod since about 1810, but it was not until the accidental discovery in 1830 that "sanding" (covering the bogs with a thin layer of clean sand) improved the quality and quantity of the crop, that the industry really prospered.

Bogs Need Both Dikes and Ditches

The word "bog" may suggest a swampy area, but during most of the growing season a cranberry bog is a dry as a well-kept lawn. Water, however, must be available for flooding and sometimes for irrigation. A cranberry bog must possess both dikes to hold water as long as it is needed and ditches to drain off excess moisture. For while the cranberry plant can live for months under water during the dormant season, it cannot grow or produce fruit while submerged. If the bogs are flooded during the bearing season, they must be drained rapidly, because prolonged flooding is often followed by serious injury to the fruit and even to the plants.

Given an acid soil, valueless for most other purposes, the cranberry thrives. Drained, vegetable matter forms an ideal base, while sand, spread loosely over the field, permits better drainage and also keeps down weeds and moss. The average size of a Massachusetts and New Jersey bog is about 10 acres, but any patch of level bog, less than one-tenth of an acre up to 100 acres or more can be successfully cultivated. Large bogs must be subdivided, however, for drainage and diking.

Massachusetts bogs show a better average yield than those of any other State, producing about 30 barrels per acre over a period of years. Yields of 100 barrels per acre or even a barrel to the rod, are not unknown. The all-time champion crop for large acreage is held by a 60-acre bog in Wisconsin, which has produced more than 125 barrels to the acre, and even in off years yields over 50.

Crop Picked With "Sugar Scoops"

The cranberry plant itself is a tiny, tiny shrub, rarely rising less than a foot above the ground, but forming a dense mat of vegetation. Once the fruit was picked entirely by hand. Now heavy hand-carrying scoops are used most of the work in the field. Women are employed in the screening and packing houses.

Central screening houses and co-operative marketing agencies are used by many cranberry producers. In the screening houses an incriminating machine separates good from bad berries by forcing them over a shot barrier. Good berries are resilient, and bounce over the barrier. Soft ones fall into a discard hopper. Hand sorters "screen" all berries before they are packed into quarter-barrel boxes for shipment.

Although the cranberry made its dinner table debut as cranberry sauce, it now appears in a number of different guises, ranging from cranberry juice cocktail to mock cherry pie (made of cranberries and raisins). Cranberry muffins, steamed cranberry puddings, cranberry salad, and cranberry frappe are other culinary uses of the fruit. By canning a part of each autumn's crop, cranberry canners have extended the cranberry-eating season throughout the year.

THE UKRAINE, BREAD BASKET OF THE SOVIET UNION

Waving fields of golden grain, stretching as far as the eye can reach across the gradually descending slopes.

American newspaper correspondents in the Ukraine report that a bumper crop of wheat is being harvested in the region which for centuries was the bread basket of eastern Europe. In 1933 the Ukraine, the Ukraine, but this year, with 50 per cent of all the cultivated land "socialized" (peasants working on a share basis upon State farms), an estimated crop of more than 50,000,000 tons of wheat should assure ample bread for the Ukraine's 50,000,000 population, with a surplus to be sold to other parts of the Soviet Union.

Also Known as "Little Russia"

"Where and what is the Ukraine?" asks a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society, and answers: As one of the seven constituent (sovereign) republics of the Soviet Union, the Ukraine is more formally known today as the "Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic." Third largest of the republics of the Soviet Union, the Ukraine fills the southwest corner of the great nation, its boundaries touching Poland, disputed Russia, White Russia, Russia proper, and the Black and Azov Seas.

Although it embraces only about two per cent of the total area of the Soviet Union, the Ukraine possesses almost a fifth of its population. Its rich black soil and steppe land produce countless sugar beets and other products in addition to wheat and cereals. From the Ukraine come three-quarters of the coal, 60 per cent of the iron ore, and much of the manganese and other minerals of the Soviet Union.

As "Little Russia," its affectionate nickname, the Ukraine has had a turbulent career. The Poles and Lithuanians for centuries have eyed this restless section over which they attempted to rule. Imperial Russia was long troubled by the "Poles' bog" of the steppe, which was often raiding parties to annoy the Turks and Tatars.

Once Helped to Feed Greece

The wild Scythians helped to feed ancient Greece and her colonies from these same endless steppes. A thousand years ago, Kie, the mother of Russian cities, was always an important place. When Saxons ruled England, the banks of the Dnieper were a meeting place of many races, drawn there by common interests. Slaves were obtained, a foothold, some and reaping their harvests and sending their surplus grain down the river to the Black Sea.

The name, Ukraine, means "border marches." For centuries it was the highway that protected Poland, Lithuania from the Tatars, Turks, and other migrating nomads.

Kiev, City of Mills and Shires

The largest city of modern Ukraine is Kiev, in the northwestern part of the Republic, upon the banks of the muddy Dnieper, the Ohio River of Russia. In addition to its mills and shops, Kiev carries on an important commerce in timber, livestock, and sugar beets. Its many shrines and holy sites still attract pilgrims. Kiev at one time was the capital of all Russia.

Khar'kov, the present seat of the Ukrainian Soviet government, is by far the most important commercial city of the Ukraine. Near it is the Donetz coal basin and the Krivoi-Rog iron district, as well as thousands of acres of rich black earth farms.

Odessa, on the Black Sea, is the chief seaport of the Soviet Union. At Dneprostro, on the Dnieper River, one of the world's largest hydroelectric plants was opened last year. Three miles from the dam site the Soviet Government is building an industrial center which will spread over 14 square miles. When completed this will be one of the chief chemical, coke, and metal producing districts of Europe.

Most of the small towns of the Ukraine are separated from each other by enormous distances, with imperfect means of travel between them. In fact, the chief mode of travel in the Ukraine is by rail. In spring and summer the countryside is an ocean of verdure. The varied shades of green of the growing vegetation are dotted with flowers of many hues; later, in the autumn, after the crops are harvested, it becomes a broken waste of stubble and burned up pastures; and in winter it is a white, gleaming expanse of snow.

As one approaches the Ukraine from the north, the unending forest land disappears, but by degrees the greenness. Most of the Ukraine is treeless, and travelers say that a feeling of sadness and almost depression creeps upon one as he traverses the steppes for the first time.

STUDENT WORKERS AT THE METHODIST CHURCH

A team of five young men from Boston University will be in charge of the Sunday evening devotional series of the Epworth League of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church during the entire month of March. These young men are students in the School of Theology, but all of them came from different parts of the west and plan to return there upon completion of their education. Mr. Ralph S. Holthaus is leader of the team and will be directly in charge of all the meetings. He is already somewhat acquainted with the Winchester young people, having been a guest here on several previous occasions. He is manager of the University Seminary Singers, of which James R. Houghton is the director. Many will recall the concert which the Seminary Singers gave in Winchester last year. His home is in Earlville, Iowa. Other members of the team are Ronald Bringer, of Grand Lodge, Michigan; Wilbur Gort of Salem, Ohio; K. Filmore Gray, San Jose, Calif.; and Earl Noyes of White Lake, South Dakota.

They are all experienced young people workers, especially in Epworth League work and conventions. The Epworth Leagues are fortunate in securing Mr. Holthaus' team for, not only are the young men good speakers, but they represent considerable talent of a musical or entertaining feature, which will be used during the course of the meetings. Mr. Bringer plays the clarinet and piano. Mr. Gray plays the musical saw and gives readings. Mr. Holthaus is a vocal soloist.

The team members were guests of the local League at the banquet which concluded the Comradeship Week last Saturday evening. The young people are looking forward with delight to an association with them for the next four Sunday evenings. The meetings are held in the social hall of the church at 6 o'clock. A comradeship hour with refreshments will follow the first meeting.

JUNIOR HIGH TEACHERS SPEND VACATION IN BERMLUDA

After a stormy passage from New York, Feb. 17, to Bermuda, Miss Esther Harrington, Miss Gladys LeFevre, Miss Beatrice Brown and Miss Cecilia Russell of the Junior High School teaching staff, registered at the Princess Hotel, Hamilton. They were accompanied by Miss Olive Hill of Winchester, who teaches in Boston and Miss Florence Marlock of Milton. Enjoying several days touring the island, swimming and bicycling, they reported good weather and a delightful trip to New York.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY
NOTES

Last Sunday we were very much honored in having Rev. Reed of the Unitarian Church read his book, "The Wake of the John Howard," to us. It is a true story of the friendship of an American and a Japanese boy which helped to bring about the kind deeds and acts. The Society enjoyed the story very much because of the familiar and interesting way in which it was written and because of the explanations, many of them quite humorous which Rev. Reed scattered here and there.

Unfortunately an error was made last week in regard to the announcement of Dr. Chadley's "Question Box." However, as more time has elapsed, we have met new problems and this next Sunday we shall be able to have our questions answered at the "Question Box" to be conducted as usual, by Dr. Chadley.

Anyone of high school age or over is most cordially invited to attend Sunday, Mar. 4. Refreshments for which there will be charge, will be served after the meeting.

"TOMMY" HANNON ON COACHES'
ALL MIDDLESEX FIVE

"Tommy" Hannon, guard and acting captain on the Winchester High School basketball team, co-captain with Wakefield in the Middlesex League, has been chosen right guard on the honorary quintet selected by the circuit coaches. Other Winchester players mentioned were "Lefty" Stewart, capable center and "Teenie" Lentine, rugged guard. Coaches were not permitted to name their own players.

Roy (Carlton) Wakefield, forward and "Dick" Opp, huge Belmont guard were the only unanimous choices for positions on the mythical team. Hannon was bracketed with Lowell Field, Wakefield captain for the right guard post.

Following is the quintet and votes:

Roy Carlton, Wakefield, Jr.	3
Lowell Field, Wakefield, Jr.	2
Wesley Grant, Wakefield, Jr.	2
Richard Opp, Belmont, Jr.	2
Thomas Hannon, Winchester, Jr.	2
Lowell Field, Wakefield, Jr.	2

"In" and "On" the Street
The explanation of the expression "lives in a street" instead of "lives on a street," is that street includes not only the roadway and sidewalks, but also the bordering dwellings and business houses. Sometimes the distinction indicates a difference in the street, the intention being to distinguish the character, as "this office is in Wall Street," but "the lives on Washington Street."

TO DETERMINE THE FACTS

To the Editor of the Star:
I assume that your article on the editorial page of the Feb. 23 issue of the Star, and entitled "Some Interesting Facts," is a collection of facts that have been assembled by your original editorial.

The average property holder has very little opportunity of determining just what the facts are in most similar situations. He, therefore, is in a position to instigate remedial action, which the essential facts are clearly presented to him.

From the figures in the report of the Finance Committee it is difficult to determine exactly the part of the tax levy applicable to the Fire Department. This is because of various income credits that are applied to the total tax. If, however, the actual Fire Department expenditures be considered as wholly applying to that part of the revenue raised by property taxation, it gives a cost of around $120 per thousand of the tax rate for the maintenance of the Fire Department.

From a purely economic viewpoint it would seem that when this expenditure were approximately equal to the cost of fire insurance, a reasonable balance is being maintained. In checking back I find that on a three-year policy, after allowing various credits for fire-preventing devices, my rate per thousand is almost the same amount. It would, therefore, appear that up-to-date the Fire Department had made an excellent showing of what it has been able to do with the funds appropriated and that the Finance Committee had acted wisely in its recommendation.

At this point your editorial may well be brought forth again because it would appear that the equipment of the Department through age was depreciating and that there has not been an increase in personnel and compensation with the growth of the town. It would now seem that a point had arrived when increasing attention must be given to this situation if insurance rates are not to increase.

With the knowledge that one third of the town lies west of Cambridge street and that the majority of the town is from two to three miles in length, and with the further knowledge that there may be a long delay in starting the run because of the railroad crossing in Winchester Center, and added to that the fact that the last part of the run is into decidedly hilly territory, which in winter weather is difficult, or more recently entirely impossible, of access by the 22 year old fire pump, one hopes that the fire department, in the near future, attention should be given to the location of a much needed fire station somewhere in the district west of Cambridge street.

Yours very truly,

H. B. Richmond

MALDEN MYSTIC THEATRE

With Edmund Lowe, Miriam Jordan and Max Baer as the stars, "Let's Fall in Love," a comedy-drama with music, will open a seven day run at the Mystic Theatre in Malden on Saturday night. "Let's Fall in Love" is a story of Hollywood. A temperamental star walks off the set, leaving the producer and the director high and dry. The valued star, who is a Swedish star. None but a Swede will do—and none of those available are willing to take the place of the director's girl in one of the concessions who is just the type he is seeking. An Easterner is a newcomer to the screen, a beautiful girl with a marvelous voice.

"Double Life," a peach of a comedy with Robert Young and Lillian Gish as the stars, will be the second attraction starting Saturday. "Double Life" presents Roland Young as a noted painter who lives the life of a recluse. His valet dies and the doctor makes the mistake of thinking it is the painter. Glad to escape the notoriety, Young assumes the role of his valet, while the valet is turned with due honors. Then comes the part of the painter, Roland Young is considered by critics the finest actor on the screen, and the appearance of Lillian Gish, after a long absence, will be enjoyed by screen fans.

Warner Baxter in "As His Husbands" is a large crowd during the World War. These people will not give up their positions voluntarily, or without objection, if they are like other citizens. The struggle to get into every board of Selectmen, City Council and State Legislature, and will exert a pressure on executives and Congressmen which will be hard to resist. The present progress of bonus legislation, for example, is a further reminder of what an aggressive minority can do.

We have now in the United States the makings of a bureaucracy greater in size and power than any other in the world, outside of Russia, where everybody is a ward of the government. The grave danger is that these groups who have been engaged by Uncle Sam will organize and copy the program of the CWA employees at Springfield. Employment so long as depression conditions continue to warrant it is all right, but they themselves would wish to say whether the depression has ended, and that is all wrong. If they should become "politically active," as in Springfield, they would support candidates who promised to help them, and would take the field against them.

The one means of protection against this is a mustering-out of Federal emergency employment, the earliest time possible. That will require political courage and stamina at Washington, and every state capital and City Hall.

HERE IS THE DANGER!

A hint or a dangerous movement which may quickly become statewide and national under certain conditions is in a report dispatched from Springfield, published yesterday. It was as follows:

CWA workers of this city—more than 2000—are planning to form an organization which will work for continuance of work of this type so long as depression conditions continue to exist. They will become a politically active to support their plans, and will have a mass meeting this week. One object of this meeting will be to select a slate of delegate candidates for the pre-primary conventions of the Democratic and Republican parties of the state.

Many millions of Americans now look to the Federal Government for a livelihood. The number was probably so large even during the World War. These people will not give up their positions voluntarily, or without objection, if they are like other citizens. The struggle to get into every board of Selectmen, City Council and State Legislature, and will exert a pressure on executives and Congressmen which will be hard to resist. To the Editor of the Star:
No salary is attached to the office of Selectman in Winchester. I believe the general opinion is that, with rare exceptions, our citizens have served the town in this capacity have been men of considerable business or professional training and experience and that they have done so for a personal sacrifice to devote much time and study to the interests of the town, for pay or even political advantage, but for the honor of being a town father.

During the past year two things have occurred which make it wise to review our experience and reaffirm our faith in the policy of no pecuniary compensation for the members of the Board of Selectmen.

The first is the letter in a recent issue of the Star by the retiring chairman of the Board advocating a paid town manager serving under the direction of the Board. There is some merit in that method of running a town, but it to be advantageous here we would have to abolish the position or curtail the salaries of some subordinate heads, which we should do only after careful consideration. If we did not do that we should simply reduce the board of most of its arduous tasks and pay well for something we are getting by the hour, or nothing. We frequently have men on the Board whose services are worth much more than could be obtained by any salary likely to be voted by the town for a town manager.

The second occurrence to which I would call attention is the appointment of a man whose services the voters deemed worthy of election to the board of the board. This may be the clerking wage by which men running for the office of Selectman may obtain directly the paid job within the sphere of the board's patronage which they wish in the first place. The character of the board may change quickly and not for the better.

Our Board has deprived the town of a man whose services the voters deemed worthy of election to the board and would have re-elected in accordance with custom, and has made him a paid position which could be filled sufficiently well by any one of dozens of taxpayers out of jobs who are hoping for some break in their job. If they may expect them to save their homes from tax sale, as we intend in part to pay this salary. The NIA principle of sharing the work seems to be the only satisfactory way to proceed, which fact is not at all obscured by their report wherein they state that the incumbent accepted this job in order to enable them to elect his fellow members. There being a majority, there was no need for the clerk-to-be to cast his vote, so no reason to believe that they were so necessary that they would be under other conditions. Anyhow, Raskin was doing the job filled, and whether the dog will wag the tail or the tail wag the dog time alone will tell. Town clerks in most places perform this function satisfactorily, and if there is anything about the job of clerk of the Board that a town clerk is not qualified to perform then the town clerk is not fit to be a town clerk.

Of course, if the Board intends to abdicate its functions in favor of a clerk, it is a horse of another color, in effect an emergency measure, but that job should be filled by an engineer, a qualification which we understand the incumbent does not possess, so we must conclude that the salary of $200 a month is a fair salary for the full time town clerk.

Even if a majority of our citizens believe this appointment violated the charter of the town, and if the charter, nothing much can be done about it. We do not ordinarily refuse to return good men to the Board for one act which they have done, and if the charter, if it is merited and general, may be helpful as insurance against the future, and also it might not be unwise to make sure that the board really desire to serve the town as Selectmen rather than to appoint themselves to the paid jobs at their disposal. Neither can we look for help from the Finance Committee, because its vision has been so obstructed by the lengthening shadow of the water tower erected on its unanimous recommendation with a waste of thousands besides more thousands to the town. The town is now in such a cutting a few dollars from a hard-working stenographer's salary, are within its view.

Proclaimed Pan-American Day

In 1939, President Hoover proclaimed April 14 as Pan-American day, designating that the flag be flown on all government buildings, and inviting all the people of the United States to observe the day with appropriate ceremonies, to give expression to the spirit of continental solidarity, and to sentiments of cordiality and friendly feeling.

River Nile's Outlets

The Blue and the White Nile join at Khartoum. In the Sudan, thence the White Nile flows north until a little beyond Cairo, where the stream splits into two branches, one flowing north and the Blue Nile, the other the Delta. In ancient days there were seven outlets of the Nile into the sea, but five seem to have dried up.

We can sit down and kick all the way to the moon, but viewed by surrounding towns and cities we have met this snow and weather proposition about 100 per cent.

In opening the doors of its headquarters, this week to receive a dead "huddle" Winchester Post of the American Legion performed a kindly act that will receive the praise of the entire community. A veteran who died at the Winchester Hospital had no home in which a funeral could be held, the same being true of those surviving. In the emergency the Legion offered its memorial room as a resting place for the dead soldier until the funeral. A guard of honor was provided and every courtesy extended to the deceased, his relatives and friends. The Post's memorial room is appointed in excellent taste and is a place where any one might leave a loved one with a sense of propriety and security. In offering this sanctuary the Legion believes it has helped not only one "huddle" should do for another. This spirit too is commendable and indicates strongly that the post not only has ideals but is not slow to act upon them.

Those who go often to the town hall have many times wondered why the present clerical assistant is stationed in the Selectmen's office instead of as formerly in the office of the Town Clerk. The duties of the latter official have increased with the growth of the town and the introduction of the limited form of town government, yet she has less help than formerly when the work was not so plentiful. This seems a step backward, and the $100 which the town clerk is to share with the treasurer for extra clerical assistance during busy times and when she is on vacation is hardly adequate to provide the assistance needed. All times are busy times with the town clerk and an untrained clerk would be of little value at the periods when there is unusual stress of business. The town clerk at least in certain duties of the office would be a distinct liability in that office during an emergency absence of the town clerk. We are by no means alone in believing that the clerical assistant belongs in the town clerk's office, to which most of the town's business at the town hall naturally goes. At least "a" clerical assistant is needed there. There are many who question the necessity for keeping the Selectmen's office open during the day. Few go there excepting veterans, and their business is not attended to by the clerk. It would seem wiser to have her in the town clerk's office where she can familiarize herself sufficiently with the business transacted there to maintain the efficiency of the office in the event of the town clerk's absence.

FORTNATE FOR WINCHESTER

It is that Chairman Edmund C. Sanderson of the Water and Sewer Board is again a candidate for reelection.

Mr. Sanderson is a capable town officer. He holds no outside interests and his town office occupies his whole attention. The Star has long been in debt up to that he has organized and brought the efficiency of his department to a plane surpassed by none in our town and probably none in the State.

He has carried the idea of personal service into at least one department. If you water your lawn over lawn, he tells you so, along you in beating leaves or correcting meadows. If you have any water upon the lawn, he says by your own hand, he says by your own hand, he says by your own hand.

He has carried the idea of personal service into at least one department. If you water your lawn over lawn, he tells you so, along you in beating leaves or correcting meadows. If you have any water upon the lawn, he says by your own hand, he says by your own hand, he says by your own hand.

NO OFFENSE INTENDED

The Star prints this week a most interesting letter from Marshall Fay, son of Mr. Robert E. Fay, a resident of Park avenue. Marshall Fay has been in aviation for a number of years and is a particularly able pilot. He was born and brought up here and is widely known in Winchester. His letter is most enlightening in its graphic description of the business now experienced by army aviators in their endeavors to fly the mail.

Marshall Fay visited Winchester a few years ago. He was then a Z, gave his friends here a little exhibition of what he can do in the air. We, among others, were present enough to see it. Without exception it was the finest exhibition of flying we have ever seen. We considered it a treat and a privilege to witness his skill.

Unfortunately our view was not shared by others. Vigorous protest was made by some residents. Marshall Fay was censured severely, notwithstanding the fact that his most thrilling stunts were performed over the hills in the east-side hills. But it is to be hoped that he will fly over the center of the town.

Within a few days another aviator, unnamed, visited Winchester and saluted the town by circling their home and waving greetings. He indulged in no stunts but he did "zoom" over the town, his plane sounding loudly in the still air. His visit has likewise brought forth protest.

The Star has no concern for the few timid residents whose hearts missed a beat or two at the sight of the plane overhead and whose imagination vividly pictured the consequences of a crash. Rather it sympathizes with them in their timidity.

It is too bad that we cannot all become air-minded. To some, the skill and ability of some friend in the air is a thing of beauty and admiration; to others a menace and a horror. Accidents will, of course, happen; probably to the end of time.

However, neither Marshall Fay nor the unnamed aviator will be arrested. Army pilot will again favor Winchester by a visit via air. Their intentions were of the best; they had no thought to alarm Winchester people, and neither would have trespassed knowingly upon our rights and prejudices. As regarding these two aviators, Winchester need have no fear that they will offend again.

A POOR CODE

Whether the NRA New Deal has hit the Town of Winchester or not is a moot subject, but as time progresses and one gradually digests the reports for our coming annual meeting it appears that town affairs are certainly heading in a direction where honest men and rusty mails are rapidly achieving more importance than the substantial consideration of a proper conduct of town business and affairs.

Take all this argument over departmental clerks and their pay for instance. The Star fails to see why this small detail should occupy such important consideration on the part of various officials. A statement to the effect that salary and wage reductions should be continued, as announced, seems all that is needed. Why is it necessary to cut one clerk and raise another; to enjoin the Town to pass votes which would deprive a department head to restore a few dollars deducted from his clerk's pay?

Let us take the matter to grade departmental clerks. It is a reasonable proposition to create two divisions: a senior and a junior division. All times are busy times with the town clerk and an untrained clerk would be of little value at the periods when there is unusual stress of business. The town clerk at least in certain duties of the office would be a distinct liability in that office during an emergency absence of the town clerk.

We are by no means alone in believing that the clerical assistant belongs in the town clerk's office, to which most of the town's business at the town hall naturally goes. At least "a" clerical assistant is needed there. There are many who question the necessity for keeping the Selectmen's office open during the day. Few go there excepting veterans, and their business is not attended to by the clerk. It would seem wiser to have her in the town clerk's office where she can familiarize herself sufficiently with the business transacted there to maintain the efficiency of the office in the event of the town clerk's absence.

But such an idea would probably be heavily scored by the brain trust. Meanwhile the clerks—and two clerks—will be left to their own devices and watch history in the making.

We fail to see the justification or even the necessity of petty penalization. Why should one clerk be penalized for another at a time when we are to have a dinner this year? We are to have a dinner this year? We are to have a dinner this year?

The legal fraternity should be able to judge from past performances, the town clerk's office. We are to have a dinner this year? We are to have a dinner this year? We are to have a dinner this year?

We hear various complaints from denizens of this nature. With possible exception of a few of our town officers and department heads pay more than a poll tax? They cannot be accused of any sense of deliberate dishonesty or knowingly misappropriation of the town's money. If they have proved inefficient the voters should so inform them by their votes. There is no need of disruptive party departments by ill-fitting or personal prejudice.

If any be, as some prophets hope, that these petty matters will be adjusted before the annual meeting, but it is a new way to conduct town affairs, and while it may give with the latest Washington pattern and show a piece to day progressive spirit, it is questionable whether we are sufficiently advanced to give it unqualified support.

THE GRANTING OF LICENSES

To the Editor of the Star.

In a few days the voters of Winchester will make the choice of granting one or more of several types of licenses for the sale of alcoholic beverages. Many were led to believe that the choice was between the liquor license and the beer license, but in fact, this is a delusion.

In any structure there are a few of the same who are the backbone of the structure together regardless of the decorations which are more conspicuous. Let us not be deceived by appearances.

Every dollar received for liquor licenses is in fact a cash in advance preferred dividend paid from the pockets of the citizens to the citizens of the community receiving it because of the structure together regardless of the decorations which are more conspicuous. Let us not be deceived by appearances.

is, but those old enough to know at first hand realize that during the half century before prohibition, no single activity did more to cause human poverty and suffering; to prostitute justice in the courts; to defile government with bribery and to corrupt legislators into rubber stamps for special privilege than the organized salaried and distillers acting directly and through middlemen, by a direct outlet or controlled through debt. Do not think that the leopard has changed his spots.

Without license there will undoubtedly be bootleg liquor available but you will not be a partner in the business and the trade will openly appear what it really is in any case—bauchery of humanity to satisfy human greed.

MINISTERS OPPOSE LOCAL LICENSE

To the Editor of the Star.

We, the undersigned clergymen, felt that our constituents would like to know how their pastors stand on the matter of the sale of hard liquor by grocery stores, and restaurants in Winchester, and also on the matter of taverns in Winchester, which is to be voted on Monday.

The unanimous opinion of these ministers is that Winchester has gone as far as it ought to go, keeping the situation as it is at present, that is, limiting the sale of liquor in stores and restaurants to malt liquors and wines.

We believe that any further extension of the liquor trade in Winchester would be detrimental both to the tone of the community and to the lives of its people.

We strongly urge our constituents to go to the polls on Monday and to vote not only on this matter, but in other questions of important interest that are to come up.

ROTARY CLUB NOTES

Nineteen Rotarians from the Winchester Club enjoyed the hospitality of the Rotary Club of Cambridge at Riverbank Court Hotel on Thursday, March 1. These Cambridge meetings are given to a group of representatives of our membership, and even more from our club would have gone to Cambridge, had they not been prevented by illness.

We wish to say a word in appreciation of the speaker provided by the Cambridge Club for this occasion, in the person of Lieut. Alton R. Allen. From being thoroughly conversant with his subject (Hitlerism) Lieut. Allen is possessed of a forceful and convincing manner of address. A man with a message and the ability to convey that message to others. The rise of Hitler, Mr. Allen said, is the result of their type gives opportunity to draw a vivid contrast between autocratic and democratic forms of government as exemplified in current history. Lieut. Allen's speech brought out this contrast in a manner which we had not soon forgot.

On Thursday, March 8, for the first time in three weeks we shall hold a regular meeting in home quarters. We hope to greet every member who is in Winchester at that time and able to stand on two feet. Please help.

HEART TO HEART TALKS

By Eugene Bertram Willard

Charles Wagner in "The Simple Life" says "No religion is good if it is vital and active, if it nourishes in you confidence, hope, love and a sentiment of the infinite value of existence. If it is active with you, it is best in you against what is worst, and holds forever before you the necessity of becoming a new man; if it makes you a better man, it is a good religion; if it increases your respect for the conscience of others; if it renders forgiveness more easy, fortune less arrogant, duty more dear, the beyond less visionary."

Those of us who think seriously—who love all our fellowmen regardless of race or creed—are hopeful that beneficent changes will emerge out of the welter and turmoil of the present era. The NRA and any other law no avail unless it is founded on vital religion. It is foolish to be an incoherent drifter, hoping for a savior, when no one will be able, where no one must toil beyond his strength, where everyone must give according to his ability, where everyone must be his own master.

It is foolish to so dream unless we can put vital religion in action. The church is in a position to understand the staggering burdens of humanity if it will. The church, more than any other human agency, can help the plain people, the economically helpless, the poorly endowed, the underprivileged, the sick in body or mind, but the church can do nothing until man first "saves himself" and "takes up his cross, daily." Before this old world can be made a better place, every citizen must attempt to reduce below the danger point—we have got to bear one another's burdens. We are not doing it today.

The "Additional" Services of this Bank

Almost everyone uses the bank as a depository for money in the form of a checking or a saving account, but this is only a small part of this bank's real usefulness.

It will safeguard your valuables; transmit your funds by wire; supply travel funds; provide currency of many foreign countries. It will administer the affairs of your estate as executor, guardian, conservator, or trustee, and is always ready to facilitate the handling of your business and personal financial affairs.

If you are not availing yourself of these "additional" services, you are not giving your bank the opportunity to prove its real value.

COMMUNITY BASKETBALL

In spite of storms, cold weather, fairs, elections and various other handicaps, Community Basketball games in a night here and there at our Town Hall and provides untold pleasure for the youth of the town. At present we have real close competition in all the divisions.

In the Midget Circuit the Holy Cross team tops the league with eight wins in a night here and there. In the Junior League, the Army, Purdue and Princeton teams are in a three-way tie for third place. Notre Dame is in the cellar due to its inability to pull the close one's out of the fire. They seem to have the same fate as the Junior's who have suffered last fall in football.

The Junior's case is a nip and tuck affair with the Bruins one up on the Maple Leafs by virtue of the fact that they have played one more game. The Maple Leafs will make this game up next week and promise to go down the stretch with highly touted Bruins. The Rangers, Eagles and Redskins are closely bunched for third place. The newly reorganized Black Hawks, caretakers of the cellar promise to be a thorn in the side of the leaders from now on.

The Senior League race has been full of surprises. Chief of which has been the strength of the Holy's, the downfall of the Amico Bakery, and the general all around play of the Bruins.

The playing of the outside games has proven successful and popular. Both to players and spectators. On Friday, March 9, the players on this year's High School team will play the All-Stars as an independent group. This should provide a real game and is expected a huge crowd will join the hall. The Independent's second team will match up with a league team.

There will be a Senior League captains' meeting at the Legion House Monday night at 7:30.

On Thursday, March 8, National Bank vs. Ferns, Blackhaws vs. Maple Leafs, Bruins vs. Holy's, Rangers vs. Princeton, and Bruins vs. Holy's.

No Full Moon

February is the only month of the year in which there may be no full moon. It occurs on an average once in about 22 or 23 years. February, 1934, will not have a full moon, nor will February, 1935. The average time from one full moon to another is 29.5 days or longer than the average length of February.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

Dramatic Afternoon

Two one-act plays were given in Waterfield Hall on Friday, Feb. 23, by the Dramatic Committee, Mrs. Claire Reynolds, chairman. The first was "The Constant Lover" by St. John Hankin, coached by Beatrice Baul and was a charming little sketch of spring time when a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love.

Everyone was impressed with the pleasant new hall, and the beautiful new red velvet curtains; but they burst into applause when the curtains parted and disclosed a real stage setting, a lovely woodland scene part of which was actually designed and made by Mr. Baul.

The lovers, Mrs. Lucille Townley-Tilson, daughter of Mrs. Mary Osgood, and Mr. Lyndon Burdman, son of Mrs. Lucy T. Burdman, were very charming and naive. They listened to the singing of the choir, and the call of the cuckoo, all of which were realistically portrayed behind the scenes. And they really caught the spirit of light-hearted, carefree, spring time, irresponsible and charming.

Before the play began, Mrs. Sophia Gardner sang "The Cuckoo" by Shaw, a companionable introduction to the entertainment. And between the two plays there was an interval of music when Annette Symmes Hughes sang three lovely soprano solos, Mary Whitman accompanying. They were:

"American Lullaby" by Parker

"A Little Flower" by Campbell

The second play was "Miss Tilly's Chair" by Mrs. Josephine Perkins.

Mrs. Perkins was present in the audience and Mrs. Reynolds introduced her at this point. She told some very interesting and entertaining anecdotes of her experience in broadcast work with WEEA, where she gives "Ann Bradford's Half Hour for Homemakers." She told how differently plays have to be written when they are to be heard and not seen, and how awkward it can be when the wrong person backs like a dog, or the fire department siren fails to whistle properly. She congratulated the present committee on their birds and their cuckoo, as well as upon the quality of their production.

The parts in the second play were taken by Winifred B. Nicholas, Adeline Rosencovine, Lilla J. Ryan, Betty Beegs and Dorothy Bruno. The coach was Mary K. Smith and the play, though difficult one, was very well done. On account of illness, Mrs. Smith was absent from the performance, but Mrs. Reynolds stepped into her place and did a beautiful job of making up, collected last minute material and put everything through smoothly.

"Miss Tilly" (Winifred Nicholas) has a chair from which she can see all that the neighbors are doing. And when her sister (Adeline Rosencovine) chances to move the chair, and even to change the window, it amounts to nothing less than a crime. A caller (Betty Beegs) innocently insists upon sitting in this chair, and the thrilling events are spinning next door; and a neighbor (Lilla Ryan) coming in just as the caller has finally consented to move, sends her to the chair before Miss Tilly can get it again. However, she knows what the chair is there for and she and Miss Tilly, completely unacquainted, the pretty caller who sits in polite silence on the other side of the table, watch eagerly from the window and speculate together on what is going on next door. For somebody is moving in, to board with the lone spinster who lives there. It is a doctor—shocking. One uncle died in a car crash. The doctor must be unmarried. Terrible!

A sign is put up: "Dr. Leslie Marshall." And a neighbor with a black cat, "The Black Cat," comes out the door and drives away. The neighbor is pretty sure he has driven away in a telephone truck, but Miss Tilly and the caller say "No." Then she has a bright idea. She has long suffered from a delicate throat, weak ankles and poor eyes. So she telephones for Dr. Leslie Marshall to come right over. There is suspense and excitement as they wait for the doctor to arrive. Finally the doorbell rings. The ladies all flutter gracefully arrange themselves in their chairs to receive him. The doctor (Dorothy Bruno) enters, but Miss Tilly cooly asks him to wait outside. But when she looks up she is almost overcome. Dr. Leslie Marshall is a woman.

The play is good and it was well done. There was plenty of comedy and suspense and entertainment. But there was also quite a bit of character study and the rather slight thought would lend one to expect.

After the program there was a social hour with the ladies. Mrs. Reynolds and Grace Holmes were business, and deserve much credit for their attractive and delicious entertainment.

Regular Meeting Feb. 26

The club meeting last Monday was the first to be held in the new hall. One of our regulars, Mrs. Baul, came on that day, but we are getting so used to blizzards that we scarcely notice them any more. So there was a very comfortable attendance of hardy creatures clad in overcoats and plattered with snow. Most of them hesitated to get their cars out, but they could wait for the weather. And one felt very proud of the Fortnightly, of their club spirit, their loyalty to their well beloved president, Gladys Wilson, and their realization that they just couldn't afford to miss hearing Dr. Gilkey. The hall looked very pretty with the handsome new red velvet curtain in front and tea table and flowers arranged at the back. Mrs. Wilson gave interesting details of the work that she had done on the hall. New lighting fixtures—a great improvement—had been put in since the dramatics afternoon last Friday. Plans are being considered for getting stage scenery, refinishing the floors, etc. One marvels at the speed and efficiency the hall committee is displaying.

The meeting was very creditably conducted by the first vice president, Mrs. Anna C. Grosvenor. But Mrs. Wilson was present and graciously entertained the guests of honor, Mrs. Wood, president of the Arlington Women's Club and Dr. James Gilkey, pastor of the South Congregational Church of Springfield.

Mrs. Wood made a brief address, bringing greetings from the Arlington Club and congratulating the Fortnightly upon its new home and also upon its loyal membership who do not mind snow and cold.

There were several interesting notices.

Education

The Education Committee is planning a lecture to be given in Waterfield Hall on Friday, Mar. 23. Mr. Ernest Dudley Chase will tell of "Four Thousand Miles Through Belgium, England and Southern France" and will show pictures taken on this trip.

A guest of honor at the tea being held this afternoon (Friday, Mar. 2) is Mrs. Frances Blanchard, Women's Club Editor of the Boston Herald.

Art

The lecture on tapestries at the Art Museum will be repeated by request on Mar. 9.

The all-day conference in Woburn on Mar. 15 promises to be very interesting. For luncheon reservations or further information, telephone Mrs. Lillian Whitman, Win. 1298.

Literature

The Literature meeting on Monday, Mar. 5 at 2:30 in Waterfield Hall will take the form of an entertainment. The subject will be a study of five great American authors and what they exemplified and taught their relations with their fellow men. There will be a comparative study of the ideas of 200 years ago expressed in Poe's "Essay on Man," those of 100 years ago, as shown by these men and those of 20 years ago. There will be a snap shoot—pithy remarks by these authors made about each other; also a "conversation" between them. The speaker will be Mr. W. H. Wilson, a member of the committee. There will be a "miniature journal" of Thoreau, made up of short stories of his life, and a play upon the subject of the afternoon, and a "miniature essay" of Emerson, to be the same way. And of especial interest will be the play, "The Mount," the historical story as related by Governor Bradford; the details added by Hawthorne in his "The Scarlet Letter"; and the final form which Stokes and Hanson have given the tale in their opera which is attracting such widespread attention at the present moment.

The committee in charge are Mrs. Josephine Perkins, sub-chairman; Mrs. H. C. Lane and Mrs. W. H. Wilson. B. Nicholas. They will also be several guest artists, assisting.

Music

The second of our morning musicals will be held on Monday, April 2, and Mavis Peterson will be the guest artist. This works of Schumann will be sung.

Fortnightly News

A letter of congratulations from Mrs. Carl L. Schrader, Massachusetts Director of the General Federation, terms our bulletin a "perfect gem of a paper." Good for Mary Davis and her associates.

The Program

The program was opened with music by Miss Jane Hill, contralto, accompanied by Mary Ranton, violin. Miss Hill's voice was clear and technique absolutely assured and adequate, even in extremely difficult passages. Moreover she has a sweet voice and is very pleasing a singer of old and simple naturalness and a quiet smile. She was very much enjoyed. She sang two Romanian folk songs, "The Broken Spindle" by Ronald and the "Song of the Clock" by E. Schell. For an encore she sang "Moon Marketing" by Paul Weaver.

Dr. Gilkey

Dr. Gilkey said he was much surprised and pleased to find a goodly number of people present in spite of the blizzard. He had really only expected four; the president, himself, the speaker, the janitor, and possibly one other who might have "drifted in." He spoke informally from the floor, instead of from the platform, and the audience all gathered at his feet and center of the hall. It was delightful; but what a pity that everybody couldn't have been there to enjoy it.

Dr. Gilkey's subject was "Russia, Germany and the United States: Three Contrasting Ventures." He spoke first of the centuries of history which each is able to arouse. He described a group of 100 young Communists on a communal farm in Russia, singing "The Internationale" with an impassioned fervor that one could never forget. Then he told of a mass meeting in Germany and the singing of the "National Anthem" by the group in an open square. Finally he told the story of a Russian family in the United States who after a long residence here returned to Russia. And their loyalty to America was expressed not in song but in a quiet, rather suspicious, practising of English with the children so that these younger ones should ever manage to come back "home" they would be able to speak the language. In contrasting the three political ventures, he said that the Russian one is an attempt to organize a communist society under the dictatorship of the working class.

The German venture is an attempt to organize society under the dictatorship of a single political party. The American venture is an attempt to organize a modified capitalism which shall leave scope for a democratic government with individual freedom and opportunity.

The three ideas are utterly different. Each will try to survive, but probably all three cannot. The third seems to us to hold the most promise. The foundations upon which the three social orders are built have some clearly contrasting features. Russia has (1) a luxury and magnificence beyond all power of imagining in the palaces of old Czarist Russia; rooms lined with pure silver or gold or amber, wealth beyond description or belief; (2) contrasting with this magnificence, a horrible poverty, degrading and hideous, the existence of a thousand families of ignorance, oppression and cruelty; (3) and finally the present effort to reconcile the two, to pull down the high and lift the low to meet and solve the stupendous problem of creating a middle class which shall replace both the others.

This effort is built upon four principles, which contrast sharply with our American ones. For the American social order is founded upon (1) individual initiative and responsibility; (2) private property; (3) a strict marriage code and a carefully protected family life; and (4) an influential organized religious body. As opposed to this we find in Russia (1) state initiative and responsibility; (2) communally owned property; (3) marriage and divorce laws which are incredibly loose and irresponsible; and (4) anti-religious education.

To study Germany at the present day one must study Hitler. He was born in 1889, and until exactly 15 years ago he was poor, without influence, training or position, an insignificant artisan who had risen only from private to corporal in the World War! Fifteen years ago this month he was released from a hospital (having been gassed in the war) and happened to enter a cafe where six men were forming a workers' society. He became the seventh member of the group. And his rise to power since that day is comparable only to that of Napoleon. He became the head of the National Socialist Workers' Party of Germany (an abbreviation) and in 1933 was given dictatorial power to last until 1937. He is a wonderful speaker—a "spell" he can cast upon his audience and violent emotion. He is practically inaccessible and he is in absolute command.

The Hitler program has been drawn up in 21 points, of which a few of the most important and startling are:

1. The immediate cancellation of the Treaty of Versailles and the return to Germany of all her colonies.

2. The one hundred million Germans who live outside the borders of Germany must be taken care of by other nations shall unite to form a German Empire.

3. Absolute racial purity shall be maintained.

4. No one not of pure German blood can be a member of the German nation. Hence the terrible plight in which the Jews in Germany find themselves.

In America it is hard for us to picture such an ideal of racial purity, for we are accustomed to the mingling of great numbers of different nationalities into our own. And our ideal of a modified capitalism where a democratic government allows scope for individual freedom and the right of each for which we can wholeheartedly strive.

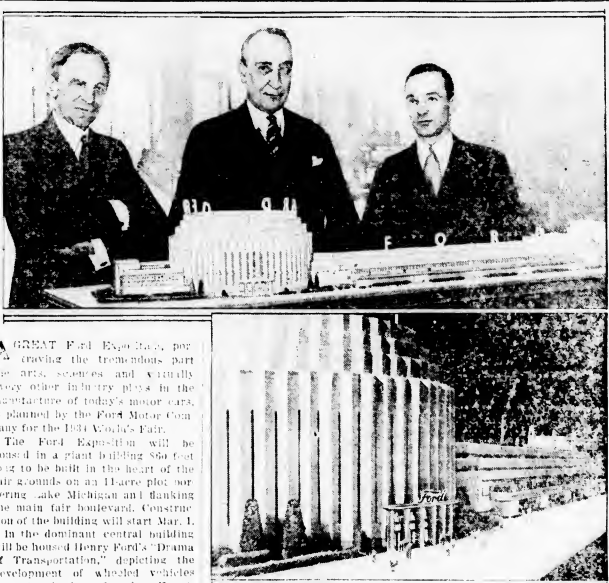

Our danger lies in the fact that only a small proportion of us are truly striving. There is in America a tiny group of extremely minded, progressive, public spirited citizens in whose hands our future lies. But they are not enough to carry it off. To nullify the efforts of the first group is anti-social and predatory, a class including criminals and thugs, among others. The second group is indifferent and simply does not care for itself. If we can only awaken these indifferent citizens to a sense of their responsibility, we may second the efforts of the socially minded group, among us, we may well hope to succeed. For we have some fine, strong individuals working for help us. We have the church which is trying to build public spirited character. And we have the school and the home, training young people to be better citizens. Upon them we must rely, these things we must uphold. For they are our last barrier against chaos.

Garden Group

The Fortnightly Garden Group held its meeting on Wednesday afternoon. Members of the group were invited through Mrs. Seales to visit Mrs. Homer Gage's garden early in June when the Iris are in bloom. Papers were read by Mrs. Isabelle Winship, Mrs. Edith Pushee, Mrs. Adelaide Pratt and Mrs. Dora Bailey. Mrs. Stine Fifield introduced Mrs. Judson Cross, a member of the Fortnightly who spoke on "Attracting Birds to Your Garden." Mrs. Cross prepared her food for the birds in the fall by melting down many pounds of suet and mixing seeds such as she knows her different feathered friends enjoy. An interesting record was played with the bird calls. In this way one becomes familiar with the calls and can tell without seeing what the bird is. If one will look around at Nature's beauty and study the habits of the birds, the trees and the flowers, they will find a hobby that will bring the best of all mankind together.

A delightful tea was served by Mrs. Adele Emery, the Misses Bancroft, Mrs. Pratt and Mrs. Hadley. The meeting of the Garden Group will be held on Mar. 21, "Practical Gardening, Seed Planting, Soil and Bulbs" will be explained by Mrs. Annie Reed Blanchard.

FORD TO BUILD HUGE EXPOSITION AT THE 1934 CHICAGO WORLD'S FAIR

A GREAT Ford Exposition, portraying the tremendous part the arts, sciences and virtually every other industry play in the magnificence of today's motor cars, is planned by the Ford Motor Company for the 1934 Chicago Fair.

The Ford Exposition will be housed in a plant building 560 feet long to be built in the heart of the fair grounds on an 18-acre plot near Lake Michigan and backing the main fair boulevard. Construction of the building will start Mar. 1.

In the dominant central building will be housed Henry Ford's "Drama of Transportation," depicting the development of wheeled vehicles from the chariots of ancient Egypt to modern motor cars. Every model of Ford car made since 1901 will be included.

The smaller building to the left will be housed some of the priceless historic exhibits from the Edison Institute at Dearborn, Mich., including the one-story brick workshop complete with the original tools where Mr. Ford in 1901 built with his own hands his first motor car. This first car will be displayed in side the shop.

The main exposition building will display an imposing array of cars and a big motorcade. Along the outside of the building will be a long row of exhibits, including a new steel, aluminum and cast iron, soy beans, corn, wheat, cotton and other farm products and the products of mixed industries converted into car parts.

The building also will have a display of the latest in car design.

Revised slogan: Join Mrs. Roosevelt and see the world.—[Boston Globe]

The Democrats got us liquor—and at what a price! The bootleggers are coming back and so is drunkenness—with everything so high that only alcohol can be bought from modern parties straight—enough to make even a horse pass out.

If you object to the NRA New Deal, step up and state your remedies! Well, we are so deep in the mud now, and Solomon, being an ancient and thereby disqualified from modern participation, the challenge seems unanswerable, and we can continue to step up and take it, like it or not, as we were told we could do last year.

The news last Friday was that one in every ten in these United States is in government employ. Saturday stated one in nine, Sunday one in eight and Monday one in seven. Tuesday's figures were revised. On Tuesday we learned that one in every six is in government employ. Evidently we are all headed for the land wagon.

TO KEEP THEM BACK OF THE LIGHTS

We are inclined to agree thoroughly with the idea put forth by Selectman Farnsworth for a partial improvement in our traffic problem in the center. This idea is to turn off the back lights on the trucks, and to have the car's side of the crossing. While it would not prove the solution to the problem, we agree that it would help some in our present situation. Cars which now run right up to the crossing gates at thirty miles an hour, causing anyone trying to cross the streets to scurry out of the way and also completely blocking the side streets, would perform have to stop at the lights on the west and north sides, since otherwise they could not see the signal. North Main street and Church street are two of the worst thoroughfares in the town for pedestrians to cross. Hardly a car pays any attention at all to stopping in front of the two lights supposed to govern their crossing. They just turn out on the back lights on the east side and see how it works? At least cars will not run by the other two beams. As conditions are now these west and north beams may just as well not be used.

MR. CRAIG WELLS DESIRES AN ANSWER

To the Editor of the Star:
In scrutinizing the report of the Finance Committee I was amazed when I observed Article 42 which reads as follows: "to see if the town will appropriate $1000 to be used in the removal of the hardwood trees upon the Winchester watershed so as to increase our water conservation."

Now, Mr. Editor, we have removed two-thirds of the hardwood trees and yet during the winter and spring of 1928 and 1929 200,000 gallons of water ran to waste.

I for one shall not vote to expend $1000 for the removal of the hardwood trees. Why? Because we removed two-thirds of the hardwood trees and yet we lost 200,000 gallons of water. Assuming that we removed the remaining one-third of the hardwood trees at a cost of $2000, then how much water will be wasted annually? Surely some of the citizens will inform me through the columns of the Star or of the Town Hall at the next annual town meeting.

I am informed that there are 200 cords of hardwood in the vicinity of our reservoirs that can be sold for $8 a cord. This suggests that we expend $1600 to remove $2400 worth of hardwood in order that we can produce more than 200,000 gallons of water that was wasted in 1928 and 1929.

Consider for a moment the water we shall have in our reservoirs this spring. I believe the hardwood trees; namely the red and white oaks, white pines, white spruces and Sycamores hemlock present a delightful combination that harmonizes so beautifully with the reservoirs that it presents a beautiful picture.

I trust that there shall be a reply to this communication in the next issue of the Star or of the Town Hall at the next annual town meeting.

Very truly yours,
Patrick H. Craughwell

LEGION NOTES

The Post meeting originally planned for Thursday evening, Mar. 15 has been postponed to Friday, Mar. 16 and will be held in Lyceum Hall at 7:45 p.m.

An exhibition of small arms shooting and jiu jitsu will be given by Chief Walter F. Reeves of the Scammon Police department with his jiu jitsu team. Chief Reeves is a champion revolver and pistol shot and conversant with all the punishment of the ancient Japanese method of defense.

The Post is making this meeting a father and son night and is fortunate in securing such an entertaining program as Chief Reeves is sure to provide for its guests, among whom will be the Post's own troop of Boy Scouts.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

The Literature Group met Monday afternoon for a program which aimed to interpret the philosophy of human relations as shown in the work of the five 19th century authors who have been read through the winter. Mrs. Atwood, Mrs. Swanson, Mrs. Lane and Mrs. Nichols were the readers. Each author was preceded by a characteristic passage after the manner for an entertainment. Mrs. Reed read poems which suggested various authors and subjects. Mrs. Gandy and Mrs. Higgins read a poem which portrayed an imaginary conversation between Whitman and Oscar Wilde.

Mrs. Hatch, who will have charge of the next meeting, asked all to report signs of present day results of the teachings of the five authors, and at the same time to consider in what ways the present day needs their thought.

REV. J. L. EARLY

Rev. Fr. Joseph Lynch Early, a former priest at St. Mary's Church, died Tuesday in Brookline after a long illness.

Father Early was born in Boston Jan. 21, 1881, and was graduated from Boston College in 1901, winning a reputation as a brilliant scholar. So excellent was his scholastic record while studying for the priesthood at St. John's Seminary in Brighton that he was sent abroad for additional studies and completed a post graduate course at the Catholic University.

He was ordained in 1905 in the Cathedral of the Holy Cross in Boston and was first assigned to the Church of St. John the Evangelist in Hingham, Mass. Later he served at St. Joseph's Church, Kingston, and at St. Agnes' Church, Arlington, as well as at St. Mary's.

His sisters and two brothers survive.

The funeral was held this Friday morning with solemn requiem high mass in St. Mary's Church, Brookline, the church attended by the relatives with whom he lived during his illness.

APPRECIATION

Mrs. Annie I. Mitchell, for 15 years connected with the Winchester Hospital, passed away a few weeks ago. The following letter was written by her sister to the District Nursing Association in appreciation of services rendered by the nurses:

132 Forest Street,
Winchester, Mass., Feb. 28, 1934
Winchester District Nursing Assoc., Miss Alice Pond, Pres.,
Winchester, Mass.

I take this opportunity to thank you and the Association for your untiring efforts in behalf of the comfort and welfare of my sister, Mrs. Mitchell, in her long and tedious illness.

A LETTER FROM "IRVING"

We received this week a welcome letter from Irving L. Symmes, former chairman of the Board of Selectmen, who with Mrs. Symmes is enjoying life in St. Petersburg, Fla., far from the rush and turmoil of the local political arena.

Mr. Symmes, who went south to speed his recovery from his recent severe illness, writes that he has been thinking many fine drives within a radius of 70 miles of "St. Pete," and reports some fine scenery which he is doubtless recording with his movie camera to arouse the future jealousy of his less fortunate friends in the north.

More than 40,000 tourists have visited St. Petersburg this winter, but many are leaving now. "Irving" however is going to see a bit of baseball at the Braves' training camp before returning home, and if he starts telling the ball players about that long baseball throw he made back in the old days on Ball's field during a Fourth of July celebration we are afraid the mere "pros" will just hang up their gloves, figuring it's no use trying any more.

HEARING ON ZONING ARTICLE

Mar. 6, 1934
To the Editor of the Star:
In another column of this "Star" there is a notice of a public hearing before the Planning Board on Article 29 of the warrant for the town meeting relating to a proposed zoning regulation to prescribe the minimum size of building lots for houses hereafter erected in the single residence districts. The proposal involves the future development and growth of Winchester, and is of major importance to all citizens and owners of real estate.

The Planning Board would welcome a large attendance at the hearing, and by many, as extras. Their value, in giving balance to the child's education, cannot be too strongly brought before the mothers. Many boards are tempted to do away with sewing, woodwork, cooking and even athletics, which is proving poor economy from the school child's point of view.

Mrs. Annette Symmes Hughes sang two delightful numbers, accompanied by Anna W. Lockman.

Tribute was paid Mrs. Clifford Towner in recognition of her loving and earnest work for years in the association. A letter of deep sympathy was forwarded to her family.

Tea was served in the kindergarten room by Mrs. Homer Davidson and committee. Mrs. Thomas W. Conlon, president and Mrs. Albert Thompson vice president of the executive board, presided.

CABARET COMMITTEE REPORT
AT MARCH MEETING—WINCHESTER CLUB "CHRIST" FINANCIAL SUCCESS

The March meeting of the Winton Club was held at the home of Mrs. Robert Smith on Everett avenue, Monday, March 5. The Work Committee had hand sewing ready for the 60 members present. The interest in the Cabaret Committee's report was manifested by the unusually large attendance.

Mrs. J. Harper Blaisdell, president, called on Mrs. Henry K. Spencer, Mrs. Gordon Parker and Mrs. Robert Smith Clark to give their reports on the "Circus." Mrs. Blaisdell expressed the appreciation of the Board for the great amount of work each member did, and the club's sincere thanks to all those outside the club who assisted in making the cabaret such a success.

Mrs. Blaisdell also called attention to the local advertisers who had generously and earnestly asked members to patronize these merchants in return for their contributions.

The opening session of the annual town meeting is scheduled for next Thursday evening, Mar. 15, commencing at 7:45. All town meeting members are reminded of the fact that their non-voting precinct members are looking to them for representation at this and succeeding sessions.

The "Additional" Services of this Bank

Almost everyone uses the bank as a depository for money in the form of a checking or a saving account, but this is only a small part of this bank's real usefulness.

It will safeguard your valuables; transmit your funds by wire; supply travel funds; provide currency of many foreign countries. It will administer the affairs of your estate as executor, guardian, conservator, or trustee, and is always ready to facilitate the handling of your business and personal financial affairs.

If you are not availing yourself of these "additional" services, you are not giving your bank the opportunity to prove its real value.

WASHINGTON-HIGHLAND MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION HOLD A MEETING TUESDAY

Due to the illness of Mrs. Carol Hilton, president of the Washington-Highland Chapter of the Mothers' Association, Mrs. Kenneth Caldwell presided at a well attended meeting on Tuesday. Following the short business session an unusually interesting program was enjoyed. Mr. Hugh Nixon, secretary of the State Teachers' Federation, spoke on the "General Educational Situation Today." He stressed the necessity of retaining in the school course, what are considered by many, as extras. Their value, in giving balance to the child's education, cannot be too strongly brought before the mothers. Many boards are tempted to do away with sewing, woodwork, cooking and even athletics, which is proving poor economy from the school child's point of view.

THE STORY OF WINCHESTER'S HISTORICAL MARKERS

By Lydia J. Sanderson

Delivered at The Fortnightly Preservation of Antiques Committee's West Side Neighborhood, the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Stone.

The Symmes Farm marker has been omitted from the list of historical markers in this town.

Our beautiful Town of Winchester has borne many appropriate names. The clock tower of the Town Hall records:

Waterfield 1638
Charlestown Village 1640
Wahnam 1642
Winchester 1650

but it is of Waterfield and the early days of which we shall speak.

To comprehend rightly the founding of our town we must go back 300 years to our mother country in the reign of King Charles I who granted the charter for the Massachusetts colony to those who would go to possess the land for mercantile, civil and religious purposes. These religious purposes were later made. This right could be granted only by charter.

This charter provided to elect annually a Governor and assistants who made up a great and general court which still bears the name today in the Massachusetts Legislature.

The charter provided made the colony of Massachusetts Bay independent.

An organization had been formed in England called the New England Company which secured the grant of land three miles north of the Merrimack River, three miles south of the Charles River and to the Pacific Coast then thought to be not far west of the Hudson River.

We must remember that the Puritan founders of Massachusetts Colony were English country gentlemen of broad understanding and liberal education, of extensive ambition and good character.

In 1629, 12 men in Cambridge University signed an agreement to emigrate to America to plant a colony where they might embody new ideals of a Christian Commonwealth, and later, 100 University men from Oxford and Cambridge joined the group.

Captain John Smith in exploring our shores had made a map of Massachusetts Bay which he presented to King Charles who gave the company the name "Charles town" and the river "Charles River". The names of some very distinguished non-Puritan leaders of their country are found in the list of early comers to Charles town—very different from the usual Puritan group of gentle folk setting sail from their beloved England, this group of professional and middle classes, some leaving large estates and scholarly names.

Sadly New England and America were to be the richer with men of such caliber eager to settle here.

Our Puritan fathers from motives of piety and benevolence as well as worldly interest, looked to the haunts of the savage occupied by civilized men, to see towns planted, churches and schools springing up in the wilderness.

Landing in Charlestown they first took possession of a small strip of land near the sea having a small stream and a high hill overlooking the surrounding country and for protection against Indian hostilities. Log huts and rude shelters were their first homes. Then they penetrated deeper into the wilderness. Indians were found in all directions, on the banks of the river, on the hillsides, in the forests and near the ponds. On they went till they reached the reservation of Squaw Sachem near where is now the Winchester Country Club where the historical marker reads "Squaw Sachem Reservation."

"The Squaw Sachem of the Nipmunks in 1629 signed his people's land excepting the ground west of the two great ponds called the Mystic ponds for the Indians to hunt and plant upon, and the west of the pond for the Indians to fish at."

Let us linger a little to learn something about this Indian squaw who owned the territory who supervised Mystic Pond, Spot Pond, Horn Pond, Winter Pond, Wedge Pond and Aborigina River and small streams. What wonder that it was called Waterfield?

Squaw Sachem.

The two nations of Indians who governed the territory around the Harbor were the Pawtucket and Massachusetts.

The Pawtucket had a dominion reaching north and east of Charlestown they were a powerful nation of warriors but lived in peace with the Massachusetts Indians.

The great Sachem in Lowell, by name Napanamut which means "new moon." He died in 1619 leaving the Squaw three sons and a daughter. After his death she received as Squaw Sachem and called herself "The Queen of the Mystic." She married the pow-wow or physician of the tribe who became Chief of the right of his wife. A friendship sprang up between our colonists and Squaw Sachem who sold to the inhabitants of Charlestown all the land except the farms and ground on the west of the two great Mystic ponds reserved for her own use and for the Indians to plant fish and fowl.

Our Puritan ancestors must have been men of magnetic traits and winning ways to have made so favorable an impression upon this Indian woman for we read that she and other Sachems submitted themselves to the jurisdiction of Massachusetts promising to be true and faithful to the government and willing to be instructed in the knowledge of God.

They freely assented to all the laws of religion and civil government, binding the promise with a present to the court of 26 fathoms of wampum, receiving in return a coat of two parts of red and one of blue and a pair of sack—perhaps in a very joyful frame of mind. She died of a good old age in 1662 leaving all her land to the Governor Increase. Nowell (of whom we shall hear later) to dispose of. She requested all Indians to depart from Charlestown giving them 21 coats and 100 fathoms of wampum and three bushels of corn.

Increase Nowell.

We now come to the marker of Increase Nowell's farm. As a nephew of the dean of St. Paul's Cathedral and an original officer of the Massachusetts Bay Colony settled at Charlestown and served as an assistant of the colony for several years until his death, this farm was granted him in 1638.

He was born in England in 1590 and came here with his young family in 1630. He belonged to a family of repute in England and was a nephew of the Dean of St. Paul's Cathedral.

It was the day of Archbishop Laud's prosecution against non-conformists and the revolt against abuses in the Church of England, which sent him to our shores.

We hear of him soon after his arrival making friends with the Indians and going with some others from Charlestown to spy out the land round about Waterfield which was designed to be made into useful farms and a promising building of villages in the remote lands.

He was appointed a ruling elder of the first Church in Boston during the absence of the pastor John Cotton, but not being convinced of the wisdom of the union of church and state he left the office and became a leader of the dissenters.

He takes a leading part in all the affairs, was Selectman for 19 years, commissioner of military affairs, secretary of the colony and many other offices as well as magistrate.

The most important work of the colonists was the division of the land. Each person who came out of England was granted 20 acres and grants were made in consideration of eminent service rendered the colony. The Charlestown survey shows that "Charlestown" included an extent of land for eight miles, Cambridge, Reading and Medford and Nowell takes a leading part in settling the dispute of boundaries, acting in the character of an old English squire, having the confidence of friends and neighbors. Holding the office of magistrate till his death he prevented errors and proceedings that might breed disturbance in the Commonwealth.

He was a rigid Puritan with very marked piety accompanied with a violent temper, it is said. His public virtues were attended with a severe intolerance.

Curious customs and queer ways had begun to invade the colonists in England, one of which was the wearing of the hair long, the manner of the Indians. This custom was obnoxious to magistrates and was too much for the stern and austere Nowell who wrote with vehemence against it. It was contrary to God's will, he exhorted them to remember the command of St. Paul, "Let your hair be as a sign of modesty and shame for those old founders knew their Bible and believed in it."

He was twice married and always a family man. He was a man of a strong will who wanted his fourth wife married Nowell's sister.

He died in 1655 and it is said he was a poor scholar. His nephew was granted to his widow and eight children, of 2000 acres of land, now a part of Worcester, in acknowledgment of his services to the state. His son Alexander was one of the most brilliant Harvard students of his time and served as a long president of the university.

Erithingham in his history of Charlestown says "To write the biography of Increase Nowell would be to tell of the civil and ecclesiastical history of the time."

Edward Converse.

We now come to our town when it was known as Charlestown Village. It holds a marked place in the history of Charlestown and Winch. The first settler and house owner fills up the story of Edward Converse.

In the days of long ago if we had France we should have found an old man home belonging to a family of Huguenots or French Protestants, known by name who later emigrated to England and changed the name of Conyers and still later to Converse. From this Huguenot English family the Converse family is descended from which came Edward the famous company to Massachusetts Bay Colony. He was born 1530 in England.

After seven years at Emmanuel, he was married in England several years before he came here. Three children were born there. Feeling the use for religious freedom and having something of the spirit of adventure he brought the family to these shores in 1630. After searching about for a home he found the spot on Main Street, between the Town Hall and where the marker now stands where the marker now stands where the marker now stands.

"Site of the first house built in 1640 by Edward Converse who led the party out of Charlestown to explore Waterfield. He was Selectman 24 years, Deacon 19 years; arrested in 1662 for speaking disrespectfully of the king's letter."

Here he built the first house, the first mill and probably the first bridge for public travel over any stream of water in the town. We read of a miraculous escape as he was searching for land about here when a terrific night storm caused the fall of a tree upon his house, his lying which nearly cost him his life.

The Converse farm included all the middle of what is now Winchester and the common Waterfield has its own traditions. For he used a part of it as a sheep pasture which extended from the Skillings house in Rancely recently taken down to the Catholic Church on Washington Street. Just fancy the pastoral scene! Sheep and shepherds wandering here and there at their own sweet will in green fields and waters. Where the Town Hall now stands and the houses in that region were all a part of the Converse estate for four generations.

His corn mill by the river existed for 300 years. It is on record that a tragedy occurred in his son Samuel's death. He was killed by a water wheel in the old mill when he was working on it. Little comfort was found, but by a deed of violence, his son Samuel died. An extraordinary occurrence in the death of his wife for which he sought comfort nine months later by marrying Joanna Sprague of Charlestown.

Edward Converse was a man of great enterprise always pushing forward some new work. In less than a year after settling here he established a ferry between Charlestown and Boston. His name stands among the leaders for every good movement. He was what might be called a "just" leader in forming our town and he had a part in every new settlement. For 19 years he was chosen annually as Selectman. This man of strong will and high principles was honored with public confidence and private esteem.

We read that a letter received from the King in 1663 aroused him. He called it Popery and was arraigned and brought before the court but discharged on the ground that his language did not reflect on his Majesty's letter. He has a great record. Some one has said the words that describe his public career are promptness, devotion, conscientiousness, unflinching, yet prudent, clear headed and self contained.

Edward Converse might be called the father of Winchester as he built the first house here which is described as being from front and a long sloping roof to one story in the rear. A huge chimney went up through the middle of the house which was 20 feet high and 10 feet wide. With the land on which it stood it was valued at $650. We love to think of the old French Huguenot who did not descend here so comfortably housed in the early days of our town and in the last years of his life. He died in 1662.

John Harvard.

We now come to a more familiar name. At the corner of Washington Street stands the historical marker bearing the name of John Harvard, which reads "John Harvard's land. In 1638 this tract of land containing about 120 acres was granted John Harvard by the Town of Charlestown. He was the teaching elder and died the same year leaving half his property to the college which was named after him."

Just across old London Bridge in High street stood the house in which John Harvard was born. All of this vicinity is historic ground. Here was Shakespeare's Old Globe Theatre and the homes of the actors. Here was the old Tabernacle from which Canterbury's pilgrims set out for Canterbury and here was Queen's Head Inn from the sale of which came the money that helped to build Harvard College.

The Harvard family belonged to the very respectable well-to-do middle class of England. The father, Robert Harvard, was a prosperous butcher and a prominent churchman at St. Saviour's Church nearby.

His mother was Katharine Rogers of Stratford-on-Avon. There were seven children, three children and home life were happy and comfortable for those days. When John was seven years old, he went to St. Saviour's school. Each quarter day he was sent to the school for a brown, not for domestic use but for flogging his head if unruly, a custom still in vogue in the leading schools of England today. We never read of John Harvard having been flogged. He was a quiet, studious, thoughtful child who loved to study, especially the Bible, which led to his going later to Emmanuel College at Cambridge University where he was a student of high thinking and plain living.

The narrow tenets of Puritanism were leading to revolts—many were yearning for greater religious freedom and civil liberty. In 1629 12 men at Cambridge had signed an agreement to emigrate to America to plant a colony where they might embody their ideals as a Christian Commonwealth and a greater religious freedom.

One of these, Thomas Dudley had written to Cambridge college men "If any gently men out of religious and will come over and help us in the good work we are about, they cannot dispossess of themselves nor their estates meet to God's glory and the furtherance of their own reformation."

After seven years at Emmanuel, Harvard completed his course in 1635. He had taken holy orders and returned to his home in London. Meanwhile his father and four of his brothers and sister had died of the plague. His mother had married again. John was in delicate health, dejected and lonely, but he was interested in church duties at St. Saviour's. The next year he married Ann Salter the sister of a college friend.

Still yearning for broader freedom in religious views and civil liberty he and the new wife collected his library of 400 books and sailed for Charlestown. When they arrived in 1637 Charlestown consisted of 150 houses with gardens and orchards between the river and the hills. He bought one of the best houses for he was considered a rich man. He was not here long before he was asked to assist Mr. Symmes in the ministry. It was his first parish and it is written that he preached with tears and affection to a congregation of 200 persons every Sunday, attached to the church of England. He took little part in community affairs—his deepest interest was in education.

He obtained shares in all the divisions of land when lots were laid out on the Watkinson or Mystic side and above the ponds. His farm was near the present Catholic Cemetery.

Some one has said "John Harvard took Charlestown on his way to Harvard and so improved the rigorous climate of New England was too severe for his delicate constitution. He died of consumption claimed him as a victim. He died Sept. 14, 1633 aged 31 years, scarcely a year after his arrival in Charlestown.

A solid block of granite marks the spot on Burial Hill where he is buried in Charlestown. His footsteps are marked on the hills. He lived as he believed was burned. There is no portrait nor any delineation of his personality, form or feature known to exist.

He cannot be called the founder of Harvard College as we so often hear. It was founded by the general court of the Massachusetts Bay Colony in 1636 by the Puritan churches and educated and religious men in New England while he was still in England, but it claimed his deepest interest and his name is made immortal by his generous bequest—a part of his estate with his library of 400 volumes. The exact amount of his bequest is not known, some accounts say 800 pounds. There was trouble in settling his estate because of troublesome times in England where most of his property was held.

Of his 400 volumes all but were burned in a fire at Harvard Hall but one which is now the precious treasure in Harvard library. It is called "The Christian Warfare Against the Devil."

The Harvard Alumni has put an appreciative tablet memorial in Emmanuel College, Cambridge, and former Ambassador Choate has put a window of rare beauty in the Lady Chapel of St. Saviour's where John Harvard was baptized. Both spots are dear to the hearts of Americans.

President Eliot has happily told the lesson of John Harvard's life when the splendid ideal statue by French was unveiled in 1884. I quote: "He will teach that wisdom which is the deed of hope and faith may crown a brief and broken life with deathless fame. He will teach that the good of the world is to be won by the untitled and multiplied beyond all power of measurement of computation. He will teach from the seed which he planted in loneliness, weakness and sorrow has spring joy, strength and energy ever fresh blooming, year after year in this garden of learning, and that the flowers of the most precious time goes on, in all fields of human activity."

Here endeth the story of Winchester's Harvarded Markers.

The years from 1628 to 1640 saw the planting of the New England Colony which blossomed forth into the great American Commonwealth. Our founders were men of high standards—who knew and believed the Bible as they interpreted it—and they feared God but how human they were, stern and violent at times. How they loved to learn! how quick to show the fight in them! Some one has said this was the characteristic which made them the strong men they were. They scourged heretics and persecuted witches. They held many faults. Beated disciples were in a fierce over Calvinism and the Prayer Book. Still they were seldom capable of satisfying the appetite for sermons many hours in length.

They showed a marked tendency for the married state. They married early and often. Large families for wife number four was a common trait.

Puritanism in the early days was animated by a passionate ideal of justice and righteousness. Narrow the Puritan may have been, austere and cruel, but not indifferent to the fundamentals of character.

In time the harder aspects of Puritanism were toned down, but the lofty character, strong intellect and enter spirit of the New England settlers have been conserved.

Posterity owes a great debt to the men who were the first settlers on the eastern shore of the New England. We who live in the midst of what was the fields and forests of Waterfield and Charlestown can look back to our founders. The India Squaw-Increase Nowell-Edward Converse, John Harvard, Rev. Zacharia Symmes and feel that the lot has fallen to us in a fair ground—that we can indeed boast of a goodly heritage.

SELECTMEN'S REPORT SATURDAY

The recount of Monday's vote for Selectmen, petitioned for by supporters of John P. Carr, will take place on Saturday afternoon in the General Committee Room at the Town Hall. All the Selectmen have been notified because of the fact that the recount will be held.

The recount is under the direction of the Registrars of Voters and is not open to the public. Any of those affected may be present with counsel or may delegate some one to represent their interests. The petitioner for the recount is also entitled to be present.

The last recount for Selectman was in 1928 when Harry W. Stevens reversed a one vote margin obtained by Victor B. Carr in the original election to win in turn by a single vote.

LIONS CLUB

The Lions Club of Winchester met Tuesday, Mar. 6 at the Calumet Club. We had the great pleasure of listening to a talk by George Waterman of the Roxbury Lion Club. George knows Lionism probably as well as any Lion in the International Association and is always glad to pass that knowledge on to those who have George with us again very soon.

George was accompanied by Oscar Hunting of the Kenmore Club. Oscar has been a member of the Kenmore song leader and he is usually called on to pop a meeting.

The Lions Club this year as in past years has been very active in co-operation with the Chamber of Commerce and therefore voted to attend the annual dinner of the Chamber, to be held on the 10th of the week of the dinner will be omitted.

After extemporaneous remarks by various members about dues and spirit of the club the meeting adjourned.

COLLEGE CLUB

A good sized group from the College Club with friends attended a fashion show at the Chamber of Commerce on Mar. 2. Miss Marie Turner used living models in the new spring mode to illustrate line and proportion for total outfit of each figure. On Mar. 16 at 10:30, two recent lectures will be called "Spring Colors and Which Are Yours?" This will supplement in an interesting manner the theory lectures on color for the individual which have gone before. Members of the group who would like transportation to Jordan's are asked to call Mr. Charles Green, Win. 0819-R. Anyone else interested in this subject is cordially invited to attend.

Mr. Parker Hart of Glengarry was a recent guest at the Hotel Lexington in New York City.

TO THE BUSINESS MEN OF MASSACHUSETTS

Business vs. Politics

I am not a criminologist, a penologist or a psychiatrist, but I believe that the supreme aim of prison discipline should be to send the prisoner back to his home better equipped to live in accordance with the demands of society than when he entered.

At the present time there are approximately 1500 men in Charlestown and Norfolk. With almost 10 per cent of them in for life, there are over 1300 of them who will sooner or later return to their homes. It has been stated officially that more prisoners are released from the prisons and jails of the United States each year than from all the colleges of the country. Statistics show that at least 60 per cent of the men who come out of Charlestown about a year ago, when the cost was about $400 per year to feed and care for these men, one can see at a glance that this is a business proposition of no small importance.

For every 100 men who can be kept from returning to prison it means a saving of $40,000 per year. Visiting Superintendents from across the country have said that it is practically impossible to improve the condition and attitude of any of these men who are in that institution. There is no chance for segregating the younger criminals from those who are so steeped in crime that they can never become respectable citizens, and the charges are paid by the younger and first offenders who come out of this veritable school of crime hanging everything in the nature of authority easily drop into the criminal class again.

After five years of constant agitation, the Legislature finally in 1927 yielded to a demand that a different type of prison be constructed and appropriated $100,000 to begin the work of clearing land and constructing a wall around approximately 40 acres at Norfolk. Mr. Sanford Bates, then Commissioner of Correction, and now Governor, selected Mr. Howard B. Gill to take charge of this work.

Since then Mr. Gill has had a double duty to perform. First, he has had to construct a new and modern plant and then to take charge of the inmates of the new prison as fast as they were sent down from Charlestown. No assignment. At first it was recommended that the State build this wall by contract and that the prisoners be brought down and housed in temporary barracks inside and build their own prison home, but Mr. Gill said, "I will undertake this job of building the wall with prison labor and house the men entirely outside of any wall," and he began with a small group of men in 1927. He has gone on with that piece of work which no one but a brave and, I believe, competent man, would have undertaken, and it has been the worsting of all I have followed him in his work. He received from time to time men from Charlestown as fast as he could use them until on Jan. 1, 1934, he had nearly 550 men. About 425 were housed inside the walls and at that time 125 men were outside the walls clearing land, building roads, constructing farm buildings, preparing to operate a farm the coming season, a fact which seems to have been entirely overlooked by those who have reported so thoroughly on what is going on at Norfolk.

As my first interest in this project was to see that the wall and the buildings were properly planned, constructed and built at a reasonable cost to the Commonwealth, I have watched this work for seven years with considerable care. I have seen the wall, which under contract would have cost $180,000, built for $94,000. I have seen one of the shops, estimated by an expert contractor to cost $115,000, built for $50,000. I have seen the power house, which will produce heat, light, power, hot water, steam for cooking, laundry and sterilizing, built by inmate labor. Dormitories, shops, and kitchen buildings, six in all, have been built at a saving in approximately the same proportion as the two I have specially mentioned. I have seen several buildings built under contract, but planned and constructed under the direction of Mr. Gill, all awarded to the lowest bidder after fair competition. I have seen $2,000,000 expended in building equipment, water and sewer systems, roads, sidewalks, grading and tunnels; all, it seemed to me, supervised in a most commendable manner by Mr. Gill and his assistants.

Careful estimates based on work already done would indicate that approximately four to five millions of dollars would cost this institution, fitted to take care of 1500 men. The State of New York has just completed a prison accommodation for 1600 men and their official statement says the cost will be approximately $9,000,000.

Now, it has seemed to me as a business man that Mr. Gill is entitled to considerable credit for this piece of construction. I have never seen nor heard of any of the many other projects, juggling of accounts or unfair competition in securing these contracts, until a few weeks ago when all the one-sided papers were filled with accusations of this kind. The Governor at once very properly sent two men to investigate conditions at Norfolk. The first man was the State Auditor. I have waited patiently for several weeks to find out whether these charges of graft, dishonesty and so forth, which have been spread before the public, are true or not. If these charges are true, then I have been grossly mistaken in Mr. Gill, whose work I have kept pretty closely watch of for the last seven years.

The Governor within a week has stated to a committee of citizens that the charges are not true, and so forth, have no foundation in fact. That is all I want to know of Mr. Hurley's report. That is what he was sent there to find out, and he is so qualified by experience in prison management to report on anything further than that.

The Governor also sent a second man to look into the general conditions and management at Norfolk, Mr. W. Cameron Forbes, a man of national reputation, who has long well experienced in prison work. What does he say? "I renew my recommendation that Charlestown be done away with, and that the State, if the finances raged, the property sold and the money used for the construction of a proper punitive establishment at Norfolk, would be well advised to send a recommendation to another governor 12 years ago. He further says, 'Construction in the main extremely good. The food, supervision, and discipline provision adequate. Devices for protection well conceived. Architectural arrangements adequate.'"

It was the unanimous opinion of the council of inmates with whom I consulted at Norfolk that they are treated like human beings, and it is this aspect of the institution that I cannot too strongly recommend.

I prefer to believe the statement of Mr. Forbes rather than the garbled report of Mr. Hurley, who has allowed damaging statements to leak out and to be published day after day under stealing, misleading and inflammatory headlines, which Mr. Gill has not had any opportunity to answer them as they appeared.

As to the second duty, namely, prison management, that was assigned to Mr. Gill when he was sent down there seven years ago. I am not competent to pass judgment on the way he has managed it, but when I hear on the one hand the practically unanimous report of those who are familiar with prison management, and on the other hand the most remarkable records ever made under such conditions; and when I hear the testimony of those who have arrived at the prison and looked into the prison, but have stayed there long enough to know what is going on, speak in the highest terms of the management they have observed there; when I find that the Rockefeller Foundation has been willing to put into the state the sum of $50,000 to carry out a work of trying to find out what the cause of these men being in prison is; when I find that Mr. Johnson, President of the Massachusetts State Bar Association, and a member of the State Bar Council, commends him for his fairness in dealing with mechanics who have worked at Norfolk; when I find that the selection of practically all the towns of Norfolk County state that while they did not wish to have the prison men in their territory, they have not been shocked at the dishonesty and graft in high places, but after the most careful investigation Mr. Gill is declared absolutely honest in all his dealings while he had charge of expending $2,000,000 of the public money. Is it a wise and businesslike procedure to put him out while he is in the midst of this work and to trust the expenditure of another $2,000,000 to an untried man?

Mr. Gill is to be given some sort of hearing, I hope that some hard-headed business men who are not easily thrown off their balance by the trade of political demagogues and useless bullbaiting will attend this hearing, and ask that this man be allowed to complete the work he has begun, which Mr. Forbes says is "the one creditable page in the prison history of Massachusetts."

BOY SCOUTS

Troop to Spend Week-end at Fellsland

Troop A, sponsored by the Winchester Post American Legion, will spend the coming week-end, Saturday, March 10 and 11, at Camp Fellsland in Amesbury.

The Scouts of this troop, under the leadership of their Scoutmaster, John Kenson, and Assistant Scoutmasters, Philip Harrison, Robert Livingston, and John Blaisdell, Jr., are eagerly looking forward to, and preparing for this trip.

Facilities for your round camping are available at Camp Fellsland. Permits to use the camp must be secured from the Scout office. With a careful scout on duty throughout the winter months, and with cots, cooking utensils, dishes, and other equipment provided by the Council, a good safe camping trip can be had at any time in the year by the troops of the Council. This is part of the service rendered by the Post American Legion.

Answers the President's Challenge

Reports from all parts of the Council seem to indicate that, although hampered by bad weather, Scouts are slowly covering the field. Clothes and furniture are being collected in proportions as to present real evidence of the job the boys are doing and the generosity of the people in Winchester.

Persons having material to donate who have not been seen by Scouts are urged to notify District Commissioner T. Parker Clarke, 123 Mt. Vernon street.

By Ann Page

Continued stormy and cold weather is beginning to result in a real shortage of fresh fish. Fair quantities of haddock filets and cod steaks from the Atlantic, and of halibut and salmon from the Pacific are available at moderate prices. Salt codfish and finnan haddie are also fairly plentiful. Canned fish in variety may be substituted for fresh.

Fresh fish, plentiful and as cheap as they are likely to get. Well-aged cheese is inexpensive and probably offers more balanced food value, for the money, than any other food. Dried peas and beans are also nourishing and they may be purchased in cans ready to use, if desired.

Fresh vegetables in variety are plentiful and most of them are inexpensive. The asparagus season is just beginning. Apples, bananas, grapes, fruit and oranges are attractively priced. Strawberries, too, are plentiful and cheap.

The Quaker Maid suggests the following dinner menus:

INTERESTING EXHIBIT

An exhibit particularly complete and of much interest today, is that now on display in the show windows of the Winchester Squares Chevrolet Agency on Main street. It includes airplane and motor equipment; the same as is being used by the Army and Navy, and is especially interesting to the mail in place of the regular commercial pilots.

Besides the flying clothes and apparel necessary for winter flying it includes a complete radio installation, receiving set, transmitter and trailing antenna. The grapple for hanging up messages, and the way together with the bag for dropping messages, as well as the very pistol for signaling.

Mr. P. E. Baker, who is manager of the Winchester company, is a First Lieutenant in the National Guard Air Corps of 15 years' standing, and it is through his courtesy that the exhibit is shown. He has many interesting aerial photographs, both of Winchester and surrounding country, also on view.

DIST CHURCH

Rev. William E. Austill of Framingham, will speak at the Lenten service at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church, on Wednesday evening, March 14, at 7:45. Mr. Austill has traveled widely in Europe, North Africa and Palestine and has as a traveling companion his motion picture camera. Last summer on a trip to Palestine he found among the many other sights of interest, natives using the traditional flail of antiquity. He will show the picture of these people at their task of threshing grain. His subject will be "The New Day in the Old World." The address will be illustrated throughout with motion pictures taken abroad. Miss Margaret Miller will sing.

The many Winchester friends of Mrs. George W. Wightman will be pleased to welcome her at the High School gymnasium next Tuesday night, March 13, at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Wightman will be interested to see her appear in the role of ping-pong champion. In addition to her many tennis honors, Mrs. Wightman holds numerous titles in the ping-pong world.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

Community Service Tea

The Community Service Committee held its fourth and final acquaintance afternoon for this season on Friday, March 9, with a good attendance of new members. The fourth section of the membership list had been invited, and with the new club members and members of the board greatly enjoyed the fine program which the committee had arranged.

The chairman, Mrs. A. Beatrice Thompson gave a hearty welcome and the audience sang one verse of "America, the Beautiful." Mrs. Glenys P. Thompson, who had to leave early, opened the program with a group of violin selections accompanied by Mary Ranton Witham. That these were most enjoyed was shown by the way the audience expressed its appreciation, and all were sorry that Mrs. Thompson had to leave. She is an artist in execution and expression and her selections were well chosen. The chairman expressed appreciation of her coming of the board for the first time, and also thanked all those who had helped on various programs, particularly stressing the fine co-operation of the music chairman, Mrs. Witham.

The Arphus Trio of Boston, was then introduced. Genevieve Thompson, Barbara Tucker, and Barbara Whitman, pianists, were not there were secured through the kindly offices of the club secretary, Jane Robinson, and Mrs. Witham. These artists received the first group of "Mimnet" by Hayden, "Romance" by Debussy, and "Serenade" by Drell. For encore, they played, "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia."

The club president, Gladys R. Wilson, expressed her appreciation of the efforts of Mrs. Thompson and her committee, and Mrs. Witham who helped to arrange the musical program of the afternoon. Mrs. Witham then gave a piano selection, and Mrs. Hughes of the audience responded to their applause by a second selection. Both were enjoyed by the audience, and a charming personality, Mrs. Witham has the gift of sharing her own absorption in the music.

Clara E. Houghton, reader, gave a very fine rendition of the first act of "Six Cylinder Love," a difficult selection given with her usual charm and artistry. Ann Marie Hughes sang a group of songs, "Nightingale Song" by Nevin, "Cuckoo Clock" by Young and "Ships of Acre" by Head. These were much enjoyed. Mrs. Hughes not only sings well but radiates an atmosphere of joy in her work which her audience appreciated.

The Orpheus Trio for a second group played "Londonderry Air," arranged by Kreiser and "Two Guitars" by Harlick. The Trio played a perfect rhythm and fine technique. We hope to hear them often.

The chairman then asked the new members to rise and they were greeted by the board and older members. Tea was served by the committee. Poems were read by Mrs. G. M. Mary E. Gilbody, Mary C. Kelly and Etta M. Chamberlain, assisted by Frances T. Conlon, Ruth A. Nevins, Ruth L. Nichols, and F. O'Connor and Mary B. Symmes. Thanks were expressed to the Winchester Conservatory for the many courtesies extended. The tables were set up by Mrs. Kelly and Mrs. Gilbody and made a lovely picture with silver appointments and spring flowers.

The appreciation of the whole club is gratefully extended to the Community Service Committee and its able and tireless chairman, Mrs. A. Beatrice Thompson for this delightful series of entertainments. It was a new idea for this committee to carry out such a program. The Winchester club has been great. Certainly the sense of fellowship and co-operation within the club has steadily increased throughout the winter, and whether this is due to the personality of the president or to the efforts of the Community Service Committee, it is a matter for sincere congratulation and satisfaction.

Next Regular Meeting

Branson de Cou will give an illustrated lecture on "Old Mexico" next Monday, at 8:30 in Waterfield Hall. This will be a rather long one of the finest things this year. Everybody in Winchester knows or knows of Branson de Cou, and it will be a delight to welcome him back here.

JOHN PERIVAL SINGS AT CONCERT

Mrs. Theodore von Rosenzweig, who has charge of the concert to be given on Mar. 14 at 8:15 p. m. at the Unitarian Church, announces that the soloist, John Perival, will be one of the finest things this year. Everybody in Winchester knows or knows of Branson de Cou, and it will be a delight to welcome him back here.

CUT WIRES CAUSED DAMAGE

Electric light service in some parts of the town was temporarily disrupted last Saturday evening and considerable damage done telephone cables in the Highlands and at the center as the result of cutting several wires on pole 9 at Railroad avenue near Judkins Pond.

According to the police the wires were cut by the derrick being used to place pole in a trench at the construction job being done at the pond as a C. W. A. project. Apparently proper repairs were not made at the time and as a consequence a new pole was burned at Brookside avenue and Washington street with telephone cables and box, and other cables were damaged in front of the Town Hall, as well as on Main and Thompson streets. Patrolman Charles J. Harrold reported lights out on Washington street shortly before 6:30 in the evening and one of the new poles in front of the Town Hall shooting sparks. It was shortly after that the pole in the Highlands was reported ablaze. Lieut. John A. Harrold notified the Edison repair crews of the trouble.

ENTERTAINED FRIDAY NIGHT

"Dick" Bugbee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Bugbee of Symmes road, entertained a large number of his friends at his home on Friday night. Refreshments and dancing, with favors and contests, comprised a most enjoyable program. During the evening, Mrs. Harold Bugbee assisted at the piano.

Among those who attended the affair were the following:

John Bugbee, Jean Clement, Herbert Hopkins, Jane Wilson, Morton Ober, Barbara Moulton, Billy Rupp, Ann Rivinus, Winifred Cary, Elizabeth Collins, Dick Farnsworth, Margaret Hall, Harold Salomon, Carolyn Joy, Parker Mullen, Virginia Charin, Billy Spaulding, Patricia Underwood, Burton, Sydney Rollins

MISS AVERY GIVES AN EVENING LECTURE

Miss Avery spoke on the evening of Mar. 7 on the "Influences of the Pacific on East and West of Japan."

Our air service is less than the air service of Japan but the Japanese are not in developing this are ruthless and when she sends out a flyer she doesn't expect him to return. In Japan obedience is the first principle required by the samurai, obedience to the state for one's personal life does not matter but the good of the state does. Her problem primarily is her lack of room and this is back of her economic urge. It was the economic urge that made the discovery of America possible and it lies back of much of the unrest today.

Asia needs an outlet but the League of Nations now insists that no one nation can go out and seize another country's land. Russia is now putting war supplies in Siberia but she doesn't want a war at present, not for the next four years anyway until her second five year plan is completed. China has a population of 350 millions, India 250, Russia 160 and Japan 90.

Since Japan cannot get land she must have trade. The League's decision against her was effective and the placing of Pu Yi on the throne of Manchukuo proves this fact. Japan's maximum wage is one half shilling per day, England's three shillings per day.

When tariffs go up the prices with in tariff walls go up and dying industries are stimulated. India for example ended the year with 1,000,000 more spindles for cheap cotton cloth than Japan.

The population of Japan is 437 to the square mile and today that produces she has 2374 persons per square mile. China's density is 620 per square mile while that of the United States is 10 per square mile.

The new Japanese ambassador to Washington urges co-operation between the United States and Japan and says that war with Japan would be foolish and would be a sorry thing for both of us.

China has outlived every social strain that has ever come into her borders and their quality of assimilation renders her very powerful. And if she takes to force in 30 years she can fight any nation on the globe. The things that really aid China are famines, floods, war, lads, revolutions, an unbalanced budget, pestilence and Reverse.

In closing Miss Avery reminded her audience that communism comes from within, never from without.

On Mar. 10 and 11, today will speak on "Two American Problems, Cuba and Federal Money for More Homes."

INJURED AS TAXI AND SEDAN CRASH

Norman S. McPhee of 1-A Ivy street, Somerville, was injured at 2 o'clock last Sunday morning when a Ford sedan in which he was riding with James D. Gillis of 124 Holland street, Somerville, was in collision at the junction of Main street and the Parkway with a Town Taxi cab, Boston, driven by Lewis W. Melchionno of 63 Prospect avenue, Revere.

According to the police the taxi was going north on Main street and the sedan west on the Parkway. Both machines were damaged and McPhee complained of injuries. He was taken by Melchionno in his taxi to the Winchester Hospital where he was treated by Dr. Richard Clark for lacerations of the scalp and a back injury.

WELFARE BOARD ORGANIZED

Earle E. Andrews was re-elected chairman of the Board of Public Welfare at an organization meeting held last Friday evening in the Board's room at the Town Hall. Mrs. Ellen E. Wilson, who has filled the same position for several years, was elected executive secretary. The remaining members of the Board are Miss Nellie M. Sullivan and Malcolm S. Nichols.

Mr. and Mrs. James N. Clark of Bacon street returned home Friday after a cruise to the West Indies.

RECOUNT FAILED TO CHANGE STANDING

Beggs Election Confirmed—Little Change in Figures

The recount vote for Selectmen in the recent election, held last Saturday afternoon in the general committee room at the Town Hall, failed to change the original result, William N. Beggs adding to his lead over John P. Carr, whom he defeated on the first ballot by five votes.

Mr. Beggs' figures remained the same, the recount giving him a total of 1543. Mr. Carr's original figures dropped three votes to 1535. Mr. Macuire and Mr. Farnsworth each lost a vote on the recount. Mr. Lane and Mr. Merrill each gained a vote, and Mr. Wright's total was raised seven.

The recount was held under the direction of the registrars of voters, Miss Mabel W. Stinson, Miss Katherine O'Connor, Howard Costello, George Barham. Mr. Beggs was officially represented by Gerald Richardson, though he was present. Mr. Carr, who acted for himself. There were several other representatives present, and a number of workers assisting the registrars in the putting of the ballots on the boards.

Following are the new totals:

Henry J. Macuire	1570
Harold W. Farnsworth	1568
Edward H. Merrill	1548
Franklin J. Lane	1546
William N. Beggs	1543
John P. Carr	1535
Whiteley Wright	1529

ASLEEP AT WHEEL, RAMS POLICE CAR

Patrolmen William E. Cassidy and Archie T. O'Connell of the Police Department were painfully injured when patrol car 82 was damaged about 11 o'clock last Saturday night when the machine was struck by another machine while parked on Washington street near Dunham street.

According to the police the driver of the cruising car, Officer Cassidy, had stopped the machine to pick up a non-skid chain that had come off one of the wheels. He was examining the chain by the light of the headlights in front of the car while Officer O'Connell remained in the machine.

The other machine involved in the accident was a Chrysler roadster, driven by Everett E. Anderson of Edgerton street, Arlington, who was headed west on Washington street. Police say Anderson admitted that he had fallen asleep at the wheel of his car.

Both machines were damaged and the two policemen painfully injured. Officer Cassidy sustained a badly bruised thigh which was at first thought to be fractured. Officer O'Connell received injuries to his neck and chest, and a badly sprained back. Both officers were taken to the office of Dr. Richard W. Sheehy by Erskine Kelley of the Park Radio Company. After treatment they were taken to their homes.

MAGUIRE HEADS SELECTMEN

Henry J. Maguire of Westley street was chosen chairman of the Board of Selectmen for the current year at the first meeting of the board after election held Monday evening in the Town Hall.

Mr. Maguire has been Selectman for the past two years and this year has been acting chairman since the illness of the former incumbent, Irving L. Symmes. He has spent his entire life in Winchester and is well qualified to act as spokesman for his colleagues on the Board, having been a member and chairman of the Finance Committee and active in other phases of the community's civic life. He is associated with S. S. Pierce Company of Boston as a retail store manager.

John L. Heaton, a freshman at St. Lawrence University, Canton, N. Y., and son of Mrs. James P. Heaton of 101 Mystic Valley Parkway, was initiated last Saturday evening into Beta Zeta Chapter of the Beta Theta Pi Fraternity. Mr. Heaton is on the staff of the college weekly newspaper, a contributor to the literary magazine, and a member of the University News Bureau.

HEARING ON PROPOSED CHANGE IN ZONING BY-LAWS HELD

Extra chairs and settees had to be brought into the General Committee room at the Town Hall Monday evening to accommodate those who attended the hearing held under the auspices of the Planning Board to discuss the proposed changes in the town's zoning laws.

In general the discussion was limited to the proposal to enlarge the size of house lots in the town's single residence district from the present 6500 sq. ft. to 10,000 sq. ft. or more. William S. Parsons of the Planning Board presided and expressed his pleasure at the size of the attendance and the evident interest, which prompted so many to be present.

Outlining somewhat the working of the zoning laws in Winchester, Mr. Parsons told something of the benefit the town has derived from the protection they have provided, calling attention to certain undesirable developments outside Winchester that suitable zoning regulations would have prevented. He also touched briefly upon what in some communities not comparable with Winchester appears to be a relation between the tax rate and the size of building lots.

Discussion of the proposed changes in the local laws took up more than two hours. For the most part those who spoke seemed to favor the larger lot, excepting in neighborhoods already established where the average lot would be much smaller and where insistence on the larger lot might work a distinct hardship upon property holders. Those arguing for such an emergency seemed to feel, however, that proper could be made in the new law to cover just such cases. Some speakers felt that the larger lot should not be attempted at all in certain already established single residence districts.

Mr. Parsons, in his preliminary remarks, made it clear that his Board is particularly concerned with the possible development of the large tract of land west of Cambridge street at Wildwood street and along High street with other developments which might occur on the Gunn Estate, the Pond Estate, the old Snyder Estate, the Purinton Farm and at Russell Farm.

Some of those who spoke, felt that the proximity of smaller developments in Medford, admittedly undesirable, would make it unwise to attempt 10,000 foot lots at Russell Farm but in general opinion seemed to favor this limit or larger in developments such as those named. Attention was called to certain undesirable developments already made in Winchester and warnings issued that the "shock" of such developments would be in the hill district of the west side unless suitable zoning regulations are made to prevent such a catastrophe. The narrow view of the Board's undesirable development on the Purinton property was recalled.

Much of the objection to the larger lot, however, was on behalf of real estate operators who would seek to develop properties here, though there was objection raised for property owners who would be unable to dispose of their land favorably if the new law is adopted.

There were speakers who favored the adoption of the 10,000 foot lot without reservations, and others felt that in deciding cases where the larger lot worked a hardship the Board of Appeals would be likely to be too much swayed by alibits to the property in question who are likely to want to deny the petitioning conditions such as they themselves enjoy.

Residents of the west side hill district, who were present, voiced their surprise that the town has done nothing toward accepting the land offered by property holders in their neighborhood for a street to extend through from Cambridge street at Wildwood street to Lexington. Furtherance of this project was also urged by representatives of the Chamber of Commerce who were present.

Letters from the Chamber of Commerce and from Leverett Stanton, representing those interested in the development of the Pond Estate, were read by Mr. Parsons, both approving the adoption of the larger lot in single residence districts.

Among those who spoke were Mrs. Frances T. Conlon, James W. Russell, W. Allan Wilde, Earle E. Andrews, Jonas A. Laraway, Francis R. Henderson, Andrew H. Dwyer, Fred Larson, Mrs. A. Beatrice Thompson, Alfred Hildreth, Charles A. Gleason, Mrs. Lorence M. Woodside, Robert A. Stone, Dr. H. H. Dwyer, J. Dunne, James Dwinell, George F. Arnold, George T. Davidson, Frederick S. Hatch, Nathaniel M. Nichols and Charles E. Kendall.

MRS. ALICE W. BARTLETT

Mrs. Alice W. Bartlett of 16 Mason street, whose husband, the late George S. P. Bartlett, was for many years clerk of Selectmen, died Friday afternoon, Mar. 9 in a private hospital in Watertown, after a long illness.

Mrs. Bartlett's early life was spent in Cambridge and after her marriage in 1907 she made her home in that city until 1911 when she came to Winchester. She was a former member of the Fortnightly Women's Club, and was actively identified with the First Congregational Church, being a member and former officer of its Mission Union and serving as a teacher in its Sunday School until forced to retire because of poor health. Her pleasing personality and spirit of service made her esteemed by all with whom she came in contact.

Surviving her a son, George H. Bartlett, a graduate of Technology now living in Portland, Me.; a half brother and a sister, living in Worcester.

Funeral services were held on Sunday afternoon in Ripley Chapel of the First Congregational Church with the pastor, Rev. Howard H. Child, officiating. Interment was in Wildwood Cemetery.

Mrs. W. T. Carleton, who has been confined to the Corey Hill Hospital, Brookline, for a month, returned to her home in Rancely last Friday.

EPWORTH LEAGUE NOTES

Sunday night, Mar. 11, the gospel team continued their theme of the "hidden years" in Jesus' life. Earl Noyes' talk, centered around the baptism of Jesus by John the Baptist, was followed by an informal treatise of Jesus' temptations interpreted into the temptations of everyday life by K. Fillmore Gray. Ronald Brunner had general charge of the service, while Wilbur Gors led the prayer and scripture lesson. Mr. Gray played "Deep River" on his musical saw to the intense interest of us all.

Following the regular service a fellowship hour based on hymn appreciation was conducted by the team.

On Saturday, Mar. 17, at 7:45 an evening of games and refreshments will be enjoyed by the Leaguers. Mr. Holtzhaus and Mr. Gray will be in charge.

Mrs. E. E. Badger of Wedgemore avenue is back in town after enjoying a vacation in Florida, making the trip from Florida to New York by airplane.

PROVINZANO TO LEAD HIGH SCHOOL HOOP TEAM

At a recent meeting of the letter players, Frank Provinzano was elected to captain the Winchester High School basketball team for the season of 1934-35. Walter "Little Joe" Josephson was elected second team captain at the same meeting.

"Frankie," as Provinzano is universally known, is already one of Winchester's outstanding athletes, though but a sophomore at high school. As a freshman, he won letters in basketball and baseball, and this fall was one of the best half-backs in the Middlesex League, being chosen utility back on the varsity all league eleven. In basketball, he plays a forward position and was one of the fastest members of this year's championship quintet.

He succeeds his brother, Dominick as captain, though the elder Provinzano was unable to play much this year because of illness, and with two more years to go, should chalk up a brilliant record before hanging up his high school togs.

ROTARY CLUB NOTES

We record three absentees from the meeting of March 15, two of whom are on leave of absence.

As we consider recent announcements of new clubs affiliated with Rotary, it is interesting to note that the majority are located outside the boundaries of the United States. We do not incline to the opinion that this Rotary is getting into full stride as an international movement; that it tends to compel the respect and eventually the admiration by thinking men of the world over. We should be pleased to record illuminating comments on this viewpoint from officials whose outlook is broad and experience greater than our own.

"Nat" Nichols reports considerable progress in the arrangements for the annual dinner of the Chapter of Commerce, Lions and Rotary Clubs. We have been sufficiently advised to be enabled to make the statement that this occasion gives every promise of being intensely interesting to every citizen interested in the progressive development of our community. Our residents may well be proud of the successive efforts which have placed Winchester at the forefront among the better residents municipalities of this Commonwealth or indeed of our Nation. It is not to doubt that this progress is being conducted at an accelerated pace and that the dinner will be the greatest success of all.

Horace Ford, citizen of Winchester and late professional baseball player appeared at our meeting today and favored us with a talk on the national masthead with which he has been so intimately connected. Few speakers have been in our meetings who have so thoroughly commanded the attention of his audience as did Horace. Permission was given to ask questions from the floor, whereupon Horace short-stopped some of the hottest lines that he has yet encountered; which he handled in such a fashion as to make plain the reason why he was accustomed to stand at or near the top of the list in the matter of field averages. We are properly and unreservedly appreciative.

Please maintain our present favorable attendance record by coming to the meeting of March 22.

"THE SEVEN LAST WORDS"
Notable Presentation of Dubois' Work by Chancel Choir

The Chancel Choir of the First Congregational Church, under the direction of Organist and Choirmaster J. Albert Wilson, presented "The Seven Last Words of Christ," a Lenten cantata by Theodore Dubois, last Sunday afternoon in the church auditorium. There was a disappointingly small attendance and it is regrettable that more music lovers in and about Winchester failed to avail themselves of the opportunity to hear the choir's presentation of this beautiful musical story of the Passion.

Dubois' work, full of musical appeal and dramatic fervor, was splendidly sung by the choir with precision and the score through previous presentations permitting a depth of interpretation not so often encountered. The quality of tone was always a delight while the attacks and releases, both of which mean so much in the ensemble sections of the cantata, were done with the precision which bespeaks skilled and painstaking training. The louder passages of the score were thrillingly sung, but were balanced by a beautiful legato in the softer parts of the work, notably during the Second Word and in the prayer that brought the cantata to a close. The balance in the voices was especially apparent during the last named.

Assisting the choir, the soloists, Isabel H. Bishop, soprano; Josephine Taylor, contralto; T. Parker Clarke, tenor; and Kenneth McLeod, baritone, gave much pleasure. Mrs. Winslow sang the long opening solo effectively with a nice understanding of the context and her interpretation of the sadly appealing "Stabat Mater" in the Third Word was equally effective. Mrs. Taylor's rich contralto was heard to advantage in the brief passage allotted to her.

Mr. Clarke's performance of the difficult tenor role was especially praiseworthy. His fortissimo singing of the dramatic passages portraying the storm in the Seventh Word, with their climaxing high flat, sung against the full organ, being no less effective than the lighter tone achieved in the beautifully sustained music of the Second Word. Special mention should be made of his duet with Mr. McLeod which followed the introductory tenor solo in the Second Word, the chorist too combining with the soloists most effectively.

Few baritone sing sacred music better than Mr. McLeod and the great aria, "My God Why Hast Thou Forsaken Me," which is the entire Fourth Word of the Cantata afforded him fine scope for his ability as a soloist. The vocally taxing aria was beautifully sung throughout with a rich resonance of tone, the closing high F sharp and E being achieved without effort or loss of quality.

Mr. Wilson's playing of the organ was masterly and added much to the effectiveness of the performance. The singing of the choir bespoke perfect control and the organ music could be enjoyed apart from the singing with equal pleasure.

Written primarily for orchestra accompaniment, the score abounds with instrumental effects, all of which were skillfully introduced, while the particularly difficult passages occurring in the Fifth Word with their fast moving bass intervals were done without effort in his playing of the accompaniment for the tenor recitative in the Seventh Word and the succeeding passages depicting the storm. Mr. Wilson contributed one of the outstanding musical features of the entire cantata. He was equally fortunate in creating an atmosphere of hushed forboding during the opening bars of the introduction to the work. Rev. Howard J. Chidley, pastor of the church, explained the significance of the cantata before the performance and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. S. Winchester Adair.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

The regular meeting held in the Baptist Church, Mar. 16 was full of inspiration and courage. Letters were sent to our Senator and Congressman in Washington asking them to vote against the "Blind and Block Booking" bill in regard to motion pictures. Also a letter to the same representatives asking them to use their influence in securing votes against the bill which would repeal every vestige of Federal liquor protective legislation.

Mrs. Calderwood, state director of temperance, teaching in Sunday School, gave a very interesting and helpful talk on methods and plans of presenting temperance truths to young people. Mrs. Frank Roberts, retiring from office after 15 years of faithful service was presented with a table lamp as a love gift from the members of the organization.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kelley of Mystic Valley Parkway have been on a trip in the southern states for the past few weeks.

POLICE BUSY WITH PREPARATIONS FOR CONCERT AND BALL

Members of the Police Department are devoting much of the time of duty to furthering the big concert and ball which the men are staging in the town hall on Easter Monday evening, April 2, for the benefit of their association's relief fund. The sale of tickets has been in progress for several weeks and will continue until the day of the event. All are urged to assist the officers in their attempt to add a sizeable amount to their fund for relief this year.

According to plans announced by President James P. Donahuey of the Relief Association, this year's affair will be of unusual excellence. A big time concert program is being arranged to precede general dancing, for which a fine orchestra has been secured. Many stars of radio and stage have been secured to entertain those who are chiefly interested in the entertainment.

Camp Folders
For years it has been the practice of the Fellsland Council to develop a camp folder and application blanks, which were delivered to the Scoutmaster time after the 1st of April, and sometimes as late in the season as May 1.

This year, without any camp folder having been distributed, some Scouts are already asking for camp applications. In order to meet this demand, arrangements have been made so that applications for camp can be filed now. The "Get Acquainted Week" which begins on July 1, and for which a fee of $5 is being charged, seems to have started something.

Athletic Schedule Being Arranged
There are six weeks in the coming season. Scout Executive Harry T. French is arranging with four other Scout camps for a series of swimming meets, baseball and basketball games in which four of these events will be held at Camp Fellsland and four of them at the other camps.

There has been some criticism of Moderator Hayward for his willingness to encourage discussion and particularly explanation of articles to be voted upon at town meetings. It is our opinion that such criticism is unreasonable, though it may be in good faith by those whose familiarity with a question leads them to be impatient with others who happen to be less well informed. While it is always desirable to have meetings progress rapidly and smoothly, speed and harmony should never displace intelligent consideration. No precinct member should cast his vote for or against a proposition which he does not understand, particularly in view of the fact that his vote includes others besides himself, yet we would waver all the time if we had as little explanation of articles as this year, and there surely have been times when the average voter might well have wondered about certain points in question. If the opinion becomes prevalent that honest criticism and individual decision upon town affairs are desirable, it will become increasingly difficult to secure the right type of citizen to act as town meeting members. The entire worth of the limited town meeting rests upon the quality of representatives who are willing to serve. If they are led to believe that they are to be voting to the dictate of a few, and if they come to feel that they should not ask information upon questions about which they are in doubt, then there will be created a situation which can only result in a lowering of representative quality, a bad thing for all of us.

NOTHING TO IT

With the advent of the NRA New Deal Spine the usual crop of malcontents and churlish have again lifted their heads, but such criticism as has appeared has been promptly met and drowned by the thinking people.

COST OF THE DEPRESSION

To the Editor of the Star:
This tabulation was made up for the use of the Finance Committee in its discussion of the relief problem for 1934 and suggestion has been made that the figures are of sufficient interest to the citizens to warrant wider circulation through the columns of the Star. While the "figures" may sound somewhat confusing, they are necessary for a full understanding of the figures.

In the third column total of $68,572.28 there is included about $145,000 which was paid to local owners of small trucks, and which can really be considered as a labor loan; these were unemployed men who used their trucks as a tool for doing a day's work instead of a shovel. If this $145,000 be taken out of the labor column, then the amount paid for labor ulation of the country. It is realized that in such a gigantic experiment as this there may be some opportunity for this portion of our population to thrust itself into prominence and endeavor to undo the great benefits soon to be accrued. With the glass down to 10 this morning and March 23 listed as the coldest on record since the year 1875, great opportunity for churlish has been observed. However, the administration is complaisant, and the President continues to maintain his cheerful attitude and infectious smile. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson is reported waiting for the official word to jump into the breach. While the workers in small numbers are reported as dissatisfied, it is pointed out that 50 years from now we will all look back upon this date as a period of the dark ages and marvel at our inability to properly adjust ourselves to all conditions. Meanwhile we are urged to face with fortitude other aspects of present day conditions, and to quote from woeless predictions will experience continued cold today, with snow or rain tomorrow. It is, however, pointed out by the administration that this situation is only temporary and under proper supervision bound to remedy itself.

NOT THE WINCHESTER HOSPITAL

The Star is informed that some of its readers received the impression from its report of the first session of town meeting that a sum in excess of $10,000 was voted at that session for the Winchester Hospital. Such unfortunately is not the case. The appropriation in question was made to defray the town's share of expense in the operation of the County Tuberculosis Hospital at Waltham. We thought our meaning was clear and we still think so, but in case doubt still exists, the Winchester Hospital has not benefited by any appropriation passed at the current town meeting. We are sorry such is the case, and so too, we imagine, is Frank Crawford.

The Junior Guild of the Infant Saviour is serving a bean supper followed by an entertainment this Saturday evening, Mar. 24 at the new Fortnightly Hall from 6 to 7:30 o'clock.

By adding to this $142,000 which went into the pockets of our citizens, a further $52,000 for materials and equipment, the town now has the definite assets of a cleaned-up river, an extension of the water system, a dump partially transformed into an athletic field, an improvement in the look and condition of the interior of the Town Hall, the nucleus of a Town history, Highland avenue rebuilt, and several other worthwhile things.

Most of these would have been done and paid for during a period of years, instead of all at once, but the $142,000 plus the relief total of $29,000 had to be paid out in 1933 anyway for support of our townspeople. By adding the further $51,000 we have something to show for it instead of nothing.

MR. BRYNE'S CRANE NOT RESPONSIBLE

March 17, 1934

To the Editor of the Star:
In reading your last issue I noticed a news item saying wires were broken on Railroad Avenue by the crane which placed the drain pipes for the Park Department. At it was my crane which laid these pipes I became interested in the article.

I wish to say that neither my crane nor any men employed by me broke the wires which you mention.

Yours very truly,
George M. Bryne
Ed. Note—We are glad to record Mr. Bryne's publicity in this matter, and regret any misunderstanding our original story may have caused. Our information was secured from a report made to the police by the engineer in charge of the construction job in question, a source we deemed sufficiently authoritative. We have since been informed at the town engineer's office that the wires were cut by town workers.

FIRST ADJOURNED TOWN MEETING SESSION HELD

Symmes Park Water Tower to be Removed

After annual wranglings since its erection several years ago, the Symmes Park water tower is to be removed from its present location and relocated on town land near the Reservoir. The removal was voted at the first adjourned session of the annual town meeting, held Tuesday evening in the Town Hall, by 179 yeas and 12 nays. Appropriations totaling $93,274.54 were voted, bringing the total appropriated at the meeting thus far close to the million mark.

With the exception of the articles dealing with the tower and the continuation of the Aberjona campaign there was little discussion. In fact, motions were made and passed in such routine fashion that Moderator Hayward was prompted to remind the voters that they were at liberty to object to them or seek explanations of their merits or demerits.

Mr. Laraway and Mr. Larned seemed chiefly desirous of information throughout the meeting, and both at times objected to the motions offered, with however, scant success.

First considering Article 11, it was voted to authorize the Selectmen to fix the number of measurers of wood and bark at eight persons, and under Article 12 provision was made for the creation of a board of three members, to be elected at the next annual meeting and to serve as commissioners of trust funds, the administration of which has not been otherwise designated.

Robert P. Guild was again elected director to co-operate with the Middlesex County Trustees for County Aid to Agriculture, an appropriation of $20 being voted for his use in this capacity.

The reports of the several town committees were received and the committees discharged. Mr. Laraway protesting a sense of the meeting motion offered by the Economics Committee providing that after the close of the town meeting the various town departments shall meet and determine what economies can be effected in town administration with respect to labor, clerical assistance, purchase of materials, etc. Mr. Laraway took the Economics Committee sharply to task for having accomplished nothing during the year just past and for failing to make specific recommendations at the current meeting. He did, however, upon being questioned by Moderator Hayward, second the motion to "honorably" discharge the said committee, but objected to adding a "vote of thanks."

Again, despite the objections of Mr. Laraway, the meeting voted under Article 15 to appoint a committee of three citizens to co-operate with the Massachusetts Forest and Park Association in the detection and eradication of the Dutch Elm disease. Mr. Laraway contended that the committee is unnecessary and that any action the town sees fit to take should be taken by the free warden.

The sum of $25.00 was voted under Article 16 to indemnify Patrolman James F. Noonan of the Police Department for expenses incurred while recovering from the effects of being accidentally shot during police practice on the town range.

Under the following article $874.25 was voted to indemnify Fireman Edward Noonan for judgment secured against him by a former resident of the town whose automobile was in collision with Engine 3, being driven by Noonan to a fire, at the junction of Bacon and Church streets. Injuries as the result of the accident were claimed by the motorist and the case tried in the District Court at Woburn was decided in his favor.

Some explanation of the accident was asked by the meeting and Mr. Comins called upon Mr. Maguire to supply details which he said his board did not have. Mr. Maguire stated that Noonan had admitted going through a red traffic light at the time of the accident, and further added that the Selectmen have now specifically forbidden town employees to take such liberties with traffic regulations.

Mr. Laraway felt that Noonan should not be blamed for doing what at that time was generally done by fire apparatus and believed that equal blame attached to the motorist who should have stopped at the approach of the engine. He did not favor paying the money and believed the town should appeal the lower court decision. Mr. Ransdell, who represented Noonan at the time of his hearing by the Selectmen following the accident, stated that it was not clearly demonstrated that the fireman had gone through the red light and that the motorist was largely to blame for the accident, having failed as provided by law to pull to the side of the road and stop upon the approach of fire apparatus. He felt that the court could have decided the case either way.

Both Mr. Laraway and Mr. Gleason opposed the appropriation of $2700 to be expended for firemen's liens upon real estate acquired by the sale thereof to the town for non-payment of taxes. No champion appeared for the appropriation and upon the motion of Mr. Rich it was laid upon the table.

Article 19 was postponed until after the consideration of the article dealing with the removal of the water tower, it being closely related, and under Article 20 occurred the first real discussion of the meeting.

Under this article an appropriation of $40,000 was asked to continue the work being done on the Aberjona River. Mr. Comins, in giving the Finance Committee's approval of the expenditure, stated that $21,678.22 constituted an overdraft for expenses already entailed up to March 17. Mr. Comins championed the expenditure and felt that the work should be continued. He was followed by Mr. Davidson who outlined briefly what has been done on the river and explained the need for continuing, stating that no one can prophesy how much longer unemployment projects will be necessary.

Mr. Larned felt that the $40,000 should not go for the river work alone but should go into a fund to be administered by the Selectmen for any welfare projects where relief for those in need can be supplied. Mr. Laraway criticized the manner in which the money is being spent on the river, stating that not enough of the amounts appropriated is going to labor which alone offers real relief. He especially deplored the use of mechanical shovels at the gravel pit in the cemetery where the work could better have been done by hand.

Championing the appropriation, were Mr. Snyder, Mr. Fay, Mr. Olmstead and Mrs. McDonald. Mr. Snyder especially felt that the snap judgment of a meeting should not be permitted to set aside the findings of constituted town boards who have devoted much time to studying the problem of the river. He was applauded as he told of the substitution of parks, playgrounds and beauty for waste land and ugliness, concluding with the statement that the river campaign is creating a real asset of permanent worth to the town.

Mr. Fay defended the use of the power shovels and Mr. Olmstead explained that the C. W. A. time limit made their use necessary to secure sufficient gravel for the men to work with. Mrs. McDonald voiced the hope that the river work would not be concluded when the real eye sore of the entire job is still to be done. Mr. Andrews resented the slur upon the C. W. A. implied by certain speakers and stated that if the C. W. A. work was not done in an efficient manner it was because the local bosses on the job had fallen down.

The $4000 was voted and Article 21 postponed, the meeting then moving to the consideration of Article 25. Under this head $12,000 was appropriated for the reconstruction of Washington street from Forest street to the Woburn line, the work to be undertaken as a Chapter 90 unemployment relief project, additional funds to be furnished by the State and County.

Returning to Article 22 the sum of $5000 was voted to improve the river and adjacent land substantially along property owned by the Gelatin Company and Flora A. Davidson, an unemployment project, the owners of the land to be so improved having deeded the same to the town for Park purposes for $1 each.

The money appropriated is to be used in dredging and grading, and in explaining the project, Mr. Davidson said the work is necessary to complete the waterways improvement in that section. The option on the land expired May 1, making immediate action imperative. Mr. Laraway felt that it is about time to do some work in the river south of the center where people can see it.

Articles 23 and 24 were indefinitely postponed and under Article 26 the sum of $2000 was raised to resurface Main street from the Parkway to the Bedford line. Mr. Laraway again demurred, believing the traffic problem at Symmes Corner should be settled before anything is done to Main street. Mr. Maguire explained that this too is a Chapter 90 project and is to be done in connection with the State and County. Mr. Maguire adding that the Selectmen felt the opportunity is too good to lose.

Postponing Article 27 to the end of the current, the meeting faced the long awaited discussion of the water tank removal. Mr. Blaisdell moved a five minute recess for recuperative purposes and Mr. Laraway amended to adjourn. Both were overwhelmingly defeated, the "no" being literally shouted.

Under the Article the sum of $25,000 was asked to demolish the tower and relocate it on town land near the South Reservoir. Mr. Comins put the Finance Committee "on K" upon the proposal, stating that the committee felt it would be better to move the tower than fight damage suits lodged with the Tax Commissioners by property holders in the Symmes Park District and further pointing out that the removal can advantageously be carried out at present as an unemployment relief project.

Mr. Sanderson gave the removal the Water & Sewer Board's sanction, and in a lengthy address Mr. Fox outlined attempts of the property owners in the affected district to have the tank removed, warning his hearers of the strength of the petitioners' case before the Tax Commissioners and citing opinions by realtors of the depreciation in property caused by the erection of the tank.

Mr. Larned stated that the Commissioners at the request of the property owners had deferred action on the suits until after town meeting, but that if nothing was done at that time, immediate action would be taken.

Mr. Winn, while favoring removal, felt that property in the vicinity of the tank had not been affected to the extent claimed by Mr. Fox. In reply to a question by Mr. Terry, Mr. Winn assured the meeting that in the event the tower is removed, there will be no suits.

Mr. Laraway resented what he termed threats on the part of Symmes Park property holders and felt that their suits might not get as far as they expected. He felt, however, favoring removal of the tank, solely to be rid of the "everlasting wrangling" its erection in its present location had occasioned. Mr. Larned felt that the tank had been placed in its present location with the approval of duly constituted town boards, each one of whom stands indicted in the present necessity for removal with its heavy expense.

Mr. Ives favored removal as did Mr. Cranghetti, who also proposed a vote of thanks to the voters of Precinct 3 for bringing "the prodigal son" back into the limited town meeting fold.

Mr. Kendall stated that he as a member of the Water & Sewer Board had never favored the erection of the tank in its present location and Mrs. Presenden, speaking as a realtor, told something of the tower's effect upon property values and stressed the difficulty of further development while it remains in its present location.

The meeting was becoming impatient for the question and when put, the appropriation of $25,000 was voted, 155 in favor and seven opposed. The meeting adjourned at 10:47 o'clock until Thursday evening.

Following are the new appropriations:

County Aid to Agriculture	$ 50.00
Indemnification of James F. Noonan	553.25
Indemnification of J. Edward Noonan	674.25
Waterways Improvement	40,000.00
Washington Street Reconstruction	12,000.00
River Improvement (Unemployment)	4,000.00
Resurface Main Street	2,000.00
Symmes Park Tower Removal	25,000.00
Total	$93,274.54

WINCHESTER GIRLS TELL OF HOME LIFE IN SUMATRA

In a home raised aloft on "stilts" to keep out tigers and other marauding beasts at night, with an East Indian jungle for a back yard to play in, two Winchester girls, students in the Boston University College of Practical Arts, spent their childhood. They are Erna and Nora van de Groen of Orient street who are now completing an education begun in Sumatra and continued in Amsterdam, Holland; Chicago, Winchester and Boston.

Having found it necessary to be constantly alert to avoid stepping on the poisonous reptiles in their back yard, neither of the girls will admit to a fear of snakes. It is this disregard of what is usually considered a feminine phobia that arouses the greatest admiration among fellow students at B. U.

Erna said that that was the only white family within miles of the place where they lived. Their house, built on pillars, was set in the center of a large clearing in the jungle. The two little girls were allowed to play in the clearing, but were sternly cautioned not to go beyond for the wilds of Sumatra are full of tigers and snakes.

"At night," Nora volunteered, "the division of the house was a godsend, for not only tigers, but other beasts of all descriptions ventured to the very doorway and prowled around the yard and beneath the veranda."

Their father lost three dogs the first month they lived there, she said, because they remained out at night when the dogs were not to be out.

As children Erna and Nora moved from the Dutch East Indies to Holland, where they spent eight months in Amsterdam and, incidentally, experienced their first snowstorm. The family then moved back to Sumatra, this time taking up quarters in the city of Batavia.

The next move was to Amsterdam again where the girls were placed in school. In 1927, when the family moved to the United States, first living in Boston, then in Chicago, where they had residence in three different suburbs before moving to Winchester.

FIREMEN BUSY MONDAY

Monday proved a busy day for the local firemen, their activities culminating at 2:45 in the morning when they were called to the home of Mr. Roy W. Wilson at 5 Windward street where trouble had developed in an oil heater.

At 11:35 a. m. there was a grass fire in the rear of the residence of Mr. J. McGowan at 125 Cambridge street, and there were two more grass fires during the afternoon, the first at 1:57 on the Green estate and the second at 2:57 on Cross street near the patent leather shop of Beggs & Cobb.

The worst fire of the day was that reported at 3:42 at the home of Mr. Kirby Snell, 21 Fletcher street. Starting in a closet on the second floor of the house, the fire burned one room and a part of another, causing considerable damage. The house, occupied by Mr. Snell, is owned by Mr. L. E. Campbell of Arlington road, Woburn.

The fire was caused by a gas leak in action during the fire. Fireman J. Edward Noonan was out about the right hand, necessitating treatment for Mr. Richard W. Slocoby.

Telephone Box 63 came in at 8:23 for a bad chimney fire at the home of Mr. James W. Russell, 1 Walest road.

At 8:20 John Conley of Russell road notified the Central Station of a fire in an automobile on Main street near the Parkway. The car, a Plymouth sedan, was owned by Mr. A. Brewer of 46 Glen road.

JUNIOR GUILD BEAN SUPPER

There was insufficient room at the tables to accommodate at one time all the guests who attended the "Bean Supper" held under the auspices of the Junior Guild of the Infant Saviour in Waterfield Hall last Saturday evening.

More than 100 were seated at the first serving, and those waiting were accommodated as quickly as space permitted. There was a bountiful supply of refreshments, enough for everyone and to spare.

During the supper an excellent concert program was presented under the direction of Miss Dorothy Day. Readings by Miss Day and Miss Norris Chevalier were greatly enjoyed, as was a character sketch done by Master Charles Eubank, Master James McKail and Master John Raymond Gaffey, all of Melford.

Miss Barbara Chevalier as chairman of the supper was assisted by the following committee: Miss Ann McKenzie, Miss Brenda Dassel, Miss Patricia Croughwell, Miss May Willen, Miss Anna Tipton, Miss Virginia Farrar and Miss Elizabeth McCauley.

Assisting at the tables were Miss Katherine Henry, Miss Janet McKenzie, Miss Mary McKenzie, Miss Rose Felt, Miss Kathleen Cassidy, Miss Josephine Lydon, Miss Ruth Matthews, Miss Daniel Carr and Miss Ruth Thompson.

ARRESTED AFTER COLLISION

Patrolman John Murray of the Police Department was notified Monday evening of an accident on Mt. Vernon street. Upon investigation, he found that a Chevrolet sedan owned and driven by Robert A. Norton of 18 Chestnut street, Woburn, had collided with a Chrysler sedan, owned by Wilfred H. Howe of 128 Mt. Vernon street and parked in front of his residence.

Patrolman Murray found Norton in the Howe house reporting the accident. He was placed under arrest, charged with drunkenness and with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. In the District Court at Woburn Tuesday morning, he was found guilty and fined $20.

WINCHESTER COUNCIL HAD COMMUNION BREAKFAST

The annual communion breakfast of Winchester Council, Knights of Columbus, was held last Sunday morning in the Town Hall. After receiving communion at the 8 o'clock mass in St. Mary's Church, more than 100 members of the Council and their guests marched to the hall where breakfast was served by a caterer.

Seated at the head table with Grand Knight Arthur E. King were Rev. Fr. Conrad J. Quirk, St. Mary's Church, District Deputy Joseph M. Kirby, Past District Deputy Philip J. Gallagher, former Mayor of Woburn, P. T. Walsh, James V. Haley, Daniel Lydon and three charter members of the Council, John Lynch, Edward F. Maguire and Thomas Lynch.

Grand Knight King acted as toastmaster and those who responded toasts were Father Quirk, Charles H. Gallagher, Dr. Richard W. Shown, James N. Clark, Dr. Philip J. McManus and Past District Deputy John Lynch. The principal address was made by District Deputy Kirby who proved an able and most convincing speaker. Several vocal solos were contributed by John Duffy with John P. Griffin at the piano.

E. P. Sullivan headed the committee in charge of arrangements and was assisted by Frank Vogen, Louis P. Glendon, Gerald Semanator, Daniel Lydon and Grand Knight King.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

A. degree at the University of California. He is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Society and the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. Mr. Markham's mother, the late Mrs. Edwin Markham is the well-known poet, is himself a writer. No date has as yet been set for the wedding.

Mrs. Prescott R. Taylor of Stowell road left yesterday noon to visit her family in New York City and last week was taken to a New York Hospital and operated on for appendicitis. Word has been received that she is now comfortable and gaining slowly. It will be a month before she will return to her home.

TOWN TAX TITLES SETTLED

The Collector of Taxes and the Assessors working together, have settled 22 of the 48 Town Tax Titles, over two years old, that were taken up under Article 18 in the Town Warrant. The amount of taxes involved were approximately $3,500 and said taxes have been collected within the last few days, without exception to the Town.

In all cases where closed banks are interested Commissioner Long has issued a warrant, giving some abatement as to interest and costs, in order to avoid an act being put through the Legislature, to exempt the payment of all taxes due by closed banks. The Town of Winchester has now settled all taxes due from closed banks up to 1933 and expects to settle 1934 taxes in a few days. This leaves less than $4500 of tax titles over two years old uncollected, including interest and costs. Only four of these tax titles include houses and three of these are in the process of settlement.

MONTE CARLO BALLET RUSSE

At a meeting of the committee on arrangements at the League headquarters, coffee was served. Miss Eleanor Ives of Winchester and Mrs. Joseph Bradley pointed out the group meeting was to complete arrangements for the opening night at the Opera House of the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe. Winchester representatives are Mrs. Ralph Sparks, Mrs. Benjamin Hill, Mrs. Geo. Bradley and Mrs. Bowen Tufts.

Slippery Driving Last Saturday

The storm of last Saturday afternoon and evening resulted in some unusually slippery road conditions about town, particularly on Forest street and on Cambridge street, this side of the Country Club. Cars were reported as turning completely around at both places and police officers were posted to warn motorists to drive carefully until the streets could be sanded by the Highway Department.

At 9:30 Saturday night, a Ford roadster, driven by Charles A. Harrow of 26 Main street, Reading, while going west on Forest street near the residence of Mrs. James Hinds, skidded and struck a pole, damaging its left running board and blowing its right front tire. No injuries were reported.

Shortly after midnight Sunday morning, a Chevrolet cabriolet, driven by Donald B. McPhail of 194 May street, Needham, was in collision on Cambridge street opposite Langley's driveway with a Ford sedan, driven by Thomas J. Stewart of 40 Church street. The cars were headed in opposite directions and were both damaged. Miss Elmer Glidden of May street, Needham, a passenger in McPhail's car, upon reaching home after the accident, complained of injuries to her back and was treated by a physician.

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS CONVENTION

On Wednesday, April 25, Mrs. Vincent Clarke, Mrs. Benjamin Hill, Mrs. Geo. Witham and Mrs. Bowen Tufts will usher at the ballroom of the Hotel Statler for the morning session. This is the National Convention from April 22-27. Mrs. R. M. Hall of Cambridge is chairman of ushers.

CUBA AND HOUSING

The story of Cuba is an old one Miss Avery told her audience in her lecture on March 21. Cuba is in a state of semi-starvation from one end to the other, with sugar selling at only one and one-half cents a pound. She is now having for the first time a real Cuban revolt and it is a sign that she is about to become self-governing and independent.

Spain never gave any independence to her colonies for all she wanted from them was their wealth. Since the period of American dependency Cuba's holdings have been largely foreign owned but all officialdom is native. The average everyday Cuban has borne the brunt of the depression and the island has been growing poorer and poorer.

At the end of the war Europe returned to sugar production so that Cuba had to compete with both Europe and America and also with Hawaii and the Philippines. Most of the sugar had to be imported and now they are beginning to refine it themselves. Now sugar has been made into a basic commodity by the President.

Cuba's problem also is a black one and dates from the time the first slave was brought into the island. The Hawaiians and the Jamaicans made Cuba color conscious.

Moneda is the present President and is a conservative. The Platt amendment gave us the right and the right alone to intervene but eventually this cannot be kept for we don't believe now in the right of any one nation to intervene alone. The story of Cuba is the story of the evolution of a Spanish colony and although she is making progress she is making it slowly.

Turning to the housing problem Miss Avery said that we were the only nation that was indifferent to the housing problem. The question of slum clearance is world wide but the best authorities say that the American slum is the only slum of a major nation that is equalled by those of Tangiers, Moscow and Constantinople. In 1901 a housing law was passed in New York but houses condemned then are still standing.

All over the world are model houses for workers and new for the first time Federal money is available for slum clearance. There are today 1,500,000 Americans in New York living in congested tenements and two-thirds of the families of America have never been properly housed. It is said that you can't clear slums without subsidy and that is true. The government must however rebuke the working people on land cheap enough so that we can afford to keep them.

Federal money has now been appropriated for clearing the slums and building better homes at reasonable prices, but still the average American hasn't done much about it nor been much interested.

Miss Avery will give her last lecture of the season on April 4 speaking on "Latest Accomplishments of England" and "Background of Education."

MRS. ASHLEY K. HAYDEN, PRESIDENT OF THE REPUBLICAN CLUB GIVEN TEA BY HER BOARD

Friday afternoon, March 23 at the home of Mrs. C. Harold Smith on Francis circuit, members of the Republican Club Board gave a tea to Mrs. Ashley K. Hayden, president of the club. Mrs. Hayden is a native of Glenclary, who retired from office this year. This was a surprise gathering for Mrs. Hayden and when saying a few words of appreciation for a small gold pencil presented to her, she expressed her pleasure in the past year's association with the members of her Board.

Assisting Mrs. Florence Adriance, who poured at the tea table were Mrs. Kineman P. Cass, Mrs. Lucius Smith and Mrs. Stanley D. Howe.

Others attending were Mrs. Joseph I. Fessenden, Mrs. William L. Thompson, Mrs. William I. Palmer, Mrs. Fred S. Seales, Mrs. Frederick H. Norton, Mrs. Willard A. Bradley, Mrs. Henry H. Norris and Mrs. Edward R. Grosvenor.

EPWORTH LEAGUE NOTES

Sunday night, March 25, marked the last appearance of the Gospel Team from B. U. which has been with us the entire month. This meeting differed from the others in that it was wholly a consecration service. Special music was furnished by Mrs. J. West Thompson, violinist; Miss Ruth I. MacDonald, pianist; and Mr. K. Fillmore Gray with his musical saw. During the fellowship hour which followed, Mr. Willard Gouge gave a reading. As we joined hands in a circle at the close, Mr. Holthaus spoke of the enjoyment the members of the team had derived from their association with us, and Mr. Thompson, in behalf of the League, expressed our deeply felt appreciation. We are indeed sorry the month had to end.

Easter Sunday morning at 6:15 the Senior League will be the guests of the Hatch League at a sunrise service at the North Reservoir. Mr. Don Boyd from B. U. will be the guest speaker. Mr. Robert F. Butler will lead the singing in his trombone. Directly following this, breakfast will be served for all attending at the home of Mrs. Hazel Ayer, 151 West 11th street.

There will be no regular service either on Easter Sunday night or on April 15 when the League will attend a convention of the circuit league at Woburn. However, on April 8 Mr. Robert B. LeRoy will lead the Hatch League in a discussion on "Crime and Punishment" and Mr. Dexter LeRoy will lead the Perkins Chapter on "Finding God's Will in Our Lives." The cast of "The Road Back" which will be presented on Friday, April 13 promises us a fine production.

EPHYPHANY CHOR PRESENTED "SEVEN LAST WORDS"

On Palm Sunday afternoon the vested choir of the Church of the Epiphany presented "The Seven Last Words of Christ."

This requiem, written originally in French by Theodore Dubois and translated into English by Isabella Parker, is one of the most impressive and beautiful contributions to sacred music. The story of the last words of our Lord from the cross is brought to us with all the pathos and sadness of the man or savior. The sequence of thought, the amazing and beautiful words of Christ, together with the shouting of the multitudes is put into dramatic and awe-inspiring music.

The choir of mixed voices sang this requiem with proper reverence and religious feeling. Mr. Edgar Held, the organist and choirmaster, sang the baritone with ability and understanding, while his place at the organ was taken by Miss Hooper.

Mrs. Henry J. Bruno sang the soprano solo, especially difficult, was sung with an appealing tenderness. Mr. Thomas Howell, the young tenor, sang with full rich tone and spirit, and was decidedly pleasing to the congregation. Mr. Edgar Held was strong and earnest in rendering all parts. Even the small boys of the choir were imbued with a grave spirit and sang with seriousness. The church was well filled and the congregation appreciative. The Rev. Dwight Hadley conducted the service.

SILVER TEA

A most successful Silver Tea was held by the Ladies' Friendly Society on Tuesday, March 27 at the Unitarian Parish House. In a most charming manner, Mrs. Eleanor D. Ives sang a varied and delightful group of songs. The Rev. George Hale Reed read his paper entitled, "Neither East nor West." The paper was written with many humorous touches. Mrs. Arthur G. Robbins was general chairman and chairman. Mrs. Harold K. Burrows and Mrs. George Hale Reed poured.

BETHANY NEWS

The ladies of the society are consumed with curiosity to know what went on in the assembly hall Monday evening. It was a star affair, for fathers and sons only, and all we know is that "Chief" Kendrick fixed the oysters, and Warren Fogg the stunts. At any rate we somehow felt it will be a fine thing to have a Men's Club in this community and surely wish them success, trusting the sendoff was favorable. For full particulars it might be well to approach Mr. Saunders.

Mrs. Edward Weber was hostess at the afternoon tea served Wednesday afternoon of last week. Miss Abbie Potter and Mrs. Rony Snyder poured. It was a pretty occasion, with delicious dainties to eat, the chocolate icebox cake being the special feature. It was also a profitable occasion, and the receipts this time were turned in to the treasurer (not into her, as stated at a previous writing, due to the unintentional merging of two propositions).

On April 1, at noon, the usual Bethany luncheon will be served, followed by a business meeting. Mrs. Susan as committee chairman will be assisted by Mrs. Bowles, Mrs. Kendrick, Mrs. Potter, Mrs. Paul Thompson and Mrs. Twombly. Everyone is cordially welcome.

A satisfactory audience responded to the appeal to come out for the choir last Sunday evening, and found the effort worth their while. The press is allowed to state that the choir covered themselves with glory, but they modestly refuse further praise. They were ably assisted by their faithful friends who have come to the rescue before, and to whom you will have the opportunity of listening again at the Good Friday evening and Easter morning services.

The Y. P. S. wishes to announce through this column that they have secured for their service at 7 o'clock on April 8, the prominent speaker, Dr. Karl Bowman, Chief Medical Officer at the Psychopathic Hospital and Professor of Psychiatry at Harvard College. He will talk about Moods, the Blues, and all sorts of behavior problems. He knows his subject and will welcome any perplexing questions you wish discussed. It is hoped that a large audience will come to hear him. Everyone, old or young, is invited to attend.

The Bethany Society will have charge of the evening service on April 15, but the program has not yet been arranged. The president or any of the committee will welcome all suggestions which the members wish to hand in regarding this meeting.

Watch for further notice about April 21, the date of the semi-annual "Tempus is fugit" right along, and that means the spring activities are upon us, with only three months to go!

Your publicity agent has parsimoniously refrained from sending in sick-lists to the press, as it seems almost impossible to check up on everyone the same week, and the list of sore throats, grippe, coughs and colds would tend to be rather depressing. We do hope, however, that the calling committee is on the job! (Being an ex-member, it is safe for yours faithfully to say that.)

Easter will be here Sunday, and instead of being the climax of Lent and the end of religious effort and personal self-denial, rather let us consider it the starting point for renewed efforts along these lines. Anyone who has been able to come through the winter growth-free and uncomplicated, surely deserves the highest commendation. It has been a winter to test the mettle of the best, but we feel the sunshine is on the way, and that tightened lips will take on a smile again and that courage will be renewed within us all at spring's coming.

WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB "Willie Wins"

"Bill" Locke teamed up with "Monk" Russell to win the tilting match at the Rhode Island Sportsman show at Providence last Saturday evening. All week "Willie" had carefully thought out a plan of attack and "surprise" was to be his opening gesture.

Similar to Mechanics Hall in Boston, the Arena at Providence was fitted out with a tank 65 feet long by 30 feet wide and three feet deep, this filled with water, made a very fair spot for indoor water sports. The Winchester Boat Club defenders, Locke and Russell drew Richardson and Boston of Brock's Canoe Club of Dedham as opponents.

Each canoe now being ready, the spearmen faced each other and the paddlers advanced their boats slowly toward one another. "Go to it!" shouted the referee and that was the signal "Willie" had been awaiting one long week. With every ounce of energy behind it, "Bill" shot his pole at Richardson quick as a flash, but "Rich" was just stooping to tie his shoe lace and "Bill" missed him entirely and with nothing to stop him, out of his boat head first he "Willie" pitched.

The coldness of the water, "Bill" was now hot with anger. To think that his pole and carefully thought out plans had gone so soon askew.

Into the boat again he clambered, gritting his teeth and muttering to himself. The battle was on in earnest. "Bill" was more careful now. He abandoned his surprise tactics and used strategy instead. It was a merry set back to "Bill" knocked his opponent back into his canoe several times. In one of his falls Richardson broke one of the thwart but the fight waned on. Finally the boat went to "Willie" on points putting Winchester out front.

Sunday evening, "Gus" Pistorino and "Weenie" Pratt met the Binghams Brothers of Roxbury in the tilt but the several time champion Binghams were too good for the Winchester pair. The Samsot Club boys won in straight falls.

GIRL SCOUT NOTES

The last regular meeting of the freshmen-sophomore troop was held at the home of Mary Alice Mason on Tuesday, March 27 from 5 to 7 p. m.

Baby hands were made for community service work. After supper plans for next year were discussed and the work of this year summarized. Thirty girls attended the meeting. An invitation was extended to the troop for a day's outing at Marshfield during vacation.

LOCAL MEN AT NEW YORK FLOWER SHOW

Three men connected with the Snowflake Gardens of Winchester returned last Friday from the 21st International Spring Flower Show in New York City.

Mr. A. L. Heinrich was high in praise of the artistic creation of Marcel Le Pinae, who has repeatedly won first prize in America's most colorful shrine, Grand Central Palace. Five hundred square feet of stratified ledge was so cleverly reproduced that even professional landscapers men were held spellbound. A small gentle stream falling over the side of the ledge into a set of pools was most artistic in design. The whole planting of Alpine trees, shrubs and plants gave the impression of having grown there for years.

Second prize was won by Mr. Ralph Hancock's English Gardens, Inc. for a rock garden very similar to his garden that won the residents' Cup at the 1933 Boston Spring Flower Show. Mr. Hancock is now at work on the sensational penthouse gardens at Radio City.

The Snowflake Gardens plan to exhibit a New England Rock Garden at the 1935 Spring Flower Show in Grand Central Palace. At the recent Boston Show the Snowflake Gardens set up a prize winning waterfall display covering 1000 square feet. They also won second prize for a penthouse garden, done in black tile, with a New York skyline silhouette, pool, artistic plantings and lighting, and featuring the famous Amherst statue, "Sabra."

Next Sunday we are very fortunate in having as our speaker, Mr. Wade L. Grindle who will speak on "Sign Posts to Success." Mr. Grindle, principal of the high school is well known as a forceful and most interesting speaker, and we feel sure that the evening will be well spent in attending the First Congregational Church Sunday, April 1.

Following the service, refreshments will be served. There is no charge for this and everyone of high school age or over is cordially invited to attend at 6 p. m.

Tuesday evening shortly before 8:30 a resident of Symmes corner reported a man drunk on his lawn. Sgt. Edward W. O'Connell went to investigate and took the disturber into custody. At Headquarters he gave his name as James McLean of 9 Bancroft street, Roxbury. He was found to have been arrested here for a similar offense and was arraigned in court at Woburn Wednesday morning when his case was filed.

"CRUISE PARTY" FEATURES FINAL DANCE OF WINCHESTER JUNIOR DANCE COMMITTEE

A "Cruise Party" was the final dance given by the Winchester Junior Dance Committee at the Country Club on Friday evening, March 23. Music, which was exceptionally good was furnished by Kenneth Reeves and his orchestra. There were 75 young people attending and each wore some style of cruise clothing. Several girls were in slacks and beach suits and many of the boys wore white flannels and blue coats. All were very attractive and it was difficult for the judges, Mrs. Horace Butler of Glen road and Dr. and Mrs. William L. Davis of Central green to choose winners from among them.

They gave the prize to John Birdseye of Cambridge. He came as a stowaway, wearing blue coveralls and big boots. Miss Sally Wilbur, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Wilbur of Swan road was declared the prettiest. She was in a lovely dress and "starboard" lights burning. Hot dogs and bottles of ginger ale were served at intermission.

The large committee who has arranged these dances for the past two seasons feel quite repaid knowing that they have been very successful and most enjoyable.

ENTERTAINED AT DINNER PARTY

Miss Phyllis Lybeck of 9 Everett road, had a dinner party last Saturday night preceding the final Junior Dance at the Country Club. Among those who attended were Janet Fuller, Jeanne Phelps, Rebecca Jackson, Gertrude Harwood, Evelyn McGill, Frances Kelley, Alice Lyman, Barbara Corwin, Katherine Gilbert, Annette McCormick, Betty Carey, Doris Miley, Jean Farnsworth, Robert Graham, Charles Rounds, Elliott Blaisdell, Richard Hull, John Scully, John Carter, John Plummer, Charles Armstrong, Kirby Thwing, Robert Armstrong, Edward Stone, Edwin Logan, Harris Richardson, Dean Carlson and William Coit.

WINCHESTER YOUNG MAN WINS PUBLIC SPEAKING PRIZE

At the final try-outs last week, Gordon Gillett, a senior at Bowdoin College won the "Class of '36 Public Speaking Prize." This prize was established by that class and is awarded each year to a senior who can meet the requirements. From those who compete, 12 are selected, then six are taken from that 12 and at the final the winner is chosen. Besides the honor, the prize is a cash one. The contestants chose their own subjects for their essay. Mr. Gillett is secretary-treasurer of his class, president of the Delta Upsilon House and president of this, a senior honor organization.

Art lovers have found the current exhibition of water colors in the art room of the Public Library a real treat, many of the pictures being painted with a delicacy not often found in this medium. The Winchester Art Association is to be commended for its enterprise in making such an exhibition possible and indeed for all its efforts during the brief span of its existence in promoting a liking and desire for art in the community. The Association's position in the town and its ability to do worth while things is of course largely determined by its members and its growth will back its efforts by enrolling in its ranks. The dues are nominal and return the members with the satisfaction which comes with the ability to really appreciate a fine work of art.

A UNIQUE EXPERIMENT

The Star is printing this week a list of clean, wholesome films for children. It is given through the desire of the University Theater, Cambridge and is to be voted upon in making a selection for children's shows each Saturday morning.

This is an innovation in moving picture management, and upon its success depends a future of hanging upon the desires of its patrons. During the seven years of its existence the University has sought to establish a reputation for showing the best productions of the motion picture studios, and has at no time sought to attract the children to any program that it did not feel was entirely fitting and proper for them to see.

The success or failure of this plan from the standpoint of juvenile interest, entirely aside from the financial standpoint, will direct the course to be followed next season.

WE'VE GOT CODE

Well, our wings are sprouting. It now looks as though we are on our way to the big time. We have a code authority, code ethics, code administration and code management. We have made another contribution. This time only $11. In the past we have been out, so we expect further assessments. Meanwhile we seem to go on just the same as usual. Like the child who loved "round punch and air sauce," we love it, even though we know not why. And as our orders read "like it or not, all printers and publishers are to under the code," there is no force when you get your next circular intimating that the Star is not NKA, throw it in the waste basket and come up with us. You probably will know as much of what it's all about as we do. Thus far we are unchanged. Not that we expect to remain that way, of course, but it does seem strange to watch the checks go out and the bills pile up, and realize that we are a part of this gigantic uplift to mankind. A sort of sitting in the front row and tossing dollars on the stage as it were, and not even getting a smile from the choros. For, to these nine million men, we have been waiting to see what it's all about—and now we know—no much. We thought the code ended last January, but like a lot more of things we know no much. Thus far we haven't any employees' committee or shop union but give us time. We are prepared. We have a nifty telegram all written and addressed to General Johnson. Now we know why property has passed us by. During the time we have expected we have been welcomed—not with orders; with code. Good old NKA! We've got code.

FAITH

Caroline James Fitzgerald

Be thou content with one step at a time. Be thou content with the path that leads. Be thou content with the purpose of this plan. Be thou content that it will furnish all thy needs.

Great rivers and between overflowing hills. Be thou content, that thou shalt see the sun. The narrow stream the source will soon wane. And onward to the broader ocean will.

Thou dost not need to see the end in sight. It is enough to know that God is there. And with a faith that moves the mountain high.

Be thou content that thou art in His care.

There are no changes in the law divine. There are no errors in God's perfect plan. His work is done, and he will be here. And knowing it, is all the work of man.

CRITICISM OF COST OF MEDICAL CARE

Mar. 23, 1934

To the Editor of the Star:
The criticism of the cost of private medical care has been widespread, vigorous and fashionable in recent years. Many health officers and sociologists would have us believe that lessened cost would result by increasing state participation and supervision in the practice of medicine. Let us consider a specific instance of state medicine and judge from actual figures how economical and efficient the result is.

The Middlesex County Tuberculosis Hospital was built in Waltham about three years ago. Although the Town of Winchester was never consulted the bill to the town for its share of the initial cost of this hospital was a little over $60,000. At 5 per cent, the interest charge on this amount from now on is $3000. In 1933 the county of Winchester for its share of the maintenance of this hospital was $1533.80. In addition, the town paid to the county in 1933 $1655.57 for the care of its patients for 125 weeks. Thus the total cost to Winchester in 1933 for 135 weeks of hospital care was $2992.20 or at the rate of $68.21 per patient per week.

For $68 every patient could have stayed at home and could have been provided with food, fuel, clothing and adequate private medical care. For $68 every patient could have had a private room in a private hospital with adequate nursing and medical care.

Nor do we have prompt and efficient service as a solace for this tremendous weekly cost rate. Since the first of the year we have had only one patient in the hospital with two or three cases on a waiting list that is four months behind.

which prompted her to leave the Winchester Hospital against the advice of her physician and before she had fully recovered from a prostrating illness is thought to be responsible for her present condition.

WINCHESTER IN "PANDY"

"Pandy" Liguanea P. O.
Kingston, Jamaica, B. W. I.
March 16, 1934
To the "Star Family,"

Greetings:
The weekly arrival of the Winchester Star at "Pandy" occasions a wild scramble of competitive hands, all eager to claim it for the initial reading. This "battle" is ample proof that the press performs a much appreciated service for those who are removed from the scene of its common life. The personal letter is naturally outmeasured by the scope of the newspaper publication which brings to us the current history of our native home. In the pages of the Star we find ourselves sailing on a magic carpet above our beloved town of Winchester and through its incident-seeming looking glass we revel in the activities of its people. For this informative weekly cross-section of events we cannot be too grateful from the home hearth, with its extension of our sincere gratitude to the Editor of the Star and his able staff.

A Winchester wrapped in triple-thick blankets of snow and caught in the icy grip of sub-zero weather, presents a picture difficult for us to imagine who taste the dream of living in this island of long delight where the sun brews a beauty feast of flower-wine for our daily measure. How many times have I wished that I might discover a precious recipe of the gods that would enable me to parcel some of this heavenly gift in a skyrocket it to a bursting jewel above the house-tops of our friends and neighbors at home! But, alas, even my growing knowledge of the "sacred arts" of this Caribbean isle, with their convincing claim to mystic power, leaves me still leaning on the only medium of man over which I can claim even the slightest command, the written word. Therefore, I tap the keys, fold the sheet, stamp the envelope and put my trust in one of the good ships that sets its sail northward.

Since our residence in Jamaica during the past five months has proved to us conclusively that the casual tourist, because of the brief landing privileges afforded him, cannot assume even a speaking acquaintance with the island. I bow to the urge to bring a fuller knowledge of this place to our friends at home through the columns of the Star. If I can make every reader feel the urge to accept the brief blessings that this island affords, I have done what I have in some small way, at least, towards this goal. I have, in one of the happy gifts it has bestowed upon me, for the sake of mutual understanding, I would add, that, I have not been employed by the Board of Trade or Tourists Bureau, here, or any other body interested in the development of the island to convey this message. It is solely a personal score I wish to satisfy.

The climate? Yes, Jamaica is a tropic isle, but the stunning oppressive heat that the word "tropic" generally implies is wholly absent here. If one enters the port of Kingston in one of the luxurious trans-Atlantic liners that are frequent visitors during the winter months, over-decorated for Caribbean service, he may rightfully exclaim, when the ship comes to anchor above the watery ruins of the ancient city of Fort Royal, "Ah, this place is unattractive!" At water level, especially in this hour, the sun has a forbidding hand. That this is felt to a greater degree because of the stiffness of the ship's cabin, and because of the calm shelter of the harbour, the very security of which makes it one of the finest in the world, often does not occur to the passenger making his first visit to these shores. The ship docks at noon. A good many tourists make their way through the white heat of King street to Charles's Bar and with free planter's punches attempt to stave the tide of perspiration that marks their first reaction to the place. The woman traveler's delight in shopping expeditions must be satisfied and only a brave-hearted male soul can resist a linen suit and sun helmet. This attire usually spots the transient visitor and is seldom seen outside of King and Harbour streets, unless it be the necessary equipment of the planter or bookkeeper on a sugar, coffee, or banana estate who subjects himself to long hours of surveillance under the steady banner of the sun. A few wise travellers taste the cool essence of the air at a higher level when they take one of the few shorter motor trips possible within the limits of their stay. Spanish Town, Hope Gardens, Castleside, Gardens and Bog Walk. A rare visitor decides upon Newcastle, where the army barracks cling to the side of the mountain like alpine climbers resting before attacking the summit above. It is he who enjoys an incomparable vista of mountain, plains, and sea, and fills his lungs with clear, bracing air. I have no quarrel with these folk who go away from Jamaica with the feeling that they are glad to be out on the glowing blue again where salt breezes fan the broad decks. I only regret the misfortune which has regrettably been their part due to the cruise plan which permits such scant acquaintance. How can these voyagers know that discomfort from the enthusiasm of a tropic sun is not experienced even five miles from the heart of Kingston? Here at "Pandy," our fern-banked bungalow, located in upper St. Andrew, a morning reading of the thermometer shows 88 degrees and it has never seen the mercury rise above 78 degrees. During the day, the trade winds, lovingly termed the "Doctor," sing through the waving palms and tree branches, and at night, usually as soon as the sun has set, cool fingers of air run down from the mountains above us making an additional garment necessary to enjoy the eternal procession of the stars, the blinking play of the fireflies and the majestic march of the moon from sweet-blown shadows of our veranda. The topography of Jamaica automatically performs a climatic miracle. Only those who prefer the tonic of King Winter's Realm can be denied the temperature of their choosing, for the mountainous interior of the island, rising to its high point at Blue Mountain Peak, 7593 feet, is well tracked with navigable roads and dotted with comfortable hostelries.

The scenery of Jamaica challenges the breadth of imagination. Sweeping miles of agricultural plains studded with sugar cane lifting silver-tufted plumes in a shimmering, restless sea, the fans of banana wind-turges of dripping emerald terraces of fruit above a wine-red flower that looks like a bleeding heart; coloring brown-legged coconuts spinning musical umbrellas of gilded green above their sleek bodies, like entertainment from the scene of its common life; cocoa lanterns swinging from a network of mauve-tinted branches beneath billowing canopies of gold-crested leaves; dull green avenues of tobacco standing straight as soldiers in marshalled ranks; and trim skirted coffee trees wearing vermilion heads on their outstretched arms, so like thousand jewelled maidens stirred to an instant pirouette by the music of their own making. The steady rearrangement of the clouds, one the dark towering heights from whose hold is loosened a crystal maze of tumbling cascades and streams. A venturesome bamboo crossing the nearer hills in a waving arc. The swift-fading flush of a tropic sun mounting the velvet peaks of distant mountains, the misty green which, at the twilight hour, seem lost in a purple frown of perplexity. Curling, translucent combers, painting the sea with a white, lipped shore. Brief, barren islets, caught in a plunging net of iridescent foam. Green-faced gullies, where moss and bright-eyed wild flowers cover with soft-spoken graces the cruel history written here by the vanquished Maroons. Long, long ago, gardens so bright with color they burst upon the vision like the flags of all the countries of the world unfurled and dropped together in a command for peace.

Against this back-drop moves the ever fascinating spectacle of native life. A young mother sucking her blue-black babe at the doorway of a tiny wattle hut from the thatched roof of which springs a miniature sky-dragon. In the hard gravel yard, geese, goats, hens and pigs share their meager portion. Down sun-clipped paths come a wrinkled, hollow-eyed woman riding a rough-cut burro, at whose sides are slung two bulging hamper of garden produce. Her thin black lips pull at a dark pipe as she makes her way to the town market to sell her wares. "Good evening!" she mouths against the broken stem. "Good evening, mother," we reply, and the tiny wisp of a smile that lights her face is our reward for bestowing this honor. She is followed by a rhythmic file of younger women bearing great burdens on their gray "bored" heads. "Good evening, mama," comes from each lip. Our response, "Good evening, sister," is met with a happy toss of the head and the showing of strong white teeth. Bare foot children with slates under their arms are returning from the chapel-school on the hill. Now the fragrance of a song winds back and forth, their voices retreat, and the hills echo the song and produce it with infinite tenderness.

A cheery, courteous and unfeigned people, are these black persons of Jamaica. Knowing the bitter days of slavery that chained the roots of their existence to this soil, is to wonder at the fine quality of happiness which marks their response to every kind of service. Whatever the white man's soul may be in Jamaica, there is always a black hand to satisfy it. Social life in the island offers as wide a field of diversions as in any country in the world. "At home" and "tea" are fashionable and frequent. In the realm of sports one finds ample facilities for golf, tennis, swimming, riding, yachting, and for those who would rather observe than participate, there are races, cricket and soccer games. Open-air cinemas provide not always the latest pictures, but unless one is an avid fan of the silver screen, he can see here some of the better English and American films which had their run in the States not more than six months ago, and the pleasurable experience of sitting under the stars while a Hollywood favorite talks from the screen cannot be denied. There is dancing every night at the larger hotels where one not infrequently mingles with visiting notables and even royalty! And radios bring in the program of one's choice, whether it be the Metropolitan Opera or Massolli!

Yes, big lizards, little lizards and medium-sized lizards scuttle the length of the veranda and drape themselves artistically on table and chair, but their visits are like those of a rainbow in the sky, now seen, now vanished. No flies and therefore no screens, mosquitoes and moths? Yes. An occasional bite and an occasional wing in one's soup, but learning to whack the wing from the soup and not to scratch the bite are simply lessons in discipline! When a vermillion-winged moth whose wings spread the length of your middle finger, lights on your hand to dream for an hour while you are reading a book, you somehow feel yourself in tune with all creatures of the air.

Back to Apple Blum, lilies and old friends in May! The heart answers the sweet call of familiar things, but for the days that will follow, Jamaica will live with us and be loved by us and it will be our gift to the heart of her to scatter the seed she has placed in our hands for future flowering in the hearts of others.
